AHT Case Studies- Millie Byatt

Millie, our spaniel cross, is a very special dog. We 'rescued' her from the RSPCA many years ago. After a sad start to her life, we adopted Millie and she slotted into our lives immediately. Over the years, she has been an excellent companion to our flat coat retriever Harry, and then, after he died of cancer, our black labrador George.

Millie has always been pretty robust and healthy in spite of failing kidneys in recent years which we have managed with drugs. But in May this year, a few days after slipping as she was jumping into the land rover, she woke up in excruciating pain. We rushed her to our vets who quickly referred her to the Animal Health Trust. Within a day and in spite of her failing kidneys, she was having a life-saving operation to remove two discs from her spine. After a successful operation, performed by the AHT's Head of Neurology, Simon Platt, she remained at the AHT for about a week and when we collected her, we thought she might burst with excitement having clearly decided that we had abandoned her for good. (A rescue dog never forgets....) Following instructions from AHT, she was kept quiet in a puppy crate for a month and only walked in the garden with a sling to relieve herself.

Her recovery was rapid and she was soon whizzing about the Suffolk countryside again. Our only concession to her operation is that she is now lifted in and out of the landrover - an indignity she suffers with bad grace.

In August, we entered her in our village fun dog show. Having come second in the veterans' class she was eligible for the Best in Show class and was therefore up against puppies and young dogs alike. The judges decided that they would run the Championship class as a Dog Agility course, complete with tunnels, jumps and weaving poles. As we had done two years of dog agility classes with Millie she wiped the floor with an enthusiastic, obedient and fast display and walked off with Best In Show - at 12 years old and only a couple of months after a life-saving back operation!

Thanks to the Animal Health Trust and the care of Simon Platt and his nursing staff, we had a happy and pain-free spaniel back at home to enjoy her twilight years with the family she adored.

Pluto

Now we move onto the third of the outer planets. There have been ongoing discussions as to whether Pluto should or should not be included especially now that Pluto has been downgraded and is no longer considered a true planet.

Pluto is the farthest and darkest of the planets. When you choose to work with Pluto you must be willing to let go of everything and venture blindly into the darkness. In this realm there is no right or wrong nor is there good and evil. Every action and every deed are weighed the same. Pluto wants to teach you that the concepts of right and wrong are merely constructs. How you view words and actions is determined by what values your society places upon them as such most societies will have differing views on many different issues. When your deeds are examined what counts the most is what is learned from each action. How each action makes you feel inside will determine if it was right or wrong. Do you feel happy for what you have done? Do you feel regret and loss? These are the yardsticks by which your deeds are measured.

Pluto dwells in shadows and ushers in transformation. When you walk through the shadow land of Pluto you will face all of the issues that you have been hiding away. Filled with Pluto's energy you will find that these issues have been given new life and purpose. You will need to enter their darkness to understand the power they hold. When working with Pluto you will realize that everyone has feelings, thoughts and desires that they hide from the world. All people have a darker side that they feel needs to remain in the dark. However, Pluto tells you that knowing and understanding this dark side will help you to grow stronger and more complete. Not all people are proud of their dark side. However, Pluto shows you that your dark side houses your survival instinct. Even though you may fear it this dark side has the power to save you in times of dire crises.

Pluto will make you face all of the issues that you have been avoiding. When you choose to work with Pluto you give Pluto power over the dark areas of your spirit. What Pluto shows you will be used to help you to reach beyond your self-imposed limitations. The purpose of Pluto's challenges is to teach you the value of darkness. What is hidden here in the darkness may be the shadows of issues that you have hidden even from yourself. When Pluto becomes an active force in your life it is time for you to look at what you have been hiding. Pluto comes to tell you that these issues can no longer be avoided. By delving into the darkness with Pluto you will uncover what has been hidden even from yourself. This will illuminate many of the shadowed areas of your life. When you understand what has been hidden you will finally be able to see the patterns you have created.

Pluto asks you: Are there secrets you are keeping from your family? Are there behaviors that you are hiding from others? Are the events in your life that you are ashamed of? Do you have a past that causes you pain and regret? Do you hide your past from others? Do you pretend to be something you are not? Now is the time when the secrets will be revealed. Pluto comes into play and tells you that you cannot be invisible forever. You have to come forward so that you can release all of the guilt you are carrying. This is the perfect time for you to let go and come clean. Pluto tells you that secrets and dishonesty cannot last forever. If you step bravely forward and take responsibility now for what you have done then you may avoid the negative consequences that will come when these secrets are discovered by other means. When you live a life filled with secrets and lies you will eventually be swallowed up by the darkness and nothing will remain.

Every person reaches a point in their life where they must make a choice. These crossroads will change the direction in which you are heading. However, most often you will avoid doing what you know you have to do. The reason that you refuse to change is that you have become accustomed to your life. You are afraid of the new adventures that these changes will bring. Pluto asks you: How many times have you fled from my crossroads? What do you fear in change? Why do you not trust that the path will become easier and more rewarding? You need to have faith that the crossroads is the threshold to new adventures.

Pluto makes you face all of your fears. Pluto wants you to know that by facing your fears you will be able to understand where they come from. All fears have a logical source. Examining your fears will allow you to locate their source. Pluto tells you that you have much to learn from your fears and once you have faced them you will have grown stronger and more confident in your abilities. When you understand where the fear originates then you will break the power this fear has over you. These lessons are not easy and require great determination and courage. Pluto tells you that once you have mastered your fears you will be able to move forward free of the chains they had created in your life.

Part of the reward of working through Pluto's challenges is to be able to identify your own inner issues. Pluto will help you uncover the issues that are deep and out of reach. These are issues that you have hidden so deep in the darkness that only with the help of a master guide can they be uncovered. These issues are ones that follow you throughout many lifetimes. The fears and shadows that are carried forward over lifetimes begin to increase in power as you begin to forget their source and their purpose. Soon they begin to overpower your own life and they are the ones who live while you hide in the darkness. Allowing these issues to feed off of you will not help you to develop your own being. Being able to identify them will allow you to be able to resolve them and move forward.

Working through these issues you will be able to renew your own energy source. The goal of Pluto is to help you to uncover all of your hidden issues so that you can clear them away and transform your life. When you are able to clear away all of these shadows and ghost from your life you will free up vast amounts of energy. All the time and energy you have put into keeping up the charade and the illusions will now be re-directed into profitable and healthier areas of your life. Pluto works with you so that you can regenerate your life. Making your life new will help you to feel free. When you renew your life you will find new hopes and dreams that will begin to grow and encourage you to look forward. Release is the key to Pluto and when you feel stuck you are avoiding one of Pluto's main messages. Now is the time to stop building defenses and false worlds. Let the shadows go and walk forward in the light of freedom. This is the time to stop looking to the past and what went wrong but to look to the future and what you can make right.

Pluto tells you that it is time for your life to experience a period of death. Now is the time for you to look at all of the old and outdated patterns in your life. See what thoughts and beliefs have grown into obsessions. This is the time for you to destroy all these negative patterns and behaviors. This process requires a great deal of self-control as you will need to keep yourself moving forward and not give into the temptation of falling back. This is one of the most important lessons you will experience on your journey to self-knowledge. Pluto wants you to take the time to explore the darker side of your nature. Learning why you do and say certain things will help you to avoid these same behaviors in the future.

Pluto wants you to take the time to learn how to control yourself. When you are able to control your desires you will be able to overcome many of your weaknesses. This process will allow you to purge yourself of all the destructive thoughts and behaviors that have hindered your progress. When you reach a certain level of control you will be able to reach out and touch the realm of the forbidden. When you have control you will not be tempted by the underworld forces. This will allow you to control the unseen forces that swirl around you. When you have mastered your own life and darkness you will be filled with strength and have developed your own resources that will allow you to descend unharmed into the darkness of the other world and return with the true knowledge of Pluto.

When you work with Pluto you will venture into darkness. You will face your fears and you will face your own destructive nature. You will see what can happen if you continue to let your own power remain uncontrolled. Pluto wants to help you move through all of these challenges. Once you have been through the darkness you will have found the missing part of your soul. By merging your dark and light soul you will be able to become whole. Once whole you will be able to delve into the hidden realms to set a new course for your life. In these hidden realms lie the secrets that will develop your own magical soul. You will grow stronger and more confident to face anything that waits in the future.

Litha

Rev. Mehitabel

Source: http://paganwiccan.about.com/od/lithathesummersolstice/p/Litha_History.htm

An Ancient Solar Celebration:

Nearly every agricultural society has marked the high point of summer in some way, shape or form. On this date – usually around June 21 or 22 – the sun reaches its zenith in the sky. It is the longest day of the year, and the point at which the sun seems to just hang there without moving – in fact, the word “solstice” is from the Latin word solstitium, which literally translates to “sun stands still.” The travels of the sun were marked and recorded. Stone circles such as Stonehenge were oriented to highlight the rising of the sun on the day of the summer solstice.

Traveling the Heavens:

Although few primary sources are available detailing the practices of the ancient Celts, some information can be found in the chronicles kept by early Christian monks. Some of these writings, combined with surviving folklore, indicate that Midsummer was celebrated with hilltop bonfires and that it was a time to honor the space between earth and the heavens.

Fire and Water:

In addition to the polarity between land and sky, Litha is a time to find a balance between fire and water. According to Ceisiwr Serith, in his book The Pagan Family, European traditions celebrated this time of year by setting large wheels on fire and then rolling them down a hill into a body of water. He suggests that this may be because this is when the sun is at its strongest yet also the day at which it begins to weaken. Another possibility is that the water mitigates the heat of the sun, and subordinating the sun wheel to water may prevent drought.

Saxon Traditions:

When they arrived in the British Isles, the Saxon invaders brought with them the tradition of calling the month of June Aerra Litha. They marked Midsummer with huge bonfires that celebrated the power of the sun over darkness. For people in Scandinavian countries and in the farther reaches of the Northern hemisphere, Midsummer was very important. The nearly endless hours of light in June are a happy contrast to the constant darkness found six months later in the middle of winter.

Roman Festivals:

The Romans, who had a festival for anything and everything, celebrated this time as sacred to Juno, the wife of Jupiter and goddess of women and childbirth. She is also called Juno Luna and blesses women with the privilege of menstruation. The month of June was named for her, and because Juno was the patroness of marriage, her month remains an ever-popular time for weddings. This time of year was also sacred to Vesta, goddess of the hearth. The matrons of Rome entered her temple on Midsummer and made offerings of salted meal for eight days, in hopes that she would confer her blessings upon their homes.

Midsummer for Modern Pagans:

Litha has often been a source of contention among modern Pagan and Wiccan groups, because there's always been a question about whether or not Midsummer was truly celebrated by the ancients. While there's scholarly evidence to indicate that it was indeed observed, there were suggestions made by Gerald Gardner, the founder of modern Wicca, that the solar festivals (the solstices and equinoxes) were actually added later and imported from the Middle East.

Regardless of the origins, many modern Wiccans and Pagans do choose to celebrate Litha every year in June.

In some traditions, Litha is a time at which there is a battle between light and dark. The Oak King is seen as the ruler of the year between winter solstice and summer solstice, and the Holly King from summer to winter. At each solstice they battle for power, and while the Oak King may be in charge of things at the beginning of June, by the end of Midsummer he is defeated by the Holly King.

This is a time of year of brightness and warmth. Crops are growing in their fields with the heat of the sun, but may require water to keep them alive. The power of the sun at Midsummer is at its most potent, and the earth is fertile with the bounty of growing life.

For contemporary Wiccans and Pagans, this is a day of inner power and brightness. Find yourself a quiet spot and meditate on the darkness and the light both in the world and in your personal life. Celebrate the turning of the Wheel of the Year with fire and water, night and day, and other symbols of the triumph of light over darkness.

Litha is a great time to celebrate outdoors if you have children. Take them swimming or just turn on the sprinkler to run through, and then have a bonfire or barbeque at the end of the day. Let them stay up late to say goodnight to the sun, and celebrate nightfall with sparklers, storytelling, and music. This is also an ideal Sabbat to do some love magic or celebrate a handfasting, since June is the month of marriages and family.

Use of Colour in Healing – An Overview

Rev. Mehitabel

This article aims to give a very basic overview of an extensive topic. I would encourage anyone interested to read more about the subject.

Colour surrounds us and affects us. Some colours make us feel happy, other colours make us sad, some colours calm and some excite. Learning to use colours to help yourself and others is a valuable tool.

How does colour therapy work? From the quantum theory we know that everything in this world is pure energy by virtue of the spinning electrons in every atom. Light is energy, thought is energy, emotion is energy. When our own energy fields encounter another's, whether it be another person or coloured light, our energy field is changed for good or ill. Deliberate use of colour can achieve positive changes within us. Colour is used by advertisers to catch our attention and by the designers of public buildings to calm as in hospitals and prisons.

Energy in the body is viewed in many ways within the complementary medicine field. Qi or Chi is viewed as travelling along meridians in Chinese Traditional Medicine, while the Tibetan system views a series of 7 energy centres running up the centre of the body. These centres, viewed as whirling discs of coloured light, are known as chakras and are connected by channels known as nadi. We also view colours in the subtle energy bodies, and particularly in the aura. Examination of the colours of the aura can indicate physical and emotional problems.

We tend to be attracted to certain colours and repelled by others, and such feelings may change during our lives. These subconscious choices draw on the power of colour to help us. For example, someone starting a new venture may be attracted to yellow and will draw on this energy to communicate and think with clarity and confidence. We generally have a few colour preferences which stay with us throughout our lives and which define us, while preferences for other colours, as in the example above, will come and go according to need. Allow yourself to be guided by intuition here.

So how do we make use of colour? We can wear colours to draw on their energy, we can include them in our room décor, we can use coloured ornaments on our office desks or fill our gardens with flowers of a certain colour. Coloured light is extensively used in healing either as polarised light shone over a large area or as a pinpoint light used on the acupuncture points. These methods may be used to promote healing of injuries, relieve arthritis and muscle pain, treat chronic ulcers of the skin and more. We can also use colour in creative projects such as arts and crafts, and the very process of allowing creativity to flow without conscious direction can be healing and illuminating.

Long term colour preferences may indicate:

Red symbolises an energetic and vital individual who is strong, active, and extrovert but who may be quick to anger and prone to hypertension and stress diseases. Red may be balanced by calming blue.

Orange people are as energetic as red but tend to be more practical, and like red they are prone to stress. Orange may be balanced by indigo

Yellow symbolizes bright and sunny people with enquiring minds and who often overstretch themselves in their enthusiasm. Yellow aids clear thinking and may be useful at exam time. Yellow people tend to neglect themselves and so suffer from poor health. Yellow may be balanced by violet.

Green is the colour of selfless love, balance and harmony. Green people are close to nature and are often healers. They dislike crowds and tend to be over cautious and insecure. It is balanced by rose pink.

Blue people are soft and gentle, passive and introverted and need a calm environment. They are intellectual, good communicators and healers and are often in the medical professions. They do have a tendency to depression and this can be counteracted by using yellow and orange

Indigo people are strong intellectually and highly intuitive. They need peaceful and beautiful surroundings and are loyal and truthful but may favour themselves over others. Indigo is balanced by orange Violet people are sensitive and intuitive and are often employed in creative arts. They are easily hurt and their empathy may be abused by others. They have a tendency to emotional and mental disorders, Violet is balanced with yellow.

Short term colour preferences may indicate the following:

Red shows frustration, anger or defeat

Orange suffering from exhaustion, mental or physical fatigue

Yellow suffering disappointments, feeling powerless

Green mental disturbance, loneliness, rejection

Blue anxiety or fear, loss of wealth or status, sense of failure

Purple pretentious, conceited, vanity, can avoid close relationships

Brown desire to stand out as an individual, or to stand on your own feet

Black desire to be in control and not relinquish personal power

Blockages and negative qualities of colours are:

Red Inability to accept life's responsibilities. Ruthlessness, pushy, quick-tempered, stubborn. Balance with blue

Orange Fearful, timid, shy, lack of interest in life. Problems with sexuality and relationships. Balance with indigo

Yellow Jealousy, envy, fear, emotions and living by patterns learned in childhood. Feelings of lack of power, obsessional behaviour, disoriented, muddle-headed Balance with violet.

Green Insecurity, needing to be loved and protected. Feeling that life is unfair or unjust. Victim mentality. Balance with pink.

Turquoise Confusion, turmoil, inability to move through your own boundaries and limitations. Destructive thought forms. Balance with magenta

Blue Difficult to express yourself, motivational problems. Head in the clouds, daydreaming and not in touch with the real world. Balance with red

Violet Fears and phobias, relying too heavily on the intellect and not on your intuition. Doubting and apologising for yourself. Balance with yellow Magenta Denying your own needs, martyrdom and self-sacrifice, inferiority complex, trying to control others. Balance with turquoise.

Test your colour preferences using a row of coloured pencils. Quickly choose the two that attract you. Don't spend too long on this as it needs to be a subconscious preference. The first colour is what is affecting you now and the second is the area of challenge in your life at this moment. With this information you can balance the negative effects with other colours as shown above.

If you experience any health problems please visit a health professional first before trying these techniques.

Shadows of Birds

Shadows of birds
Ungainly flight
Across the lawn.

No feathered gems,
Their silken black
Is swiftly gone.

Shadows of day
Untouched by time
Like shadows of birds,
They fly, they fly.

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be

THE ORDER OF WEB WEAVERS CRYSTAL WEB MAPPING PROJECT

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: www@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers
