Veterinary Notes – danger of throwing sticks

By Rev. Mehitabel

From www.BBC.co.uk

Professor Dan Brockman claims a game of fetch can be anything but harmless, with dogs suffering as many injuries chasing and catching sticks as they do on Britain's roads.

Owners were urged to use rubber throwing toys or a suitably sized ball instead.

Prof Brockman, from the Queen Mother Hospital of the Royal Veterinary College, University of London, said owners also risk thousands of pounds' worth of vet bills by throwing sticks.

He added: "For vets it is one of the most frustrating kinds of injuries. Many injuries are minor but some are horrific. They range from minor scratches to the skin or lining of the mouth, to paralysis of limbs, life-threatening blood loss, and acute and chronic infections.

"The problem is that sticks are sharp - and very dirty. That means that, as the dog runs onto them or grabs them in its mouth, the end of the stick can easily pierce the skin, going through it to penetrate the oesophagus, spinal cord, blood vessels or the dog's neck.

"Commonly, small or sometimes large pieces of stick break off and remain inside the neck. These sticks are usually covered in bacteria, fungi and yeasts from the environment."

Prof Brockman led a study of both acute and chronic "stick injuries" in dogs.

He added: "Several dogs involved in the study died as a result of their stick injury and these deaths almost always involved resistant bacteria and infection that spread from the neck to the chest. What this research shows is that dogs that are allowed and encouraged to play with sticks can sustain serious injuries that result in bleeding to death, paralysis or acquiring infections that will kill them days or weeks later.

"For owners the cost can be huge. I have had dogs with stick injuries whose treatment has cost up to £5,000 - but which have ultimately died.

The good news is that there are plenty of healthy alternatives to sticks. Rubber throwing toys, Frisbees or just a simple tennis ball – all will keep a dog just as entertained as a stick - and a lot more safely too

The Medicine Wheel part 1

By Rev. Mehitabel

THE MEDICINE WHEEL - Circle of Life (part 1)

Adapted from http://www.spiritualnetwork.net/native/medicine_wheel.htm

A Medicine Wheel is many things.

- It is a physical manifestation of Spiritual energy
- It is a mirror for introspection allowing us to grow spiritually It is a wheel of protection
- It enables us to gather surrounding energies into a focal point and to commune with Spirit, Self and Nature
- It helps us understand the web of life
- It is a model to be used to view self, society, or anything that one could ever think of looking into.
- It is a tool for us to use for our Higher Good

Our progress through life is like the changing seasons, each one a step in our growth and achievement and this is marked by the medicine wheel where one season leads to the next.. The centre of the circle is the touching of the Spirit, the pure of heart, the truth as everything extends from the circle and everything comes together in the middle. For this reason the circle is used for ceremony, especially those that involve contacting the spirit world. This is a safe and protected place of love, a centered and grounding area.

As in Wicca, correspondences for the directions vary according to author. The following are the most usual across all the Native American tribes

SOUTH - Fire - Passion

Growth in the South it is the time of Summer. From the bloom we transform into the fruit of the labors. It is the time of mid-day, the hottest part of the day, the part when the sun is overhead and no shadows are cast.. Maturing and growing into an adult to be that who was are. It is the time to accept the change and learn, to understand.

Red is for fire, passion, time of fertility. The South is the place of passion in all things, sex, fertility, mating - the fires that burn within. The direction of fire, like the phoenix we can rise from the flames, we take and rise again from childhood into being an adult in the direction of the South.

Animals

The animals in the South represent pride, strength and courage. The eagle with keen sight and strong wings. The lion for the strength and courage to speak out and roar. The wolf so proud to be a team member of a pride.

EAST - Air - Flight

Beginings starts in the east - from where the sun rises we begin a new dawn. Each day is a good new day with a fresh beginning, a new start. East is the direction of the physical body and newness including children and new borns. It is the time of change for all is a new beginning. New ideas and seeing the light. Change. Spring is the season when all things begin to grow and awaken. Yellow is the path of Life, to begin the walk as a warrior, to shine in all that you do. The sun rising in the east empowers each of us. The energy to do and to begin the action of the mind and heart is there.

Animals

Animals of wings and flight include hummingbird, the owl, and the hawk. Our words are given to the east that the smoke in the air or the voices in the air may be carried to Spirit.

WEST (Blue) Water - Emotions

Later adulthood the time of Fall, the time of the setting sun - twilight. The daylight fades and brings a new awareness in this time of gradual change. When the darkness comes we must look inward to find the light and have courage. To understand what we see in the darkness may not be real but only shadows.

This is the emotional part of ourselves, like the flowing water we must learn to go with the flow of life. The time of the West is when we learn that we are responsible to all things and to each other. It is the time to prepare, to finish things for the time of Winter is coming. We gather ourselves and family, working together to prepare for what is to come. As the place of emotions it is the place of family and love - of responsibility from our hearts because of the love. It is hard work and team efforts. Black symbolizes change from this life.

Animals

The Beaver shows us of the team work and pre-paredness needed for the winter coming. The snake reminds us to shed our skin to grow and change.

NORTH (Green) Earth - Wisdom

As we get older our hair turn white, as we come to our time of winter. White (and purple) also symbolize spirituality. With experience and age we gain wisdom. Now we have time to rest and contemplate the lessons. North is purity and wisdom, a great place of healing. This is the time after midnight, a dream time. The time to be grounded within yourself and deep within, like a bear in a cave.

North is the place of winter. This reminds us to stop and listen. That we must have prepared for the long time of winter. Having been in action the other seasons we now rest and contemplate to understand the wisdom we have been given.

Animals

The white buffalo, Moose and Bear. Each prepared and have a layer of fat to sustain them through the winter. They are also the primary source of meat during the winter time for people. They rest and take things slow, not wasting energy, and with the understanding of what winter brings.

Book Review

Shamanism as a spiritual practice for daily life

By Rev. Mehitabel

Shamanism as a spiritual practice for daily life. Tom Cowan Crossing Press 1996 ISBN 13:978-0-89594-838-0

Tom Cowan writes with a comfortable style and his book is both enjoyable and informative. He turns the complexities of the shamanic path into a simple route available to all, showing us how to incorporate practices into our daily lives and makes the spirituality of shamanism available to all.

Shamanism is an ancient path, and one still followed by people across the globe as their ancestors have done since the beginning of time. In recent times there has been a resurgence of interest in shamanism, a desire to revive that which has been lost. Tom Cowan shows us how this re-invention of shamanism is taking place, and how it is necessary to avoid insulting those cultures that have retained shamanic ways by “taking” some of their sacred rituals without permission and without respect. Instead he teaches “core shamanism” and explains the three aims of this practice which are to perceive the spirit world as part of the natural universe, to learn the types of altered consciousness that facilitate the shamanic journeys which allow us to view our problems from a new perspective and to acquire and develop relationships with spirits in order to bring back information to help oneself and society. Core shamanism is a way of bringing healing to self and to others. Yet Cowan emphasises the need to “walk sanely between the worlds” to obtain a balance between the mundane world and the spiritual world that is necessary in western society.

Cowan explains the role of animals as both teachers and providers and teaches us how to find our own power animal and form a relationship with them. He then proceeds to explain the shamanic journey teaching us how to enter the three worlds with our power animal as guide and he explains that it is an intention journey with a purpose that actively initiates communication with the spirits.

The book goes on to explain the four sacred horizons, the four directions and their importance to shamanic practice. Here Cowan draws comparisons with other spiritual paths which make use of the directions for protection. He teaches us to meet both the allies and the adversaries of the four directions, how to honour the spirits of the directions, how to gather talismans and a shamanic bag, and how to use a circle and a cross.

Middle world journeys are given special importance for they help us rekindle our relationship with the spirits of nature by regaining awareness of the spiritual world that overlaps our own. These journeys allow us to travel to places that hold importance for us, to travel back in time to experience events of the past or meet ancestors, or to make pilgrimages to sacred places.

Awareness of the middle world enriches our lives and shows us our true nature. Cowan's book includes a chapter on the spirits of place, how to build a sacred site and how to make particular shamanic journeys such as pilgrimages, night vigils and vision quests in sacred power spots to bring spiritual enlightenment and understanding. He goes on to remind us of the importance of childhood, how to reclaim the innocence and understanding of those years and how to incorporate this into adult shamanic practice. He also explains how to show children the wonders of shamanic teaching, enriching their lives from an early age by validating their awareness of worlds beyond our own.

The penultimate chapter discusses ancestral spirits and explains how to journey to them in order to gain wisdom and understanding; how to gain an awareness of death, how to perform graveside rituals and how to be open to spirit dreams.

Finally Cowen gives some advice on sharing shamanic practice with others in drumming circles, the type of journeys appropriate for such sessions and the potential problems to avoid thus ensuring a successful group.

For the Children

By Rev. Mehitabel

Bubble Spell

From Baby Magic by Vidar Andrewson - Mind Fire

Have you ever blown bubbles when you were a child?

This rite is quite simple but will work if the right mindset is in order. First go out into nature, on a hill, in a field etc on a windy day if possible. Tell your child to make a wish and blow the bubbles. When they blow the bubbles their wishes are put inside the bubbles and carried up to the Gods where the bubbles pop who will see their wishes and grant them. Explain to them that sometimes the bubbles will pop before getting there by being attacked by Loki's forces who take the form of bugs, birds, crosswinds, people and other things. If they say a little prayer before the bubbles are blown to ensure a safe journey of the bubbles to the Gods then that will help them do beginning invocations.

Poets Corner

Poetry written and supplied by the Order of Bards
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/OrderOfBards/>

As a child there was a lake,
its water blue and green
a shady willow by the dock
I thought was made for me
My dog and I would fish and swim
and count the gentle waves sit and dream of times to come
sometimes we would pray
We knew there was a mighty force
that helped us every day
Keeper of the liquid realm
in his mighty way
My brother called him poisidon
I just called him friend
memories so valuable
we'd never ever spend
That great God of water
his silky wet embrace
whispered gently secrets
of his mighty grace
At night wed lie and listen
tucked away in bed
waters bedtime stories
though not a word was read
A lonely loon kept calling
out to find its mate
dragon flies stood sentry
as the night grew late
in the blaring jazz of dawn
sunfish flipped and played
again I sat and loved the lake
to it again I prayed
I fought with nasty pirates
and dove for Jauque Coustiou
and took my boat to 3 mile point
although I had to row
Gods of west and water clear
are my friends today
Ill never forget lake Simpco
where I grew and played Thankyou....
Blessed Be Willow (forever a water baby)

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition-- advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides.

Conscious dying and conscious incarnation.

Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multidimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries.

The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over).

Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead).

Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,

The Order of Web Weavers
