I will be appearing once again at the St. Louis Pagan Picnic this year, and I am hoping to see many old friends as well as make some new ones!

This is the sixteenth year for the St. Louis Pagan Picnic, and as you no doubt know I have attended every year for several years now. We have done a number of interviews at the Picnic for over the years Magick TV, which can be seen at MagickTV.com and will be bringing our Magick TV cameras again this year.

This year I will be offering the workshop "Why Magic Works" at 1 PM on Saturday.

Veterinary Notes Z is for zoonosis

A zoonosis is a disease that spreads from an animal to a person. Perhaps one of the most well known zoonosis is rabies. This terrible and incurable disease is spread from animals to man via saliva, usually via a bite. All dogs and cats entering the UK, other than those vaccinated against rabies and travelling on the pet passport scheme, must enter quarantine for 6 months. This step helps to ensure we retain our rabies-free status.

However, there are less exotic diseases that may spread from dogs and cats to humans, and in the reverse direction. It should be emphasised that such spread is rare as most infectious diseases are species specific. Potential zoonotic diseases are:

- Scabies – this mite causes “fox mange” and may spread to man on occasion, but the lesions are short-lived as the mite cannot survive in non-canine hosts
- Ringworm – this fungal infection is most commonly seen in cattle and horses, but occasional cases are seen in dogs and cats. It may spread to man and lesions, appearing as red, raised coin-shaped plaques may be seen. These may be easily treated in both man and animal
- Enteritis – gastrointestinal upsets (vomiting and diarrhoea) may spread from animal to human and vice-versa. These are most often associated with food-poisoning bacteria and the animal is usually infected from its owner, or from the infected human food. Salmonella infections may occur, but the more usual organism is Campylobacter.
- Tuberculosis – The two strains that cause tuberculosis in man are Mycobacterium tuberculosis and Mycobacterium bovis. Dogs and cats do appear to have an innate resistance to these bacteria but may be infected on occasion. Sadly increasingly common in man, the direction of spread here is definitely from man to animal. It is therefore essential to check any dogs and cats within the household for tb so that they may be treated.
- Toxoplasmosis – this disease is caused by a coccidian parasite (a small single celled organism). Associated with cats and sheep, it can infect humans and will cause abortion if acquired during pregnancy. The organism is spread in the faeces of the cat or sheep, and also in aborted tissues. Adult cats generally acquire resistance to the infection, and the greatest risk is from kittens or pregnant cats. However, the organism only becomes infectious after it has been outside the host for a few days, and therefore by removing faeces from the litter tray as soon as they are passed, and by changing the entire tray at least daily, the risk of infection may be essentially eliminated. I line the litter tray with newspaper, add just enough litter for them to scratch about in, and then remove the whole lot as soon as it is soiled (with 7 cats this is quite frequently!). It should be noted that the cat-human transfer is not common, most cases being associated with sheep.
- Toxocarasis – this condition is caused by a gastrointestinal worm in dogs and cats. This common worm is easily controlled by regular (3 monthly) worming. It may occasionally infect very young children who tend to put anything and everything into their mouths, and has rarely been reported to cause blindness. The eggs of the worm are sticky, and the production of eggs is greatest in the pregnant bitch where the worm cleverly maximises its chance of transmission to the pups. Like toxocara, the eggs do not become infectious for a few days. Sensible hygiene, disposal of dog and cat faeces as soon as produced, and regular worming will prevent spread to man.
- Leishmaniasis: this disease is caused by a protozoan parasite that is spread by sand flies. Found in the warmer parts of continental Europe it is untreatable in both dogs and humans. With the new trend of taking pets on holiday, a few cases are now appearing in the UK, and it appears that some UK blood sucking flies may be able to act as vectors, spreading the disease from dog to man and vice-versa.

The above list is not comprehensive but does touch on the main potential zoonoses in the UK but these are not common. In all cases, awareness and sensible hygiene are sufficient to avoid transmission.

Merry Meet fellow Wiccans to my Wiccan World.

My weekend has been great, with a lot of sunshine and no rain in sight. We have had about 27° C/ 80° F in the shadow. So you can imagine what it has been in the sun, right?? We have just entered June, and it's already full summer outside. The dandelions are all white, and have flowered over from yellow. We in Sweden only have had about 3 - 4 days with rain during May, so the Earth is screaming for water. We have warnings on the Weather forecasts, that it's dangerous to barbeque outdoors due to the dryness of the Earth. There are also no signs for rain, the upcoming following days, either. All things have a good and a bad side to it, as we all knows.

During the week to come, I will continue to finish the Final Exam. As I feel it has been laying around for the past week, as we have had such a nice weather. Now it's time to get back on the horse again, sort of speak, and start doing what I shall do. If not, the weather will keep me from finishing it until the autumn is here. I don't want that to happen, not in a million years. I have only half of the exam left, so most of it is already done. It shall be such a relief when I can put the Final Exam aside, and continue on with my two projects. If I pass them and my Final, I can them apply for 3rd Degree Clergy. Which has been my goal, for way so long.

I have applied to start an Order of German Shepherd Dogs. I am a huge fan and lover of those dogs, and I also have two living at my home. It has been a long growing process to actually get it done, but now that I have started the process it's actually quite a good feeling. I do have to do the usual applying, anyhow. I can't hardly wait until I got the Charter Membership and know that it's ready to go. There isn't a go yet, but I do hope that I will get the Order to run soon though. Now I at least have something to look forward, too. I will let you know as soon as I know, of the outcome with my Order.

Take care until Thursday. Blessed be all of you.

Love and Light
Hugz and Blessings

A–Z of Religions: Roma also known as Gypsies, Rom, Rroma, Romani, Sinti, etc.

The Roma people migrated from north-west India to Persia between 224 and 642 CE. By the 14th and 15th centuries, some had migrated to western Europe. Some came to North America in the 19th and early 20th centuries. There are about 12 million Roma in the world. It is impossible to estimate the total population with accuracy since many governments do not record Roma in their census figures. Also, many Roma conceal their ethnic origin out of fear of discrimination.

They are very heavily persecuted, particularly in the Middle East and Eastern Europe.
Beliefs and Practices of the Roma

Many centuries in the past, the Roma were some of the last Goddess-worshippers in Europe. Their Goddess, Kali, was viewed as a trinity. Her symbol was a triangle. A male Horned God also played a prominent role. The similarities between ancient Roma belief and that of Wicca are obvious. These beliefs have long been abandoned by the Roma.

There is today no single Roma culture. Nor is there general agreement on who should qualify to be called a Roma. Romani groups around the world hold different traditions, customs and beliefs. Groups that have settled in one location generally adsorb some of the gajikané (non-Roma) local culture. Most Roma have converted the religions of their host countries, typically Christianity (Roman Catholicism, Eastern Orthodoxy, Protestantism), and Islam. Their formal religious affiliation is often supplemented by Roma traditional beliefs:

- the existence of Del (God)
- the existence of beng (Satan)
- the existence of bibaxt (bad luck) and of muló (supernatural spirits or ghosts).
- the power of good luck charms, amulets and talismans
- the power of curses
- the power of healing rituals

Marimé is a state of impurity brought on a person by the violation of a purity taboo. It also means a "sentence of expulsion imposed for violation of purity rules or any behavior disruptive to the Roma community." Some Roma consider the part of a woman's body below the waist to be dirty or polluted, because it is associated with menstruation. 1 In many tribes, women wear long skirts, the bottoms of which must not touch a man other than her husband.

A pregnant woman is considered unclean. She must not give birth in the family home because it would then become impure. Sometimes knots are ritually untied as the birth approaches. This is believed to assure that the umbilical cord will not be tangled. After birth, anything that the new mother touches is later destroyed. This quarantine continues at least until the baptism of the baby.

Newborns are baptized, usually in running water, when they are a few weeks old. Often, the infant is massaged with oil; this is believed to make it strong.

A Roma typically has three names. The first is known only by the mother; it is given at the time of birth. Its purpose is to confuse evil spirits by keeping the real name of the child from them. The second name is conferred at the time of baptism, and is the commonly used name within the tribe. A third, different name may be given when the child is re-baptized in a Christian church. It has little importance, except when dealing with non-Roma.

In the past, people were typically married between the ages of 9 to 14. This tradition has changed in many tribes due to the influence of the surrounding culture. Pre-marital sex is very strongly forbidden. Marriages to outsiders are heavily discouraged. The wedding ceremony is usually simple. In some tribes, the bride and groom join hands in front of the chief or an elder and promise to be true to each other. In ancient times, they used to be married by jumping over a broomstick in the presence of their families.

When a person dies, relatives and friends gather around and ask for forgiveness for any bad deeds that they have done to that person. They are concerned that if such grievances are not settled, then the dead person might come back as an evil spirit and cause trouble. In the past, the widow might commit suicide when her husband died so that she could accompany him during the afterlife. Sometimes, the deceased's nostrils are plugged with wax so that evil spirits cannot enter and occupy the body. Clothing, tools, eating utensils, jewelry, and money may be placed in the coffin in order to help the deceased in the next world. The deceased's possessions are burned, broken or sold to non-Roma.

They believe that a person can be reincarnated as another human or animal. Alternatively, they might appear as a muló or "living dead", seeking revenge on anyone who harmed him during his life on earth.

Many Roma rules of behavior relate to the use of water. They normally wash in running water, as in a shower. Baths are not used. Women's and men's clothes are washed separately, because of the impurities of a woman's body. Clothes of a pregnant or menstruating woman are washed furthest downstream from the camp, to avoid contamination.

Women must not expose their legs. They wear long, multi-colored skirts.

Out of respect for the importance of the horse in assuring Roma mobility, the eating of horse meat is prohibited in some tribes.

Many Roma women, called drabardi practice fortune telling. But fortunes are only read for non-Romas.

Other women are called drabarni or drabengi and practice natural healing techniques.

A-Z of Dragons

Submitted by Rev. Nehal

CH' IEN T' ANG

Origin: China

Though there is not much known about Ch'ien T'ang, he is said to be the Chief of all River Gods, and also brother to Ling Hsu, king of a local river. He was a deep blood red colour all over, and his eyes shined brightly. He was over 900 feet tall. He is also said to have caused a flood that lasted for 9 years.

CUSTARD

Origin: Ogden Nash

The American poet Frederic Ogden Nash created Custard the dragon, who belonged to a little girl Belinda, along with her little yellow dog, little black cat, little grey mouse and a red wagon.

Custard had huge sharp teeth, scales on his back and spikes underneath him. His mouth is like a fireplace and his nose like a chimney, and on his toenails he has daggers.

Belinda and her pets were all brave, apart from Custard who was being teased mercilessly by the rest and he cried for a safe cage. But, when a pirate came, Belinda, the dog, the cat and the mouse all ran away scared, and it was Custard who went at the pirate. The pirate shot at Custard with his gun but the bullets did no harm, and Custard gobbled the pirate up.

THE CHELAN LAKE DRAGON

Origin: Chelan Indians in Washington, North America

"In another story the monster, a gigantic dragon was still living in the lake. He seized a fisherman one day, carried him down to the lake, and then came to the surface to tell the fisherman's wife that he was the spirit of the lake and that nobody must venture upon it. When two canoes full of warriors went forth to give battle, a storm came up, and the dragon, rising up, seized one canoe and took it with its crew beneath the lake. The other warriors fled." Pg. 512.

COATLCUE

Origin: Aztec

Coatlcue means "Serpent Skirt" and is sometimes shown with 2 dragon heads, a necklace of severed human hands and hearts and with a skirt of writhing snakes.

Coatlcue's children planned to murder her and her unborn child, a warrior. But she held strong until her child was born after which the warrior defeated his siblings.

Her statue was buried 2 times and exhumed 3 times. It now stays in the Mexica Room of La Trobe University in Melbourne.

Enquire Within for Everything (Well Almost!).

Merry Meet to all.

You may be a bit confused as you read my meanderings each week, jumping from one subject to another as I do.

What I write for you here are the entries from my BOS or Grimoires (of which I have many). These I have set up as sectional reference books, with dividers as I am sure you all do. My thought when writing these articles was to provide some interesting information that would not become too (expert on this, lol) focused on just one subject, and that would build up into a sectioned Grimoire for all to enjoy (if you were inclined to keep it that way of course). This follows the weekly parts idea that we see in the news-agencies such as the Golden Hands sets we get here in Australia regularly.

The title for these articles “Enquire Within for Everything” comes from a book I once owned. Written in the late 1800’s it was a book of household hints for cleaning, first aid, gardening, making your own inks and stove black etc., and many other fascinating subjects. My copy was a first edition, well loved and when I had to move (many years ago) I gave it to a dear friend, who collected antiquities.

I do not, by any flight of imagination, know everything (hence the addition to the title), though I have been called a “know it all” quite often. ☺
But I do have a reasonable library of books on many subjects which I peruse constantly, and, I make use of the information I find within them, or I pass that information along to others who might find it interesting. And so we have Enquire Within.

So now you have the background to my flicking from subject to subject, we will get on with the Article for today.

This article is looking at some Handy Hints, we will return to the Nine Herbs Charm in a future article.

These Handy hints are to be found in many books and newspaper articles in these days of environmental concern, but it never hurts to keep repeating and bringing the information to the attention of the world.

Simple measures we can all do to change our habits and to look after Mother Earth for ourselves and our children and grandchildren, and their grandchildren.

Things like removing the heavy chemicals from our cleaning cupboards, recycling, removing aerosols from our bathroom and so on..

Handy Hints: 1

Using Cloudy Ammonia.

When used in small quantities Cloudy Ammonia is environmentally safe!.

An all purpose cleaner my grandmother used was made up of;

2 litres of water

½ cup of Cloudy Ammonia

½ cup of White Vinegar

¼ cup Baking Soda

Mix well

Store in a well marked screw topped bottle

Use to Clean Kitchen bench tops

Bathrooms

Floors and Walls

**Warning!!****

**do not inhale fumes of Ammonia**.

**Do not add bleach especially as Ammonia and Bleach form Dangerous fumes when mixed together**.

Ammonia dissolves grease, dirt and resinous substances (sap).

It is also good for reviving woolen garments, whitening yellowed white fabrics and as a fabric softener and conditioner.

Use Ammonia also to clean silver glass, sinks and drainpipes

Vinegar in the Bathroom

At home and in my clinic I use White Vinegar to clean the bathroom on a daily basis and the above Cloudy Ammonia mixture once a week. Stubborn soap scum requires a bit of scrubbing but a mix of Bi-Carbonate Soda and Vinegar made into a paste works well. Adding a few drops of your favourite essential oil to your cleaning cloth leaves a pleasant fragrance.

In the Kitchen; For Burnt Saucepans, sprinkle a layer of cooking salt over the bottom of the saucepan and cover with vinegar. Leave overnight then wash as per normal.

Vinegar, flour and salt made into a paste makes a good Brass cleaner.

Apply the paste and then rub off with a clean cloth.

Bi-Carbonate Soda

Bi-Carbonate or Baking Soda makes a good abrasive cleaner and does not harm the environment.

Again for Burnt Saucepans: Add one Dessertspoon of Bi-carbonate of Soda to 600ml of water in saucepan and bring slowly to the boil, let cool then wash as per normal.

Borax

Borax, though an environmentally friendly product, is toxic to most plants and it is advisable to keep well away from both Children and Pets. In Australia it is a Schedule 5 poison.

When used for cleaning Borax will dissolve dirt and grease and most saps, and can be used for delicate fabrics, silver, glass and china.

When treating burn marks in upholstery, mix four tablespoons of Borax with two cups of hot water.

Dampen a clean cloth with the solution and rub the burn mark until it disappears.

Sponge off with clean water.

For me, it is a very useful cockroach and ant deterrent.

Mix borax with some sweet jam and place on the ant trail into the house place on jar lids under the stove and sink for cockroaches.

Mix a little Borax with Talcum Powder and place on the ant trail itself. (a little messy).

When there are children and pets to consider I use talcum powder on its own, neither ants nor cockroaches like to walk across it.

Candle Wax.

To prevent Candles dripping, chill in the fridge for a few hours before using.

To remove candle wax from furniture;

Wait till the wax is cold

Cover the wax drops with aluminium foil

Place a hot towel on top of the foil (don't allow it to touch any woodwork)

Once the wax has softened peel it off.

*****

There are many more tips and hints to come so watch this space, but in the meantime:

Merry Part and Blessings to you all

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers
