Runes for Imbolc By Gothi Freyatrú

Far be it from me to jump on any bandwagons here, but there seems to have been a great outpouring of Imbolc themed articles just recently. I guess it must be about that time of year then. So as if you hadn't had enough of them already, this is what I hope to be a slightly different article from the others: I present to you Imbolc according to The Runes!

There is no evidence that the Norse peoples celebrated Imbolc. Though they did have a spring festival now known as: 'Disting' which is a celebration of the Goddesses and the female ancestors known as Disir. My Lady Freya is also known as Vanadis. Literally translated it means Disir of the Vanir. (Actually calling her 'My Lady' is tautology as Freya translates as 'Lady'.) The Disir may be called upon in times of trouble and also have close links with Valkyries. I think it would be rather comforting, were I was a warrior slain on the battlefield, if I was brought to Valhalla by an aunt or grandmother.

So relating the runes directly to Imbolc is on the surface at least mixing two traditions that were not designed for each other. Imbolc (as so many other articles have mentioned) stands between winter and spring. The weather is still cold, indeed I was scraping Ice off my car this morning, but there are the first signs that the return of the sun promised at Yule. Bulbs are sticking their heads up above the ground and the blackbirds in the garden are starting to squabble over territory and females.

The runes of Isa and Hagalaz are starting to loose their power but still haven't completely lost the ability to cause chaos delay and disruption. But we can see that Jera is spinning slowly bringing change and progression. The Ice of Isa is transforming to the water of Laguz by the action of Sigel. And though there are many things hidden as yet Pertho tells us of the unknown potential that is there.

There are several Runes that you can see as having a powerful influence right now. Uruz which represents the vital energetic force of nature undying even in winter which is about to 'spring' forth with more and more power. Fehu, which is a rune of creation and sacred to Frey as God of sexual fertility is another rune which you can draw strong links to Imbolc. Berkana, which represents the birch tree and new birth, is also potent at this time. The Birch tree is one of the first trees to colonise virgin ground along with pine and spruce and is the highest and most northerly living deciduous tree. Its associations with new growth and fertility then are well founded.

These then are all runes whose power you may wish to include in your Imbolc ritual. For those of you who are curious, I will be holding a Disting ritual at Folkvang Shrine on Wednesday 20th of February, time to be announced nearer the date.

Lughnasadh 2nd February Southern Hemisphere

Whilst in the Northern Hemisphere we celebrate Inbolc in February the Southern Hemisphere celebrate Lughnasadh.

The Celtic harvest festival of Lughnasadh takes its name from the Irish god Lugh, one of the chief gods of the Tuatha De Danann, giving us Lughnasadh in Ireland, Lunasdál in Scotland, and Laa Luanys in the Isle of Man.

Lugh, the Celtic deity who presides over the arts and sciences. According to Celtic legend, Lugh decreed that a commemorative feast be held each year at the beginning of the harvest season to honor his foster mother, Tailtiu. Tailtiu was the royal Lady of the Fir Bolg. After the defeat of her people by the Tuatha De Dannan, she was obliged by them to clear a vast forest for the purpose of planting grain. She died of exhaustion in the attempt. The legend states that she was buried beneath a great mound named for her, at the spot where the first feast of Lughnasadh was held in Ireland, the hill of Tailte. At this gathering were held games and contests of skill as well as a great feast made up of the first fruits of the summer harvest....

This is the time when the powerful gods of the grain harvests are honoured. The festival of the First Fruits of the Harvest, and is the first festival of the Waning Year.

“Lammas” was the medieval Christian name for the holiday, and it means “loaf-mass”, for this was the day on which loaves of bread were baked from the first grain harvest and laid on the church altars as offerings. It was a day representative of “first fruits” and early harvest.

Lammas Crafts

Corn Necklace

Obtain an ear of fresh corn (I would probably use the one with the big and tough kernels, in fact the larger and tougher the better but not completely dried.)

Break the ear in half after the husk has been removed and then begin popping off the kernels, beginning at the broken end of each half and going around and around. Try not to break the kernels in half, but to leave the white points on them.

Then, with about two or three feet of heavy thread on a large needle, begin stringing the kernels by putting the needle through the very center of each one. When the strand is long enough to make a necklace (one ear is usually more than enough) tie the ends of the thread together and hang the necklace in a warm, dry place for a few weeks.

The kernels will dry, shrivel and shrink, and it may be necessary to tighten the knot.

You can also use Indian corn that has been field died as it has beautiful colors.

You want to be able to use this necklace year after year so you need to spray with polyurethane or varnish to protect from moths.

Herbed Dream Pillows

Difficulty level: 2, adult help needed

Printed with permission from Spirit Online

DO NOT ingest herbs or oils.

piece of plain or muslin cloth

piece of fancy cloth or of a material you can decorate your choice of herbs and oils (look below)

eyedropper

wooden or glass bowl

wooden spoon

(Never mix herbs and oils with or in anything metal.)

Cut out two pieces of muslin or plain cloth 12" x 8", these will hold the herbs.

Place the wrong sides of the material (if there are any) together.

With a 3/4-inch seam allowance stitch the two 8" sides and one of the 12" sides.

Three sides of the fabric should be sewn.

Turn this little bag inside out so the seams are now on the inside.

This is the "inner pillow" in which you will put your herbal mixture.

Using the fancier material cut two more pieces of material 12" x 8".

Stitch them the same as the "inner pillow" except sew only with a 3/8" seam allowance.

As with the inner pillow, turn it so the seams are on the inside.

If you wish embroider it in any design or decorate it with fabric paints, do it now.

If you plan to make this cover removable for washing, turn down a small hem on the open end and attach small Velcro disks or snaps to keep it closed.

In a large wooden or glass bowl, mix together the herbs you have chosen with a wooden spoon.

This is done gently, like tossing a salad.

With the eyedropper, add the chosen oils to the herbs.

Use no more than a total of 5-6 drops at a time until you reach the strength you desire.

Remember what smells nice standing over the bowl may well be too strong when you sleep on the pillow, use restraint.

Fill your "inner pillow" with the herbal mixture.

Don't pack it full or it will be uncomfortable to sleep on. Leave it a little flat.

Turn in a little of the open end so the raw edges are inside, then sew this end shut.

Slide this inside your decorated cover, attach the fasteners, and you are ready for sweet dreams.

Imbolc & Lughnasadh Poems

Imbolc

by Ian R Thorpe

Pale winter sun lingers, lengthening each day,
On twig and branch new buds begin to swell.
Songbirds give voice, each striving to excel,
Seed senses change in its deep bed of cold clay,
Earth goddess weaves her magic to propel
Reborn cycle of her womb along its way
Life returns in every tree's slow thought,
In pond and stream the dance begins again
Spring flowers show, their purpose to proclaim
A new season comes; winter's reign is short
And darkness no longer exercises any claim;
Green growth dispels grey moods it brought.

Lughnasadh

Mike Garofalo

“Under the summer sun,
thirty birds feeding
on figs.

Young tree branches
sagging so low -
ripe peaches.

Still in the shade,
on wet soil,
a black dragonfly.
An old mind
surprised by seeing
a purple fairy at sunset,
dancing to the crickets' tunes,
leaping as guinea hens screech,
wary of the bats,
hovering to say,
“Lugh's Day, Lugh's Day.”
Crackling fires glowing
under the full moon.
Peace in the Valley.”

Goddess Works in Mysterious Ways By Rev. Mary Keller HPs

It seems sometimes, even the most mundane – and challenging – experiences can have remarkable results!

I thought I would like to share!

Yesterday, another member and I were playing a quick game together on a popular game site. We were not planning on being there long – a quick break in our routines – but the room was “broken” and we were winning tokens like mad. About 4PM EST, the site “fixed” the problem, but unless one left the room and came back, it was still “broken”...solution – don’t leave! LOL

My Witches Calendar had arrived in the post from WitchSchool earlier in the day, and we had been chatting about who I was going to give the free Gift Certificate they had included in my order. I said I would have to think about it. I know several people locally who would enjoy it, but would not have the time to use it.

I came and went all day, leaving the room open on my PC. My friend went to bed. I had my group chat and later I went back. The chat was open on the room, which I normally close and I glanced over to see a group of about 5 people (out of 58) writing in CAPS. There was “Parson Pat”, “Parson Kate” and their flock.

I know, I know. Normally, I would have just closed it and ignored them, but these people were fanatics. I have close friends of all denominations and beliefs, but the intolerance and references to being damned and the devil, etc., really bothered me. (One of the people was bi-polar and they were saying that is was from the “devil”.)

I politely said that we had come to play a game, not be converted and one of the “Parsons” told me to “play then and don’t read”. I replied that I would do just that and “May Goddess Bless you?”

Well, one of the 5 said “What’s a Goddess”? and I was laughing and about to close it when I saw it...

There between all their rantings was a line saying “Blessed Be”.

I found the name of the person and requested private chat...I found the most lovely person I had met in a long time. She said she was a college student and had studied witchcraft when she was younger.

As we were chatting, it hit me! I offered her the gift Certificate! Goddess certainly wanted us to meet, as she is now a student of WitchSchool!
But that is by no means the end of my story.

After she left the room, I was back in the main chat. I guess they had figured out what I meant when I said “Goddess” earlier and were talking about the devil again and evil people. I ignored it all. I “muted” their conversation and found another like mind to chat with about mundane things, like where they lived, weather, etc.

The person I was chatting with wrote “evil witches” in quotes and said I had to see what they were saying. One of them said “My screen name, we don’t believe in Witches”. I replied “And we don’t believe in the devil, so I guess we should agree to disagree”.

This set forth a torrent of abuse, so I went back to private chat with the person I was now conversing with. Although Christian, as she said she was not a “fanatic” and we had a lovely chat. We ended with her happy and thanking me, as I had gotten her son’s name from her for our healing and Reiki list – he is autistic.

Again, there was the Goddess leading me amid the turmoil to another soul who needed my help.

I went back to main chat and finally shut the chat as the abusive “loving God’s People” – their term – were too much to take.

They finally left and a few of those who had been there all along were writing “Ah, quiet and peace finally”. I left too, feeling elated that all that mayhem had brought with it rewards. I had an email from the first person I had chatted saying she went straight to the school and signed up for classes on crystals, etc.

How many of us look at our daily lives and see what influence we have on other people? I live in a small, very religious, community (2,000), but I am accepted just the way I am because I live and “walk my talk”, being kind and there for any who need me.

Maybe not everyone can be as openly “Wiccan” as I am blessed to be, but we all have those brief encounters daily where we can make a difference in someone’s life. It may not be so dramatic as pointing someone to WitchSchool.

My smile is always ready for anyone. It is amazing to me each and every day how that can make a difference to someone who I pass. Suddenly to see their sad or emotionless face smile back and knowing I may have brightened their day if only for a moment is so rewarding. And, it is a heartfelt smile I offer.

I wrote this because I wonder how many of us take the time to REALLY see our deities at work in our life. I live my life 24/7 with Goddess. From the most mundane to Magical cooking to being there for my students or for a friend in need, to performing rituals.

All of us are a part of Deity! All of our lives are a part of the All That Is!

Take a moment each day to look at what you have done that on the outside appears trivial, but may have affected others and brought them farther along on their own personal Path.

You can make a difference!

Brightest Blessings in Love and Light,

Rev. Mary, HP

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers
