Horse

Horse has been with us from pre-history and symbolises nobility, strength, grace, power, beauty and freedom. The horse is a symbol of earth force and the four elements. This image of four horses, typically as harbingers of doom, occurs in the last book of the bible, and again, more recently, in a vision of a famous Native American leader.

The Celts often considered the horse to be a symbol of war, and Rhiannon was the main horse Goddess. We have the well known image of the white horse carved into the chalk hillside in southern England. Black horses traditionally symbolised mystery and white horses symbolised birth.

In dreams, the horse is often said to symbolise success.

Meditate with the horse and learn its secrets. Even better, spend time with real horses, talk to them and gain a connection so that you understand their moods. You will find it is an experience that you will want to hold onto forever.

Multi-faith Calendar

Rev. Nehal

Multi-faith Calendar - Coming up:

29th May:

Jewish: Shavuot (1st day)

Shavuot is a two-day festival that marks the time when the first harvest was taken to the Temple. Also known as the Festival of Weeks. Work is not permitted for the duration of the festival.

There is no set date for the two-day festival but it takes place seven weeks (fifty days) after the first day of the spring festival of Passover. This also marks the start of the wheat harvest and the end of the barley harvest.

Shavuot marks the time that the Jews received the Torah on Mount Sinai. It is considered a highly important historical event.

The Christian festival of Pentecost also comes from Shavuot.

Prayers are said on Shavuot (especially at dawn) to thank God for the five books of Moses (known as the Torah) and for his law. Some people also spend the first night of Shavuot studying the Torah.

Synagogues are decorated with flowers and plants on this joyous occasion to remember the flowers of Mount Sinai.

Dairy products are also eaten during Shavuot. There are many interpretations about why this custom is observed.

It is believed that once the rules about the preparation of meat were revealed in the Torah, the people of Sinai were reluctant to eat meat until they fully understood the rules.

Bahai: Ascension of Baha'u'llah

This important holy day is celebrated on the 29th May, at 3am.

It commemorates the anniversary of the death of the founder of the Bahá'í faith, Bahá'u'lláh, and his teachings.

Bahá'u'lláh died peacefully on the morning of 29th May 1892. He now lies buried in Bahji, in a shrine surrounded by a stunning garden, which is designed to symbolise the order of the world in the future.

Pilgrims to the Bahá'í shrines in Israel visit the tomb to pray there.

This solemn anniversary is a day of rest, and is often observed by reading or chanting from the scriptures.

31st May:

Christian: Pentecost – Whitsun

The seventh Sunday after Easter, commemorating the descent of the Holy Spirit upon the disciples and the birth of the Christian Church.

Pentecost is the festival when Christians celebrate the gift of the Holy Spirit. It is celebrated on the Sunday 50 days after Easter.

Pentecost is regarded as the birthday of the Christian church, and the start of the church's mission to the world.

The Holy Spirit is the third part of the Trinity of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit that is the way Christians understand God.

Celebrating Pentecost: Pentecost is a happy festival. Ministers in church often wear robes with red in the design as a symbol of the flames in which the Holy Spirit came to earth.

Hymns sung at Pentecost take the Holy Spirit as their theme, and include:

- Come down O Love Divine
- Come Holy Ghost our souls inspire
- Breathe on me breath of God
- O Breath of Life, come sweeping through us
- There's a spirit in the air
- Spirit of the Living God, fall afresh on me

Pentecost Symbols: The symbols of Pentecost are those of the Holy Spirit and include flames, wind, the breath of God and a Dove.

The First Pentecost: Pentecost comes from a Jewish harvest festival called Shavuot. The apostles were celebrating this festival when the Holy Spirit descended on them. It sounded like a very strong wind, and it looked like tongues of fire.

The apostles then found themselves speaking in foreign languages, inspired by the Holy Spirit.

People passing by at first thought that they must be drunk, but the apostle Peter told the crowd that the apostles were full of the Holy Spirit.

Quote & Thought of the Day

Rev. Nehal

Quote of the Day:

“Birth and death are not two different states, but they are different aspects of the same state. There is as little reason to deplore the one as there is to be pleased over the other.”

Mahatma Gandhi

Thought of the day:

When you are doing what you know you are meant to do, there's no need to struggle. Instead of difficult or challenging or frustrating, there is simply doing.

When you are merely interested, or when you're following someone else's dream, anything can distract you. Yet when you're pursuing your very own passion, nothing has the power to stop you.

True passion is not a matter of gritting your teeth and forcing yourself to take action. True passion is allowing all your words, thoughts and actions to resonate with who you most authentically are.

There's no reason to fight against yourself. Instead, allow yourself in every moment to live out those interests, qualities, longings, ideals and purposes that you value most.

There is a reason why some things feel right and other things don't. Pay attention to those feelings, for they tell you who you truly are.

From you own beautiful, unique spirit can flow a wealth of goodness and meaningful achievement. Feel it, know it, allow it and it will come.

The First Congregational Church of Wicca by Robin Woodsong

Witchcraft is a religion of field and grove, river and stream. In coven or individually, we perform rituals to renew our connections with the Goddess and God. However, what suits one may not answer the needs of another. This need is being satisfied by a new form of involvement for those who feel that solitary ritual is not always satisfying, but that a coven is not the answer. This form is congregational Wicca and it is gaining interest. Congregational Wicca serves the Pagan Community, and our society, in ways impossible for individuals or covens.

I was a solitary for several years after finding the Old Ways. It was that wonderful time of research and learning. I held private rituals in ways and in places that meant something to me alone. My solitary path was very rewarding, but I found I wanted to work with others in circle. My first group ritual with a local coven was a revelation. I found ritual with a coven is wholly different in feel and depth. I found group work deeply satisfying, yet did not have the time nor inclination to join a coven. The time devoted to coven work is beyond many peoples' abilities, especially those with strange work schedules like mine. Furthermore, joining a coven incurs responsibility to that group, responsibility to contribute time, effort, teaching and attending rituals. All based around many other folks' schedules and ideals. Some of us want more freedom than coven membership gives. So what is a solitary Witch to do if they want more interaction than an occasional full moon or drum frenzy, but can't make the commitment to a coven?

Congregational Wicca supplies this need quite neatly.

The American Heritage Dictionary defines a congregation as: "A group of people gathered for religious worship." This definition is very limited compared with what a congregation can be. A congregation can be a village, the extended family many of us lack in our insular lives. A strong congregation can allow the public noncommittal access to the religion and philosophy of Witchcraft, and values inherent to rational living and thinking. Drum frenzies and open full moon celebrations are very popular and common forms of congregationalism, although pagan festivals are perhaps the best example. Pagan festivals make available teaching, personal interaction, spiritual counseling and ritual, to old timer or neophyte. Individuals are free to attend rituals and classes, or to skip them all. This choice is the essence of congregationalism.

There are many benefits a congregational format would bring. One important benefit of a public Church of Wicca would be to give seekers a safe place to learn more about the Craft. We constantly hear from many people who are seeking, teaching and community. At present, the best we can do is to direct them to Wicca 101 classes, open full moons or occasionally someone we personally trust who is accepting students.

Judith Brownlee of Fortress Temple has been hosting a form of congregational Wicca for the past eight years. "We were getting people from introductory classes, what we call Wicca 101 now, who were interested, who considered them selves Pagan, who wanted to do the occasional observances. But they were, not interested in initiation, they were not interested in the time and emotional commitments of being priest and priestesses. So I have told them that they were welcome to be in the congregation. They would get invitations to the eight sabbats. One of the things my congregation really seems to serve is solitaires who want to have available a group observance if that is what they are up for, but one they don't have time to make any kind of commitment to." Fortress Temple's congregational format allows spouses of those interested in Witchcraft to experience rituals without implying continued interest or involvement. "Mostly it has to do with partners who think that the person who is coming is involved in something terrible. If they can come and look around, they can see that nothing weird is going on. Once they have come, they may come again occasionally, with permission, or they ask for training in a 101 class." said Brownlee.

Another local leader involved with congregationalism is Morgan Ley of Morning Star Coven. Morgan founded the Denver Open Full Moons in 1989. "We started the open full moons for several reasons. It was a place for solitaries to get together. Another reason was so the public could see what Witchcraft was all about. The police could walk in and see what we do," said Ley. Although Ley thinks the full moons fulfill a needed function, she doubts a congregation can keep the spirit of traditional Wicca alive. "I don't Tact, love and common sense think that you can serve people must rule in making decisions Wicca. People need to be about a particular person's responsible for their own spirituality and not have it fed to them by clergy.

So how can we tread the middle ground? We want to keep the involvement inherent in a solitary path while limiting the demands of personal contribution.

Congregational Wicca provides this middle path by demanding only as much as each person wishes to give in time and resources.

The first issue is whether to employ paid clergy for a congregation. Paying clergy to officiate, to serve us the Gods, will create a bureaucracy which will eventually exist to prolong its own existence, not to serve the community. Clergy serving Pagans must experience life fully. Only by working and living in the real world, by experiencing the same joys and frustrations of the congregation can Pagan clergy truly serve the community. This means we will not have the full time clergy performing tasks clergy of other religions routinely fulfill. I think this is a blessing. Within the congregational community individuals can take on those functions. Within a group run by consensus there are still persons who take on the everyday tasks, such as mailings and newsletters, arranging rituals and lectures. The beauty of such an arrangement is that every member has an opportunity to give input and can tailor their contributions to the extent interest and time allows. Another issue concerns the meeting place. Currently most gatherings in the Wiccan community take place in individual homes. This provides an inexpensive and intimate gathering place, but for many reasons, it is not a good place to welcome strangers. There are many other meeting places available for a small fee. Or you could consider purchasing a building. A building would provide a focal point for the Wiccan community, allowing a congregation to develop cohesiveness. However, buildings are very expensive and need maintenance. Although Pagans have bought buildings around the country, it takes a large and well-established group to do so.

So, assuming, we have developed strategies to deal with the issues above, what do we do now? How do we structure a congregation of Wicca? The essential element to a successful congregation is a dedicated core of people who will take responsibility to find speakers, ritual leaders and places to meet. This group should be open to anyone interested in devoting time, but have sufficient structure to allow consensus. Infighting at this level is particularly dangerous, and has destroyed many a Christian church and Wiccan coven. Leaders in Paganism serve a community, not themselves. The best leaders will be those who take on a task because it needs to be done, not for personal validation or power it brings. A person brought kicking and screaming into leadership is probably a good choice.

The next step is informing the pagan community a congregation is forming. Hundreds of people are looking for a spiritual home, but it will take time for them to feel comfortable and they will need reassurance that this place will offer what they need. Advertising through local Pagan magazines, at Pagan bookstores and in Wicca 101 classes will hopefully draw in those persons who are most interested and have something to contribute.

The hardest part of an open congregation is keeping harmony in the group. Some people will use the congregation to make sales, to hunt for sexual partners and as a platform for personal issues. Tact, love and common sense must rule in making decisions about a particular person's place in the congregation. If we sacrifice the needs of the congregation to keep disruptive people involved, the congregation will wither. Rules of conduct can be developed by the congregation and each person will be responsible for following them. If a person rebels and says no one can set limits on their behavior, they are right. But we need not tolerate that behavior in our circle. They can go be themselves somewhere else. If a person cannot or will not act in love and harmony with the congregation they will be asked to stop coming.

So what would a Wiccan church do? We function on many levels, the spiritual, the intellectual and the physical. Each of these incorporates aspects of the others. I see a congregation as a place of teaching, ritual and simple enjoyment of each other's company. Not all of these aspects will be fulfilled at every meeting. Nor is that a realistic goal. We may celebrate a Sabbat and have a potluck feast at one meeting and have a teacher and song sharing at the next. The ideal is to nourish all the facets of our personalities without elevating ritual over learning or fellowship over ritual.

In an increasingly impersonal society each of us needs a place of sanity, a place where we are loved, cherished and appreciated as individuals with unique things to offer. For many of us we find that place in a coven. But the need is growing for a larger, more dynamic structure which could meet many needs without the strictures of coven membership. Congregational Wicca can fill those needs.

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be Krystel

THE ORDER OF WEB WEAVERS CRYSTAL WEB MAPPING PROJECT

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: www@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers
