A back to the basics look at magick!

Submitted by: Rev. Moonleaf

#1: What Is Magick? By David Rankine

What is magick? Forget all the fallacies and stereotypical pre-conceptions taught to you out of fear and ignorance and approach this question with an open mind. You will probably find it is not what you have been taught to think.

Magick has been defined as "The art and science of causing change to occur in conformity with will *1" which could be put more simply as making desired change happen; or as "energy tending to change"; a definition I use is "magick is conscious evolution through directing energy".

This does not really explain magick though, so I will try to elaborate on these phrases without jargon.

An aim of magick is to train the mind by harnessing and making more consciously accessible such higher faculties as intuition, inspiration and the creative imagination, and by drawing on the power of the unconscious - to try and use more than the 10% of our brain's capacity that we do.

Magick assumes belief in, or rather experience of, subtle energies. We can only see about one seventieth of the light spectrum, yet what we cannot see still affects us - such as x-rays and ultraviolet light. Similarly, magick is about focusing more subtle, non-physical energies, and directing them to create change. To go about this requires experience, and training to improve the power of the mind, and specifically, the will.

Acts such as meditation, breath control, voice work, body work, visualization, drama, ritual, and others, are all designed to improve our body and mind, to better sharpen us and balance us, and to enable us to perceive and wield more subtle energies.

In the same way, an individual is as strong as their will, and the more balanced and integrated a person is, the stronger their will (note, this is probably one of the main reasons why so many magicians have experience of counseling and/or psychology, recognising the help these processes can give, both through training and experiencing them. This also acts as a removal of farcical social stigma often attached to these processes).

Practising magick tends to act as a deconditioning mechanism and can be a subtle process, the longer you practice, the more you change and the unnecessary inhibitions, stigmas, guilts and sin complexes that society builds in are removed. This has the effect of releasing their energy into the psyche, where it can strengthen the individual.

The more physical side, such as yoga, bodywork, dance and massage, also removes the tension held in the body as body armour, and releases this and removes energy blockages which impair full efficiency and may result in illness.

Possibly the major difference between magick and many of the religious paths to spiritual growth is that magick is more dynamic, and places the emphasis on you to work for change - there are no gurus in magick, rather there are fellow students with different perspectives and experiences - we learn from each other, as in other areas of life.

Magick tends to work a lot with symbols, as these are the language of the unconscious, and this is an area of tremendous power to tap. Symbols have many functions, and one of these, released through magick, can be the ability to confound the ego and the censor mechanisms, and enabling us to perceive more subtle truths, or experience direct revelations.

Although we may not be able to fully explain how symbols work, we know from experience that certain symbols seem harmonious with certain types of energy.

For example a magician may tell you that if you want to attract love you should wear green, and rose perfume, perhaps wear copper, like a bracelet or necklace, etc. These are all things attributed with Venus, who is associated with love, and so the principal is one of contagion - sympathetic magick, or making something happen by working with items linked to it.

This is one of the oldest and most commonly practised forms of magick. Working with the symbols of a type of energy does seem to attract that energy.

A cautionary word here, magick is often seen as a way to hidden powers, and entered for the wrong reason, the "I want sex, power and lots of money" syndrome. Now there is nothing wrong with these things in themselves, but when you do magick you will discover that you tend to get what you need rather than necessarily what you want.

When you do magick you generally use techniques to alter your state of consciousness and raise energy, and then direct that energy to create a desired result. The channel that energy takes as directed by your altered state of consciousness is not necessarily the path you might expect in your normal everyday state.

Magick does bring you power, yes, but it is power over yourself, not other people. It is the power that is important, to grow and to create positive change.

This does not mean there is anything wrong with using magick to gain more physical things, there is nothing wrong with doing a ritual or spell to get a job, whereas trying to make a specific individual go to bed with you would be wrong.

Magick is very much about intent, and if your intent is to get work, you are not imposing on people, whereas if you were trying to make somebody do something that they would not naturally do, you are imposing on their will.

If you did a ritual to attract love without specifying a person, but opening yourself to the opportunity to meet someone where love may arise, and to feel more attractive and better about yourself, you are not imposing, you are trying to create positive change.

Magick is a commitment to yourself, and it requires determination, perseverance, strength, openness to change and absence of rigidity, a love of life (including yourself), and a desire to grow and fulfil your potential.

It may be that you already have all these qualities and do this already without calling it magick - magick is not about labels, and those who think and talk as if it is unfortunately put some people off.

Magick is learning about the natural flows of energy in the universe, and working in harmony with them to effect positive change, both in yourself and in your environment.

Some people ask why magick is spelt with a 'k' on the end. This is to distinguish it from magic, associated in the popular mind with illusionism and prestidigitation, stage magic. Magick is not about illusion, it is about creating real change, and the 'k' signifies this. K is the eleventh letter of the alphabet, i.e. the one beyond ten. Symbolically this is very powerful, as we work in base ten, and eleven represents the unseen, or hidden energies - the subtle energies of magick, eleven is considered to be the number of magick.

Magickal training and experience bring forth the energies of the unconscious, and so it is no surprise to see that symbols become more important as you develop, providing not only the language of dream and the unconscious, but also helping create a more flexible perception grid of the universe.

To grow spiritually, it is vital that you remain flexible and do not become dogmatic, rather that you are open to experience and willing to question your ideas and beliefs as a result of those experiences.

Magick can be a painful process. It is not easy to maintain the discipline and honest self-critical approach all the time. It can also be hard work dealing with the energy released without being knocked off balance sometimes. The important thing in these cases is to remain honest and keep at it.

Nobody said magick was easy! It takes a lot of practice and hard work and pain, but the rewards are spiritual and mental growth, the joy of life and the beauty of unconditional love. Beyond the limits there are no limits!

Runes

By Gothi Freyatrú

Waes Hael!

This week I am going from buying your own Futhark to making one. This is fitting since I am just about to start teaching another intake of rune students and part of the course is the making of your own set of runes. (Prospective students take note.)

Firstly you have to consider what you are going to be making your runes for. A simple enough question and perhaps not one which immediately springs to mind when choosing runes from a shop. The obvious answer is so that you can use them for divination. But is that going to be for personal use only or are you going to be doing readings for others. Perhaps you are making runes for someone else and are not going to be using them yourself at all.

If you buy your runes from a shop or even over the net you are starting fresh with a whole set. You may know something of the history of the set but more often you are just presented with your newly made set in a nice pouch. When you are making a set yourself you are starting from the basic raw materials. You are not stuck with whatever is in stock at the moment or forced into making a choice between no runes or having something that isn't quite what you wanted. You are also less likely to be drawn by a pretty bag and forget that it's the runes inside it which are the important thing.

If you are cutting your own wood then you can be certain right from the start where it has come from and how it was gathered. You can be as exact with phases of the moon as you like, if that is important to you. If you want to go to the extra trouble you can even make your own stains and dyes from plants you have gathered or grown yourself. Each step that you do yourself acts to bind that material to you. Each bit of energy you put into the set will make it more personal to you. It is quite possible that when you have just finished, they are more attuned to you, without any further energy work, than a shop bought set which you have cleansed and blessed already and have had under your pillow for a week.

Of course if you are going to be using the runes exclusively for yourself this does make sense. However if you are also going to be casting for other people or making the runes for someone else do you really want that much of your own energy put into making them? I don't mean that you shouldn't take time over them and make sure they are of a good quality. I mean that the energy you put in could be less personal to you. For example if you are making a set for someone else you could have something personal to him or her involved in the making. It could be a stain they have mixed themselves or putting the finished set in a bag that has been made by the person they are for. In any case you should focus at each stage that the runes are not for yourself and hold an image of the recipient in your mind as you rist.

Perhaps there should be another line to verse 144 of the Havamal. Do you know what to do even before you start cutting, staining, sending or proving.

Till next week Waes Hael!

Merry Meet fellow Wiccans to my Wiccan World.

My week has been very turbulent, as my dog got sick in her stomach and I had to clean up after her. This led to that I over 2 days and nights had to be at call whenever she wanted to go out to relieve herself. She is very good in telling me when she needs to go out, so from the first time, on Monday morning, she hasn't done anything inside anymore. This gives me very bad sleep, and I have been on Wednesday been able to get some sleep back that I have lost during these 48 hours or so. The other dog hasn't been affected of it all, and I'm thank the Goddess for. I did a lot of prayers during this time that it shouldn't be any harmful and that it should pass away quickly I am glad that it turned out all right, in the end.

As this has been occupying mostly of my week so far, I haven't been able to do anything more than check emails and play some games on my PC. I might however begin a Beginners Rune-class next Thursday, and I do look forward to be accepted. I am so in to Runes, and I want to learn all that is about them. It will be a 7week course, and if I pass that one I will probably take on the Advance Class in Runes too. I want to know absolutely everything and beyond about the Runes, as they are the ones that are calling to me the most. I have some Tarot-decks and a Pendulum at home, but those that call me the most are the Runes. I have even tried to do them on my own, but I haven't found my wood for it that I want to use yet. My favorite wood is Birch and it's hard to get enough of it and also the right size that I want to have for them. It should be about the size an inch from one side to the other. I want to them as a circle and they should be one third of an inch in thickness. Of course am I working on doing them as cards, but it isn't as powerful for me as have them in wood. I don't know why, but that is what I feel anyway. I bought myself some wooden Runes that is made from Juniper but even if they are in wood are they not truly mine that I want to work with.

I will let you know in my column when I have the cards and the wooden Runes ready and might even put a picture on them for you to see, of course. It's all up to the Goddess to provide me with the right tools and let me stumble on the right time to do them. I do look forward to the time that I shall take on that project, and I know I will have a wonderful time when I am doing them, too.

Take care until Monday. Blessed be all of you.

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

Flash Fiction Challenge

Flash Fiction Challenge

Greetings Dearest Readers!

Have you ever dreamed of being a writer? The Correllian Times wants to help make that dream come true with our flash fiction contest!

The flash fiction story must contain exactly 250 words, excluding the title. Not 249 - not 251. 250 words. There should be a beginning, middle, and an end. It should not just be 250 words of whatever comes to your mind. The goal here is to have some kind of twist at the end.

Our challenge to you is this:

Write your own flash fiction before January 01, 2009. The prize for the top Flash Fiction submission will be a feature writer of the month. A picture of you, bio and your short story, also a gift certificate to the Witch School Store.

Please, only 1 entry per person.

Contest begins February 1, 2008 and ends January 01, 2009. Entries become the property of The Correllian Times. We assume no responsibility for illegible, lost, late, misdirected, incomplete, or stolen entries.

ENTRY: Submit an original, flash fiction story of exactly 250 words. Include your name and e-mail address and email to: windy at windy0716@aol.com or CNT_Correllian_Times-owner@yahoogroups.com Please include the words "FLASH FICTION CHALLENGE" in the subject detail. Entries must be original, unpublished and may not have won any prize or award.

LIMIT: Only one entry from an individual will be accepted - no group entries.

ELIGIBILITY: Everyone is eligible to enter! We do however reserve the right to withhold inappropriate materials from publication at our discretion.

Voting on flash fiction:

Each submission will be featured in The Correllian Times. A voting poll will be opened in January 2009 (details to follow). If you appreciate the storytelling in a flash fiction piece, please grant the writer the honor of your vote.

The great part for voters is that each entry shouldn't take much more than a minute. You can read dozens of them in a short period of time. Please support the writers in this challenge by reading as many as you can!

Now... get flashing!

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

Faces of Correllianism

<http://www.correllian.com/faces.htm>

“Faces of Correllianism” is a place where Correllians can send photos of themselves, their altars, their pets, as well as artwork, autobiographies, descriptions of events and projects, essays and poetry to share with all Correllians.

Through “Faces of Correllianism” we hope to show what a strong, diverse, and positive community we are.

If you would like to have your photo, writing, or artwork included, please email it to me at DonLewisHP@aol.com together with your authorization to use it at www.correllian.com You will of course retain any copyright. Please do not send us anything that is copyrighted to anyone other than yourself, unless you include their permission.
