Runes By Gothi Freyatrú

*Do you know how to carve, do you know how to interpret,
Do you know how to stain, do you know how to test out,
Do you know how to ask, do you know how to sacrifice,
Do you know how to dispatch, do you know how to slaughter?*

Sayings of the high one v144 Trans Carolyne Larrington 1996

So, this week on to dispatching. Some translations have this as send rather than dispatch. Again I will draw on Freya Aswynn who has the translation as 'send' in that to 'send' refers to sending magic.

With runes you had better know what you are about before trying any magic. As I said last week, the runes do not work the same way as most conventional spells. For example: you can use the energy of a candle whatever its colour and bend it to your will later in the spell when you visualise the outcome you want. To a great extent it is your intent that drives the magic and what you use is simply there to act as a focus to your working. (Unless you are a ceremonial magician in which case missing the exact phase of the moon by a nanosecond will completely ruin your spell.)

In fairness to practitioners of ceremonial magic, rune magic does have its own ceremony to it. The magic comes about as a part of your actions in risting the rune in a similar way that the ceremony is a part of raising energy for the magic for Ceremonial Magicians.

Is not a case of get what you need for your spell then gather it all in a bag or tie it with a ribbon (the correct colour) and then empower the talisman to work in the way you want it to. Your very thoughts while carving and staining your rune are setting the magic on its course. By the time you have finished risting your rune, the magic is all done.

You don't have to call on any of the Gods or Goddesses. I know people who use more conventional Wicca or witchcraft who say a prayer along the lines of: Please Goddess who encompasses all, make this magic work for the best outcome you think, always in peace and light and harming none.' This takes the responsibility out of your hands because you are asking 'The Goddess' to guide it. Thus any comeback or backlash will only be what 'The Goddess has ordained.' So it isn't your fault if it goes pear shaped in a big way.

I see this as a cop out. The magic is your own and that of the power inherent in each rune. You are not depending on any divine providence to help your magic, it is all of your own making, which is quite a responsibility. Giving responsibility for the outcome away can lead to people using magic without thinking about it. After all 'The Goddess' wont let anything bad happen will she? Heathenry has a very strong element of personal accountability in it. We do take things a little more seriously than that. We don't have any rules about not cursing. But if we curse we do it in the full knowledge and acceptance of any result. If it goes pear shaped when using runes it is purely and simply YOUR FAULT! So live with it, or don't do the magic.

Yule

Yule, (pronounced EWE-elle) is when the dark half of the year relinquishes to the light half. Starting the next morning at sunrise, the sun climbs just a little higher and stays a little longer in the sky each day. Known as Solstice Night, or the longest night of the year, much celebration was to be had as the ancestors awaited the rebirth of the Oak King, the Sun King, the Giver of Life that warmed the frozen Earth and made her to bear forth from seeds protected through the fall and winter in her womb. Bonfires were lit in the fields, and crops and trees were "wassailed" with toasts of spiced cider.

Children were escorted from house to house with gifts of clove spiked apples and oranges which were laid in baskets of evergreen boughs and wheat stalks dusted with flour. The apples and oranges represented the sun, the boughs were symbolic of immortality, the wheat stalks portrayed the harvest, and the flour was accomplishment of triumph, light, and life. Holly, mistletoe, and ivy not only decorated the outside, but also the inside of homes. It was to extend invitation to Nature Sprites to come and join the celebration. A sprig of Holly was kept near the door all year long as a constant invitation for good fortune to pay visit to the residents.

The ceremonial Yule log was the highlight of the festival. In accordance to tradition, the log must either have been harvested from the householder's land, or given as a gift... it must never have been bought. Once dragged into the house and placed in the fireplace it was decorated in seasonal greenery, doused with cider or ale, and dusted with flour before set ablaze by a piece of last year's log, (held onto for just this purpose). The log would burn throughout the night, then smolder for 12 days after before being ceremonially put out. Ash is the traditional wood of the Yule log. It is the sacred world tree of the Teutons, known as Yggdrasil. An herb of the Sun, Ash brings light into the hearth at the Solstice.

A different type of Yule log, and perhaps one more suitable for modern practitioners would be the type that is used as a base to hold three candles. Find a smaller branch of oak or pine, and flatten one side so it sets upright. Drill three holes in the top side to hold red, green, and white (season), green, gold, and black (the Sun God), or white, red, and black (the Great Goddess). Continue to decorate with greenery, red and gold bows, rosebuds, cloves, and dust with flour.

Deities of Yule are all Newborn Gods, Sun Gods, Mother Goddesses, and Triple Goddesses. The best known would be the Dagda, and Brigid, the daughter of the Dagda. Brigid taught the smiths the arts of fire tending and the secrets of metal work. Brigid's flame, like the flame of the new light, pierces the darkness of the spirit and mind, while the Dagda's cauldron assures that Nature will always provide for all the children.

Pagan/Wicca: Yule - occurs on the date of the winter solstice. It is also known as Winter Rite, Midwinter, and Alban Arthan. Yule is celebrated on the longest night of the year, and it is seen by many as the time when the sun begins its journey back from the darkness to the fullest light, celebrated at the Summer Solstice. It is the festival of the Sun's rebirth, and a time to honor the winter aspects of the God and Goddess. The festival of Yule was originally celebrated in Norse and Germanic countries, and many Pagans choose to honor those aspects of the God and Goddess at this time of year.

Celtic: Alban Arthuan (Winter Soltice)

Stregheria: La Festa dell' Inverno, Saturnalia

(Southern Hemisphere) Midsummer - Summer Solstice (also known as Alban, Hefin, and Letha) is the longest day of the year when the Sun is at its zenith. It is the celebration of the fullest light of the Sun, and the time when the Sun turns back towards the darkness of the year. In many Wiccan traditions, it is the ideal time for divinations, Healing rituals, and the cutting of divining rods, dowsing rods, and wands.

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers
