MABON

Written by WolfCiara and Edited by Nelly

Mabon is when the day is equally long, and also after this will the days grow shorter and the nights grow longer. As the Autumn Equinox has equally long day and night, it's also a day of balance with thoughts about Karma, to end things and also give thanks for what the year has given you. The Sun is waning, and the crops are felled on the acres. The life of the Summer God is coming to an end, the harvest will still continue some time. This is the last of the Ritual of the Wicca year and it's also called the sunset of the year.

When you arrange the altar, you can use darker colors, as blue, gray or purple. Things you can use to decorate your altar are pumpkins, corn, scarecrows and/or haystacks. As offers you can use grapes and grape vine or grape juice. The association is to Dionysus, as he is associated with the grapes.

I include a Mabon Ritual that I have written myself (done as solitary Ritual), that is free for use and feel free share with anyone you want.

Mabon Ritual by WolfCiara

Stuff to use:

1 Gray, purple or blue altar cloth
(White, if not have any other)
Some grapes
1 Small glass of some grape vine or juice
As many T-lights as you want to use
Autumn scented incense or Aroma oil (if you want to use)

Before you start the ritual. Arrange as you feel you want to have the grape.

Clear and release as always.
Cast the Circle, as you feel is right for you.
Light Candles and Incense. (If you want to, you can draw the candles on paper, so it looks like they are burning)

Sit down and relaxingly think about all things you have experienced through the Year. Think of them as you are ending them and they are disappearing. When finished, thank Goddess for all experiences.

Say affirmation to Deity/Goddess/God like this:

"I hold this ritual to honor the death of the king, who dies in tribute to give food to your Children. Thankful for all the things that I have accomplished during the year, I am especially thankful for..... (something important to you, and grateful to Deity/Goddess/God for. You could name as many things as you want to.)"

Next, it is time to make offer.

See your grape and glass of vine/fruit juice filled with Yellow - White light.

Bless and affirm like this: "I bless and offer this grapes and my vine/fruit juice to you, Goddess/God/(Deity, if you have any), and Spirit. With all my love, devotion and trust, I have within me."

When finished imagining filled with light, let it stop glow and keep light inside them. Take a piece of the grapes, and drink some vine/fruit juice.

When finished. Take down Circle in reversed order.

Snuff out candles and incense.

Clear and release as always.

Let things be on Altar until next morning.

Mabon at the Hearth of the Turning wheel

An alternative look at Mabon by Gothi Freyatrú

Waes Hael!

Well I finally made it onto a Monday edition! I am not here to talk about runes today. Nor am I here to be a contradictory Heathen, (shame! I hear you cry) Mabon is not even a Heathen festival. So I will have to settle for being a contradictory witch instead (it means hitting people with a besom instead of a battleaxe).

As well as being a Heathen I also am a member of a local eclectic group called 'The Hearth of the Turning Wheel.' We will have been in existence for five years this Samhain though I have not been a member for all that time.

The common theme for Mabon in the harvest and giving thanks for the things we have completed and been able to reap what we sow, all that stuff. Mabon is the second of three harvests in the wheel of the year. At Mabon it is the fruit harvest we celebrate having done the same for the grain harvest at Lughnassadh. The Hearth has a strong Celtic Druid element so we also sometimes call Mabon by the name Alban Elfed.

Nothing different in that to what a lot of Pagans will be doing on Monday really. The difference is that we will be celebrating the crowning of the Holly King.

You will be scratching your head and be saying 'wasn't that supposed to happen at Litha?' Not as we see it, no. The calls of 'The king is Dead! Long live the King!' were a little premature for our way of thinking. The solstices mark the highpoint in the reign of the respective woodland Kings. It also marks the birth of the other King. Most people see this as One king dying as the other is born and there is a nice cyclic change of the seasons with one King ruling over the light half of the year and the other the dark...

But hang on a minute, if the new Oak king rules from Yule surely that is the most bitter and cold part of the year. The Oak doesn't even come into leaf till March or even later depending on the latitude. That being the case it would seem that the Oak is dead for a good part of his reign. Not really a logical way to follow the seasons. In order for the Kings to rule over a light half and a dark half of the year they need to change at Mabon and Ostara.

In another argument if you have a King at the height of his power at the solstice how is a newly born and weak King going to be able to topple him from power? Again logic says that this can't happen. So what does that leave us with? Kings at full power and not dying at the solstices.

The actual change over in the seasons of the year between one King and the next King is now, when the days are equal. It is now that the season of the year says change the Kings. After all a King spends time as a prince growing up. So it isn't altogether a daft idea to have them being born first and then ascending to the throne on the death of the old King. If any further proof were needed to my argument, the trees agree with what I am saying too. Any time soon the leaves will be turning, showing that the Oak King is dying, soon the holly will be in Berry.

Though as we all know it is the female trees which bear berries. Perhaps we should have an Oak King and a Holly Queen then...

The Hearth has a book of our rituals available from Lulu both as a fairly expensive hardback and as a download for much less. The link to it is here.

Mabon's Song

By Willow

The trees proclaim their colors
with autumn's raspy voice
leaves drop down around us
as we dance with joy
the wheel its turned to Mabon
hands raise to the sky
crispy air clutches,
homemade pumpkin pie
harvesting the gardens
thrashers in the fields
apple scented candles
more to be revealed
corn cob in the windows
mother nature sighs
leafy wreaths adorn the door
tasty apple pie
as the last sheaf of corn
gets cut in harvest fields
spirit of the corn alive
oh how it must feel Talismans and amulets
are fashioned at this time
with hopes and love and blessings
drink the harvest wine
ode to great corn mother
Mabon's final sigh
we raise our cups with love and trust
summer says goodbye....

Mabon blessings, Willow

Veterinary Notes

By Rev. Mehitabel

Continuing the theme of highlighting different reports in the press, I shall focus for the next couple of weeks on the work of the Animal Health Trust (with apologies to readers outside the UK). This organisation is a central referral centre used by veterinary practices for cases requiring specialist skills or equipment. Owners may request referral to this centre and it is worth knowing that it exists. I have seen wonderful results with animals I referred.

Lucky Hetty benefits from AHT expertise

Hetty Dickson has every reason to be grateful that he lives in the Newmarket area. When he was hit by a car, and received severe head injuries, he was rushed to the Animal Health Trust where a team of specialist vets were on hand to deal with the emergency.

When Hetty, an 18-month-old cat arrived at the Trust, he was severely traumatised and in shock. He needed immediate treatment including pain management, fluid therapy and oxygen support. The next step was to use radiography to assess whether there was damage to the lungs or other internal organs. However the injuries were confined to the head.

As soon as appropriate oxygenation and ventilation were given, and he was stabilised, he was assessed thoroughly for traumatic injuries. Radiographs of the chest and abdomen did not reveal any evidence of skeletal fractures or soft tissue trauma. However, neurological examination revealed a depressed mental status and inability to generate voluntary movement in all four limbs. Hetty had decreased facial sensation and his right eye was partially prolapsed.

Hetty remained in the Trust's Intensive Care Unit overnight, where he was looked after by the highly qualified staff. The following day, he was given a general anaesthetic in order to be able to obtain an MRI scan. Anaesthetising a cat in such a poor condition carries a high risk but, thankfully, the Trust has a specialist team of anaesthetists, with a great deal of experience in dealing with high risk cases.

The MRI scan revealed severe widespread brain injuries, and a fractured jaw. At that stage, the future wasn't looking at all bright for Hetty but owner Tanya Dickson didn't want to give up on him. "He's a very special cat" she said "and I wanted to give him every chance. I knew that, if anyone could save his life, it would be the vets at the Animal Health Trust".

The next stage for Hetty was surgery and the surgical team repaired his jaw. A tube was then placed in his oesophagus (gullet) to allow nutrition to be administered.

Because of his inability to produce tears, his eyes became very dry and ulcerated. This was managed with artificial tears and antibiotic drops, which were given up to 10 times daily whilst he was in hospital. His eyelids were also partially sutured together to protect his eyes until nerve function returned.

Because Hetty's state of health was so precarious, he remained under the care of the Trust staff, during which time he responded remarkably well to treatment and gradually improved. His mobility increased beyond expectations but he remained unable to eat by himself and was still being fed by tube. Tanya knew that she wouldn't be able to bring him home without this vital step.

However, much to the delight of Tanya and the entire veterinary team at the Trust, he started to eat before discharged. Finally, the wire was removed from his jaw on 10th April, about 6 weeks after the accident. His recovery since then has been slow but steady and he has just started to venture out to explore the garden once again. "I just can't believe he's still with us" said a delighted Tanya. "His injuries were so severe that I really thought we would lose him. I am just so very thankful that the Animal Health Trust was close by and that their expertise got him through."

"And in case Hetty seems a slightly strange name for a male cat, it's because when we first had him as a kitten we were told he was a female – and the name had stuck by the time we realised he wasn't!!")

Merry Meet fellow Wiccans to my Wiccan World

My weekend has been a sunny and fairly warm one, and I have as usual been on the Internet at my PC. Not a day passes without me sitting in front of it, and yes I consider myself as somewhat of an Internet-addict. When I was out just surfing I thought I should look up what Wikipedia could tell me about Sweden. It was the usual things as I all Swedish know somewhat of, but also something that I thought I wanted you all to read. It is where the name Sweden (Sverige) comes from. Here is the text, so you can read for yourself:

“The modern name Sweden is derived through back-formation from Old English Sweoðeod, which meant "people of the Swedes" (Old Norse Svíþjóð, Latin Suetidi). This word is derived from Sweon/Sweonas (Old Norse Sviar, Latin Suiones). The Swedish name Sverige literally means "Realm of the Swedes", excluding the Geats in Götaland. The etymology of Swedes, and thus Sweden, is generally not agreed upon but suggestively deriving from Proto-Germanic Swihoniz meaning "one's own", referring to one's own Germanic tribe.”

Today, Monday, it's Mabon in the Northern Hemisphere and Ostara in the Southern Hemisphere. I am going to do my own written Ritual for just that occasion, and I might get my hand fasted man to join me, too. I have never done a Ritual together with him, so it would be nice if we could do that now.

In the class last Thursday, we went through and taught us a new spread (3 Rune Draw). We are asking so many questions, so we have actually just been going through the first Aett of the Runes. I wonder when we are going to go through the 2 other Aettir, as we aren't well equipped before we have done so. Also our teacher tells us, that we need to know some etiquette when reading for other people. So I think that we are going to learn the etiquette and also he said something about a new spread that we should learn, too.

The new spread we have taught us, one can read them in 3 different ways. The first one is as a yes or no question, much like with Tarot cards. The second one is that you have the 1st card as Past, the 2nd card as Present and the 3rd card as Future. The third way, and that our teacher thinks is the best way, is that you have the 1st card as Problem, the 2nd card as Advice, and the 3rd card as Result. I have of course, done both the Odin Rune Draw (1 card reading) and 3 Rune Draw everyday. Even though we only had to do the 3 Rune Draw at least once during the week. This is what I got from the Odin Rune Draw; on Friday I got Laguz which means Lake, flow, magical/psychic powers; on Saturday I got Isa which means Ice, very slow change/delays; on Sunday I got Fehu which means Cattle, wealth, work; and today I got Jera which means Year, harvest, ordered change. When I draw the 3 Rune Draw I got this; on Friday I got for Past/Problem the Sigel which means Sun, energy, victory, for Present/Advice the Ehwaz which means Horse, partnerships, love, for Future/Result the Tyr which means Victory, justice, right actions; on Saturday I got for Past/Problem the Berkana which means Birch, birth, fertility, for Present/Advice the Dagaz which means Day, rapid change, for Future/Result the Isa which means Ice, very slow change/delays; on Sunday I got for Past/Problem the Pertho which means Fate, secrets, the unknown, for Present/Advice the Sigel which means Sun, energy, victory, for Future/Result the Wunjo which means Joy, completion, wholeness; and today, Monday, I got for Past/Problem the Berkana which means Birch, birth, fertility Birch, birth, fertility, for Present/Advice the Dagaz which means Day, rapid change, for Future/Result the Nauthiz which means Need, constraints, restrictions.

I got my article together, and I thought that I shouldn't have enough things for my article today. So I stop here, and go back to my mundane life together with my family, which pretty nice life I must say.

Take care until Thursday. Blessed be all of you.

Love and Light
Hugz and Blessings

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
