Pagan spiritual counseling available for Pagans stressed by the Fort Hood tragedy

Source: Birmingham Paganism Examiner <http://www.examiner.com/>

A team of Pagan spiritual counselors has been formed by Circle Sanctuary to provide free telephone counseling support this month for Pagans, Wiccans, Druids, Heathens, Pantheists, and other Nature religion practitioners distressed by the shootings at Fort Hood in Texas this past Thursday.

Fort Hood is the largest US military installation in the nation. On Thursday afternoon, November 5, an Army psychiatrist stationed at Fort Hood went on a shooting rampage, killing 13 and wounding 30 at the base. This tragedy has shaken and stressed those at Fort Hood and in neighboring areas as well as across the country and at US military installations around the world.

More than 150 Pagans of many paths live in and around Fort Hood. Many are part of the Fort Hood Open Circle, which is sponsored by the Sacred Well Congregation. Some are connected with other groups, and some are solitary practitioners.

Circle Sanctuary formed this Pagan counseling support team as part of its services to Wiccans, Druids, Heathens, and other Pagans in the US Military. This special response team consists of sixteen Pagan leaders from across the nation who are among those doing various forms of Pagan ministry through Circle Sanctuary. The team is collaborating with other Pagan leaders in the Fort Hood area in providing help. Circle Sanctuary is offering free Pagan oriented counseling by telephone to supplement grief counseling resources at Fort Hood. Circle Sanctuary's Fort Hood Tragedy response counseling services are for Pagans in and around Fort Hood as well as for Pagans at other US military installations and elsewhere who have been adversely impacted by the Fort Hood shootings. The counseling work being offered is specific to distress resulting from the Fort Hood shootings and will be offered throughout the month on November.

Esoteric & Occult Secrets

Source: <http://www.magicalpath.net/>

The following is draft chapter for a book on magical techniques, principles, and concepts, synthesizing traditional magical concepts and modern Psycho synthesis principles.

To understand the nature of esoteric and occult secrets it is worthwhile looking at the origin of the words esoteric and occult. Esoteric derives from the Greek word esoterikos, from the root word eso, 'within'. The word occult derives from the Latin words occulere, 'conceal' and occultus, 'secret'. Both of these words, esoteric and occult, are used to describe the study of arcane wisdom, the spiritual mysteries, and magical and hermetic philosophies.

'Secrets' often form the basis of many mystery schools, occult organizations, and magical groups. Often there are various oaths and obligations a student or member is expected to undertake and uphold, even if they end their association with the group or philosophy. There was, and still is, often said to be a punishment for revealing of the 'secrets' to non-members, sometimes to be enforced by members of the group or perhaps via karmic laws or self-inflicted punishment of guardian of one's own soul.

The safeguarding of 'secrets' by groups often forms a control structure that is designed and enforced via a hierarchy. Perhaps it is solely at the discretion of a group's leader, or perhaps via a council, committee, or members of a certain rank or grade.

There may be many reasons given for the control of such information, such that it is incredibly powerful, dangerous in the wrong hands, or that it will not be understood, abused, or ridiculed by non-occultists. There even may just be some emphasis on the importance of keeping secrets, maintaining oaths and obligations, or working out of sight (as is the essence of occult). Generally what it boils down to though is control, with the leader or leadership seeking to control who can and who can't learn the so-called 'secrets' peculiar to their system. I would even go as far as saying that for some groups or ideologies, the careful controlling of 'secrets' is to cover up the lack of true wisdom and understanding.

I am not suggesting that these groups don't have knowledge that they closely guard and keep secret. However, I do call into question the occult and esoteric nature of these 'secrets'. They can keep knowledge hidden, and call it a 'secret'. They can maintain that it is wisdom, and claim that a person needs a certain amount of understanding to understand and safely or correctly use the information, concept or technique.

Knowledge can be gained others; individuals, groups, books, etc. There is no doubt about that. The modern Information Age has seen a proliferation of philosophic, hermetic, magical and religious texts either via books or in more modern times via the Internet. All manner of once secret information has now been revealed, and is easily obtainable by anyone with access to a search engine. Sometimes various control mechanisms have been invoked to have 'secrets' removed from the web pages, even to the point of lawsuits to target those who revealed the information.

Some will argue that these groups have the right to control their knowledge, their information, and only reveal it to those they deem worthy of it. Perhaps it is their right to attempt to control information they are in possession of. I would like to suggest that all the energy put into controlling and maintaining secrecy is pointless and doesn't really assist in understanding and wisdom of esoteric and occult concepts. Further, I would like to suggest that true occult and esoteric secrets cannot be revealed – they must be experienced, thereby making the revelation of the information portion of a 'secret' relatively useless to someone who has no context for the information.

True 'secrets' tend to be of a personal nature gained by experiences, intuition, and revelations from the Higher Self. Esoteric secrets are the secrets within. Occult secrets are hidden deep within our psyche. Gnothi Seauton (Know Thyself) of the ancient Greek's gives us an indication that knowledge of the Self is a central part to learning the Mysteries. It is only via our Self that we can access our Higher Self – the part of us that is described as being of a higher dimension, metaphorically described as higher or deeper within our psyche.

It is the Self and the Higher Self that are ultimately the holders of all our personal 'secrets' of occult and esoteric wisdom and understanding. As our Higher Self contains the blueprint for our life's purpose there is nothing we cannot learn from our Higher Self that we need to know, if we need to know it. Seeking out knowledge for the sake of hoarding it doesn't help us unfold our life's purpose. By spending time and energy maintaining and controlling 'secret' knowledge we are likewise wasting time and energy that could be better put to use in living our life, exploring our purpose, and continuing our journey and evolution.

Another important point, I believe, is that due to the individual nature of our personal journey, knowledge that is a revelation to us, revealed via our Higher Self, may have little importance to someone else's path and journey. It is more important for them to learn and understand how to arrive at their own conclusions, their own wisdom and understanding, and essentially their own secrets about their purpose in life. This aspect breaks down control structures, disempowering hierarchies and empowering the individual. It is a 'feature' of true wisdom that it cannot actually be controlled. Control is part of the polarities of the physical world where someone can have power and disempower someone else. Once wisdom and understanding are actually achieved, the true 'secret' can be synthesised from this. I believe that this true 'secret' or 'truth' will be easy to recognise within our own psyche (the inner world), as well as an applicable principle present and observable within the external world – as above, so below.

Once someone is familiar with the process of learning from their Higher Self they no longer require other's to reveal secret knowledge to them. The source of all their wisdom is easily accessible and the truth of the 'secrets' can easily be demonstrated or observed, both internally and externally. Others may well know the truths, secrets, and principles already, and they may carefully guard those secrets and control who can and who cannot be told them. If the secrets are universal principles and not only relevant to an individual then it is completely pointless wasting energy on concealing them, as they are already concealed from those who do not currently understand how to discover them for themselves. If the 'secret' is of an individual nature, only of use to that individual's purpose and journey, then it is likewise a waste to conceal the secret from other's, as other's cannot benefit from the knowledge anyway.

This is not to say that there is any point, or need, to reveal to all and sundry what knowledge, wisdom and understanding one finds from the esoteric and occult secrets revealed by their Higher Self. One can work in silence, in the background, without any effort to maintain secrecy, unless secrecy is actually necessary and needs to be maintained for a particular part of one's journey. If you are following your life's path, or at least attempting to follow the guidance of your Higher Self then the need for control is gone. Secrecy will be maintained if secrecy needs to be maintained, because that is what your Higher Self will provide for you. There is unlikely to be a struggle, unless there are particular lessons contained in the experience of that struggle that you need to learn.

Quote & Thought of the Day

Rev. Nehal

Quote of the Day:

Keep away from people who try to belittle your ambitions.
Small people always do that,
but the really great make you feel that you too can become great.

Mark Twain

Thought of the day:

To get where you are

Consider how very far you've come. Think of all the value you've created and all the progress you've made.

Through the minutes and the hours, with all the days, months and years, there is so much you've already done. There can be no doubt that you've made it this far.

Now, you have the opportunity to keep going. Now, you can build upon the positive momentum that you've worked so hard to establish.

You are well experienced at getting things done. Imagine what you can now do with that valuable experience.

Though the challenges may be great, you've proved that you have the strength and ability to move successfully through them all. And as you have already experienced, there are great rewards on the other side of those challenges.

You've done much to get where you are. Now those same skills of achievement will take you wherever you wish to go.

John: The Fourth Gospel

Skeptic

The Fourth Gospel ("Gospel According To John") is the epitome of the fusion of Greek philosophy and Jewish theology. More than any other this gospel defined the familiar image of Jesus we now know -- Jesus as a god.

The Jewish world of Palestine in which Jesus was born was awash with Hellenism and Greek thought. Greek Stoicism and Platonism were amalgamated into Jewish/Christian theology and ethics from the first to fourth centuries CE. Even St. Augustine, the Christian Bishop of Hippo Regius, readily admitted "...when I read those books of the Platonists, I was taught by them to seek incorporeal truth so I saw your 'invisible things, understood by the things that are made' ("Confessions" 7. 20).

Biblical scholars are finding Greek philosophical influences everywhere, pervading the entire New Testament, including the popular image of Jesus.

In first century Roman-occupied Palestine, Jewish children learned the Greek language from birth, which is why Alexandrian Jews translated Hebrew scripture and New Testament writings into Greek . They had to; Jews in the diaspora spoke more Greek than they did Hebrew.

This Greek-Jewish cultural and linguistic matrix is the context in which the Fourth Gospel was written. The centers of Hellenization in the Levant were Damascus in the north and Alexandria in the south. Palestine was right smack dab in the middle.

The earliest manuscript of the Fourth Gospel ("John") in existence is in Greek. Written on papyrus around 120-180 CE, it was intended to propagandize the message that Jesus was a superior god come to earth as human (a pagan religious theme) and was a doer of miracles so powerful that "whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (3:16). Such claims were made to convince potential converts from paganism that the Jewish deities were stronger. It was this fusion of Platonic and Aristotelian theology with Jewish thought that also gave birth to the "Christian" concepts of divine omnipotence, omniscience and benevolence. "John" is the only canonical gospel which has Jesus claiming to be a god. I use the term "John" for familiarity. The Fourth Gospel is, in fact, anonymous.

John 21:20-24 claims the Fourth Gospel was inspired by 'the Beloved Disciple.' Title "Gospel According to John" ("Kata Ioannen Euangelion") was attached to it in the third century when the gospels were being gathered together and circulated as a collection.

The "Beloved Disciple" is an enigmatic figure. He is never actually identified by name. Instead, he is the young man laying on Jesus at the last supper (John 13:22-25). Or he is the young man who ran away -- naked -- when Jesus was arrested. He is even present at the crucifixion.

John's "beloved disciple" may also have been modeled on the wealthy young disciple that Clement of Alexandria mentions in his letter to "Theodore" in reference to a now-lost, more complete version of Mark intended for those "perfect in their faith."

This earlier complete version of Mark describes a scene in which Jesus reanimates a wealthy young man who died. Naked except for a linen covering, the young man awakens and expresses his love for Jesus. He stays with Jesus overnight so he can learn the "mysteries of the Kingdom of God." St. Clement is quick to refute any notion of the nudity involving same-gender sex, and indeed, it's the only reason St. Clement brought it up in the first place. [see Morton Smith; "Clement of Alexandria and a Secret Gospel of Mark"]

What really makes the Fourth Gospel unique is Jesus' discourses with his disciples. These are not comparable to the sayings collections in of Mark, Matthew, Luke, or in the Gospel of Thomas, or in "Q." In John's gospel, Jesus lectures and everyone else is pretty much absent or silent. There is so little interaction that John is primarily a collection of Jesus talking about himself; "I am the light" "I am the Way," "Only through me," and so on.

An example of Jesus' bombast is contained in the story of Jesus and Nicodemus.

Nicodemus comes to see Jesus and recognizes that Jesus is a wise rabbi sent by God. At one point Jesus tells Nicodemus, "Unless you're reborn, you'll never enter the Kingdom of God." Nicodemus, of course, understands the rebirth reference as a physical rebirth. So he asks Jesus, "How can anybody who has gotten old go back into his mother's womb to be reborn?" This gives Jesus an opportunity to pontificate. And pontificate he does, filling up the whole rest of the chapter.

The author of the Gospel of John uniquely places himself (and those whom he represents) as separated from "the Jews." Historically speaking, this separation happened around 90 CE when the Hebrew Jews kicked the Greek Jews out of the synagogues for heresy and for sucking up to the Romans. This also probably explains why John provides some light antisemitism when he has Jesus speak of the Passover of "the Jews" (John 2:13, 6:4, 11:55), a religious festival of "the Jews" (John 5:1), the Festival of Tabernacles (Sukkot) of "the Jews" (John 7:2), and so on. Clearly, the "Greek" Jesus created by John is emphatically not "a Jew." True, Jesus is called a Jew twice in John: once by the Samaritan woman (John 4:9) and once by Pontius Pilate (John 18:35). But in both instances the speaker is a foreigner, and in both instances the term "Jew" is used in its sense of "person of Judah," as contrasted with a Samaritan or a Roman.

The same applies in John 4:22, where Jesus says to the Samaritan woman, "You [Samaritans] do not really know whom you worship, but we [Jews] know whom we worship, because salvation is from [us] the Jews."

In John's statement, "salvation is from the Jews" does not mean the Jewish people, per se, because "salvation" is has now become the inheritance of the true worshipers of God, as defined by Jesus in John 4:23. Christian sectarian Jews are good. All other Jews are bad. John's idea of "a Jew" finally becomes someone of whom he has Jesus condemn as a "son of the devil."

The Fourth Gospel is not about Jesus the Nazarene Jew, nor was it written by or for other Jews.

John was written as propaganda, to attract converts from among the pagans and Hellenized Jews, and to shift the blame for killing God away from the powerful dominant Romans onto Jesus' own Jewish people.

Ironically, the same community that wrote the Fourth Gospel started as a breakaway sect of Jews who eventually attacked the Jewish faith itself -- and in so doing, gave birth to antisemitism.

Poets Retreat

If I didn't have my problems

I wouldn't know the things I did,
Compassion and caring,
Giving and receiving love,
Pain and surviving.

I wouldn't have met the people I did,
All my online friends,
The staff and patients who became friends,
And even the people who I've met elsewhere.

I wouldn't be grateful for the things I am,
Being able to learn to walk over and over,
The sun and the rain and all the rainbows I've seen,
Being able to eat and drink what I want to when I want to.

I wouldn't be leading the life I do,
All the things that I can do,
Learning from so many things,
But still dreaming about the things I can't do.

I wouldn't be the person that I am,
Having fun when I do,
Or being completely serious at times,
But mostly, just being Me.

Calling all Translators

If you have a second language to English that you are fluent in please consider joining the Witcheschool Translators and help translate material

We want to help Don stand tall and proud at his first presentation to the Interfaith World, and state that the Tradition deserves to be recognized by the most respected Interfaith Body “The Parliament of World’s Religions”

On December 3rd, 2009, Rev. Don Lewis will be at the Parliament of the World’s Religions and this will be a major chance to present the Correllian tradition to the world. Currently he is planning to bring copies of The Five Mystic Secrets (in 7 Languages), What is Wicca? (Three Languages) and The Comic “Come Join Us for a Wiccan Ritual” (Two Languages). We also plan to share those classes already translated.

We are looking for help getting What is Wicca? Translated at least into Spanish, and maybe more languages. We currently have French, German and English. It is my hope that we can have more languages represented. I know it’s a big favor to ask. We will need it by November 25th, 2009. The more languages the better, of course, and we do appreciate any help we can get.

THE ORDER OF WEB WEAVERS CRYSTAL WEB MAPPING PROJECT

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: www@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be
Krystel
