Pagan Calendar October 31-6 November

October 31 Halloween (also known as Samhain Eve, Hallowmas, All Hallow's Eve, All Saint's Eve, Festival of the Dead, and the Third Festival of Harvest). Every year on this day, the most important of the eight Witches' Sabbats is celebrated by Wiccans throughout the world with traditional Pagan feasts, bonfires, and rituals to honor the spirits of deceased loved ones.

The divinatory arts of scrying and rune-casting are traditionally practiced by Wiccans on this magical night, as in standing before a mirror and making a secret wish. The last night of October was the ancient Celt's New Year's Eve. It marked the end of the Summer and the beginning of Winter (also known as the dark half of the year).

In many parts of the world, special cakes and food are prepared for the dead on this night. In Ireland, a Halloween festival is celebrated annually for the ancient Pagan goddess Tara.

This day is sacred to the goddesses Cerridwen, Eurydice, Hecate, Hel, Inanna, Kali, the Morrigan, Nephthys, Oya, Samia, Sedna, Tara, and Vanadis.

On this day in the year 1970, the Parks Department of New York granted the Witches International Craft Associates (W.I.C.A.) a permit to hold a "Witch-in". The event was held in Sheep Meadow and more than one thousand persons attended.

November 1 On this day in ancient Rome, the harvest-goddess of fruit trees, orchards, and all fruit-bearing plants was honored with a festival called the Pomonia (Feast of Pomona) which marked the end of the growing season.

Many modern Witches celebrate the day after the Halloween sabbath with a feast commemorating fruition, maturity, immortality and resurrection.

All Saints' Day. This is one of the most magical and powerful days of the year to practitioners of Voodoo, and a time to perform rituals for spiritual strength and protection against evil loas (spirit-gods).

In Latin America and Spain, the Day of the Dead is celebrated on this date with offerings of food to honor the spirits of deceased loved ones. A festival known as Cailleach's Reign is celebrated annually on this date by many Pagans throughout Ireland and Great Britain in honor of the ancient Celtic Crone-Goddess.

November 2 All Souls' Day. In England, small offerings known as soul cakes are traditionally set out for the dead every year on this date. According to folklore, this is considered to be an extremely unlucky day for wedding ceremonies. Those who are wed on All Souls' Day are sure to be cursed with misfortune, illness, divorce, or an early death.

November 3 On this date in the year 1324, a Witch named Dame Alice Kyteler suffered death by fire in the first and most famous Witch trial to take place in Ireland. Nine others were arrested, found guilty, and sentenced to various punishments. In Egypt, the final day of the Isia takes place on this day. This annual festival celebrates the rebirth of the god Osiris through the sacred and life-giving milk of Isis.

November 4 In ancient times, a Pagan festival honoring the Lord of Death was celebrated in England every year on this night (the Eve of Guy Fawkes Day). The bonfires and mischievous pranks associated with modern England's Mischief Night are actually remnants of the old Pagan customs.

November 5 Every year on this date, young men gather in Shebbear, England, to turn a large red rock called the Devil's Boulder. The centuries-old custom of turning the one-ton rock (which was flung into the village square by the Devil himself, according to English folklore) conjures up ancient magickal powers and brings peace and prosperity to the village.

November 6 On this day, the birth of Tiamat ( an ancient Babylonian goddess known as the Dragon Mother) is celebrated. According to mythology, Tiamat and her consort Apsu gave birth to all the gods of the world, and the earth and the heavens were created from Dragon Mother's severed body.

gonw.about.com

The rulers of this tree are Venus and Sun and in magic we use the bark chips and the oil. It is considered one of the holiest woods ,feminine and receptive is nature. Cedar denotes great beauty and strength and it is highly protective, when worn. It is also thought of bringing money and wealth ,when burnt. Cedar opens up intuitive channels and brings compassion and humility. It is a symbol of prosperity

Merry Meet fellow Wiccans to my Wiccan World

The week has passed by and the autumn is here for sure in Sweden, now! The leaves on the trees are yellow and turning more and more in to red, and they also falling off and leave the trees naked. This is the dark period before the winter comes with snow, that light up the season we have at the moment. This is a season I most dislike of the four different ones that we have.

During the week we have had to go to the veterinarian with our male dog, and that was a test for me as it was the same one we took my female dog for her last sleep. He had an inflammation in his ears, as it was full of ear-wax and smelled sour. A dog don't get inflammation in the ears as we human, they get fungus that irritates the ear canal. Which produce the massive amount of ear-wax. We were ordained to give him medicine in form of ear-drops, which he shall have twice a day. This has made his inflammation to be 100 times better, and he has no ear-wax left. We are scheduled to go on a revisit on Tuesday, and I think that the veterinarian will say that his ears look good, then. My male dog has been so, so good when I have had to give him his ear-drops. I am proud over him, and we have gotten an even stronger bond between us now.

I have also during the week got my Dragon Reiki Level 1 Attunement, and that was a great one. I sensed when my Mentor scanned me, to see that I was open and ready for it. I then felt when she started as I took three deep breaths, and a bubbly, fizzy body-warm lava flow started to swirl around in my body. It continued during the Attunement, and also I could feel when she finished as I, again, took three deep breaths. I waited for a couple of minutes, and then I started to move. She sent it on distance, but we were in synch in time. I still have the lava flow sensation in my body, but it is a lovely feeling to have though.

I have discover my dragon, and she was already with me, as you have in 2nd Degree a lesson when you "Ride the dragon", so I just had to rediscover where I had her and we were on the go again. My dragon is a Red Fire Dragon and her name is Ulunzunti, and we are a part of the Dragon Healing Order and I also got my crystal in the meditation which is a blue Sapphire and I will now continue to read the Level 2 Dragon Reiki and see what that will lead me to. I feel privileged to have been attuned to Dragon Reiki and what I can do with the source of having it. My journey with my Dragon has just begun, and I am so looking forward to work with the source and my Dragon, and see where we will go together with knowledge from it all.

During the week to come I will attend the Memorial and Isis Ritual, and also on Friday the Healing Ritual. I have started to write my Gaia Ritual, and for next time it will involve a Coliseum arena and a fire in the middle of it. That is all I reveal for now, more to come later.

Take care until Monday. Blessed be all of you and love always to all my brothers and sisters in Correllian Tradition. Love and Light, Hugz and Blessings

Stone of the week: Angelite

Angelite is a stone used to connect with the Angelic realm, including angels, guides, otherworldly beings, and even your High Self. It is thought to bring serenity, inner peace, and a sense of calm and encourage forgiveness. It is very useful when you are stressed and feeling overwhelmed - just let the peace seep into you. Angelite is useful for enhancing telepathic communication, intuition and psychic awareness. It's also useful for increasing a couple's or a group's ability to communicate more effectively. In Crystal Healing it's used for the thymus gland, heart function and the circulatory system. It balances polarity, aligns the physical and etheric bodies, and provides a protective field as you do so. It is associated with the throat chakra and the Third Eye Chakra.

The Principles of Reiki

Part Three – Reiki Principle 3

By David McDonald

Merry Meet everyone. This week I am going to continue on with an in-depth look at the Reiki Principles. In this issue we will take a look at principle number three, “Honor your parents, teachers and elders.”

III. What do our parents, teachers and elders all have in common? The answer, Wisdom. Each and every one of us has had our lives touch by each of these individuals. Our parents raise us and guide us. They show us how to love but yet also show us how to be our own unique person and individual. They love us unconditionally and teach us how to do the same. Teachers help mold our minds, give us the knowledge we need to be successful in life regardless of our chosen path and/or profession. They are our mentors and coach as we transition in life. Our elders, those who have experienced life and lessons we have yet to learn or experience. Our elders are those who are filled with wisdom and pass it down to us. With all that these individuals give us how can we not show them honor. Choose to honor them because of their humanity. For when we honor them and others, we honor ourselves. For we all are connected.

Take what the wonderful individuals have given us and pass it on. As time passes we become the parent, teachers & elders who will help shape the future and the lives of those close to us.

Goddess bless to all.
David

"Being a Most 'Un-Fluffy' Compilation of Magical Spells, Incantations, Herbal Lore and Cures Gathered from Ancient and Reliable Sources..." -

Drawn from Leland's "Aradia or Gospel of the Witches," Hohman's "Pow-Wows," Lady Wilde's "Ancient Legends, Mystic Charms, and Superstitions of Ireland" and other classic traditional sources (including the complete text of T.F. Thiselton-Dyer's "The Folk-Lore Of Plants!"), every word in THE SAMHAIN SONG PRESS ULTIMATE GRIMOIRE AND SPELLBOOK OF REAL ANCIENT WITCHCRAFT was penned half a century or more before Gerald Gardner's 1950's release of "Witchcraft Today," the book that is credited with having launched the modern Wiccan tradition. This is a true "pre-Wiccan" witch's spell book filled with clear instructions for making magick happen, for cursing and curing, for binding a lover, for recovering stolen objects, for conjuring prophetic dreams - every imaginable application of the supernatural arts. It is at once a practical guide to wielding magick the way our ancient ancestors understood it, and a mesmerizing window into their "Most Un-Fluffy" true beliefs and way of life.

The Troll-Tear

A Children's Story for Samhain

by D. J. Conway

The night was very dark, with a Full Moon hanging in the cloud-filled sky above. The air was crisp with the feel of late Autumn and the doorway between the worlds was wide open. Carved pumpkins sat on the porches of the houses in the little town, and the laughter of children dressed in costumes could be heard from the streets.

It was a sad time for Beth as she climbed the little hill behind her house. In her arms was her cat and friend Smoky, carefully wrapped in his favorite blanket. A little grave was already dug on the hill, waiting, for Smoky had died that day.

"Do you want me to go with you?" Beth's father had asked.

"No, I want to go by myself," she answered. "I dug his grave beside MacDougal's at the top of the hill." Beth clearly remembered when their dog MacDougal had died after being hit by a car.

Beth stopped at the top of the hill and knelt beside the little grave. She carefully laid Smoky's blanket-wrapped form in the earth and covered it with dirt, laying several large rocks on the top. Then she cried and cried.

"Oh, Smoky, I miss you so much!" Beth looked up at the Moon, tears streaming down her cheeks. "Why did you die?"

"It was his time to rejoin the Mother," said a deep, gentle voice in the darkness.

"Who said that?" Beth looked around but saw no one.

"Dying is part of the cycle of life, you know." One of the boulders on the hill stirred into life.

"Who are you?" The moonlight shone down on the little woman, and Beth could see she was not human.

"I'm a troll-wife," said the creature as she came to sit across from Beth. "This is a sad night for both of us, girl. I, too, came to this hill to bury a friend." The troll-wife wiped a crystal tear from her cheek. "The squirrel was very old. Still it makes me sad."

Beth stared at the troll-wife. The little woman was the color of rock in the moonlight, her hair like long strands of moss, her bright eyes like shining crystals. She wore a dress woven of oak leaves and tree bark.

"The squirrel and I lived together for a long time," the troll-wife said. " We often talked to your cat when he was hunting here on the hill. Smoky and I were friends. I shall miss him, too." The little woman patted Smoky 's grave gently, "Sleep well, little friend. When you are rested, we shall talk together again."

"But he's dead," Beth said, her voice choked with tears.

"Child, this is Samhain. Don't you know the ancient secrets of this sacred time of year?" The troll-wife motioned for Beth to come and sit beside her. "It is true that our friends have gone into a world where we can no longer physically touch them, but the Mother has given us other ways of communicating with them. We can do this any time, but the time of Samhain is the easiest."

"I don't understand how this can be done," Beth said, "or why Samhain makes it easier."

"At this time of year," the troll-wife answered, "the walls between this world and the world of souls and spirits are very thin. If we quiet and listen, we can hear our loved ones and they can hear us. We talk, not with spoken words, but with the heart and mind."

"Isn't that just imagination?" Beth looked down at Smoky's grave, tears once more coming into her eyes. "Like my thinking I can feel MacDougal get up on my bed at night like he used to?"

"Sometimes it is, but mostly it is not imagination, only our friends come to see us in their spirit bodies." The troll-wife reached up her hand and patted something Beth couldn't see on her shoulder. "Like my friend the raven. He is here now."

Beth looked hard and saw a thin form of hazy moonlight on the troll-wife's shoulder. "I've seen something like that at the foot of my bed where MacDougal used to sleep." She whispered. "I thought I was dreaming." She jumped as something nudged her arm. When she looked down, nothing was there.

The troll-wife smiled. "Close your eyes and think of MacDougal," she said. " He has been waiting a long time for you to see him."

Beth closed her eyes and, at once, the form of her little dog came into her mind. His tail wagged with happiness. She felt a wave of love come from him, and she sent her love back. Then she felt the dog lie down against her leg.

"Can I do this with Smoky?" Beth asked.

"Not yet," the troll-wife answered. "He needs to sleep a while and rest. Then he will come to you. This gives Smoky time to adjust to his new world, and you time to grieve for him. It is not wrong to grieve, but we must not grieve forever."

"I never thought of it that way," Beth said. "It's kind of like they moved away, and we can only talk to them on the phone."

"It is this way with all creatures, not just animals." The troll-wife stood up and held out an hand to Beth. "Will you join me, human girl? Although I buried my friend squirrel this night, I still must dance and sing to all my friends and ancestors who have gone on their journey into the other world. For this is a time to honor the ancestors."

Beth joined the troll-wife in the ancient slow troll dances around the top of the little hill in the moonlight. She watched quietly while the troll-wife called out troll-words to the four directions, words Beth couldn't understand. Deep in her heart the girl felt the power of the strange words and knew they were given in honor and love by the little troll-wife.

When the troll-wife was finished with her ritual, she hugged Beth. "Go in peace, human child," she said. "And remember what I have told you about the ancient secret of Samhain."

"I will," Beth answered. "Will I ever see you again?"

"Whenever the Moon is Full, I will be here," the little troll-wife said. " And especially at Samhain."

"I wish I had something to give you." Beth hugged the little woman. "You have taught me so much." She felt the tears come to her eyes again.

"Let us exchange tears for our lost friends." The troll-wife reached up a rough finger and caught a tear as it fell from Beth's eye. The tear glistened on her finger. The troll-wife gently touched her finger to her cloak, and Beth's tear shone there like a diamond in the moonlight.

Beth reached up carefully and caught one of the troll-wife's tears as it slid down her rough cheek. It turned into a real crystal in her hand.

"Remember the secret of Samhain, and remember me," the troll-wife said softly as she disappeared into the darkness. Beth walked back down the hill, the crystal clutched in her hand. Her father was waiting for her on the porch.

"Are you all right?" her father asked as he gave Beth a hug.

"I will be," she answered. She opened her hand under the porch light and saw a perfect, tear-shaped crystal lying there.

"Did you find something?" her father asked.

"A troll-tear," Beth answered, and her father smiled. For he also knew the little troll-wife and the secret of Samhain.

A Witch's Words to Her Familiar On Samhain

Still your mind, and still your soul,
Heed the words that make you grow,
Listen to the winds of the sages,
Learn the wisdom of the mages,
Handed down to us from the ages.

Time is ours, but only fleeting,
Hear the wings of eternity beating,
Soon enough we'll all be meeting,
And each of us merrily greeting.

The moon will be full,
And round, and bright.
And we'll be whisked away,
In the dead of night.
To the place we are meant to be,
To learn and grow,
And maybe see,
A spectre of what we should be.

Time is ours,
Frozen, but brief,
Allowing us to release our grief,
To open our hearts and minds once more,
And step through the sacred door,
Of time and space, and futures past,
To teach us the spells to cast.
So we may once again be free,
To live and love and blessed be.

So still your mind,
And still your soul,
And open your heart,
And set yourself free,
On this Samhain, I challenge thee.
Learn the truth from mages old,
The truth which was foretold.
The time is right, the night is new,
We can learn what not to do.

Warnings from the great beyond, we'll heed them or all cry,
For lies can no longer be told, when you look me in the eye.
I've learned a lesson, bold and true, and now there are but a few,
Who understand the depth of change, and how we all must rearrange,
Our thinking and goals, for times anew,
If the world is to survive, for me and you.

We've got our work cut out for us, my friend.
And we must not fail, before the end,
Or all will be lost, and fate will be no more,
And finally the great beyond, will close the door.

Time and space will exist no more,
My friend, my familiar, we must work to prevent war.
Peace must prevail for ten thousand years,
And we must make sure it does.
Our souls eternal bond will hold,
As our bodies grow old.
Fear not the great beyond, my friend,
For it is a beginning, not an end.

Our work will continue for eternity,
Until everlasting peace shall set us free.

Spanish Wiccan Blog and Podcast

Wiccan blog and podcast in Spanish, 13 lunas (13 moons), created and maintained by Rev. Clara Fuentes (aka Harwe Tuileva), a Correllian priestess from Spain.

The blog seeks to keep Pagans and Wiccans from all the Spanish-speaking countries informed by means of an easy access format, and, of course, for free. Besides, the recent creation of a radio program in the form of a podcast completes this successful project that is currently receiving more than 400 visits per day at its website. The wonderful reception granted by the Spanish-speaking community reflects the need of more information of the Pagan and Wiccan community, which was looking forward to counting on this kind of initiatives in their own language.

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

The Order of World Walkers

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be
Krystel

The motto of the Order of Peace Weavers is: "Be Peace, Live Peace, Send Love, Weave Peace." We hold a monthly 15 minute group peace meditation on the first Wednesday of every month and would love to have more join us to promote peace.

The Order of Peace Weavers is a chartered order of the Correllian Tradition. Membership is by invitation or application and is open to Inner and Outer Court members.
