Pagan Calendar April 4 10

April 4. The annual festival of Cybele, the Megalesia, was celebrated on this date in ancient Rome. She was a goddess of fertility whose cult originated in Phrygia. Her male attendants were self-castrated priests and worship of her was wild and orgiastic.

April 5. Festival of Kuan Yin. Every year on this day, Kuan Yin (the powerful Chinese goddess of healing, mercy, compassion, and forgiveness) is invoked for protection, love, mercy, and wisdom. Offerings of incense and violet-colored candles are placed on her altar, along with rolled-up pieces of rice paper upon which various wishes have been written.

April 6. In France, a children's springtime festival takes place on this day. Miniature pine boats, each holding a burning candle, are cast into the estuaries of the Moselle River to symbolize the "sea of life" and the happiness of sailing its sacred waves.

April 7. The Blajini (or "kindly ones") are celebrated annually on this day in various parts of Rumania. This is a sacred day in which offerings are made to the beneficial spirits of the water and the Underworld.

April 8. On this date in 1994, a group of Pagans carrying placards, banners, balloons, and streamers paraded joyously in Gainesville, Florida. They praised the Mother Goddess and invited all to celebrate the beauty of life. The focus of this Freedom of Religion Parade (sponsored by the Alachua Pagan Alliance) was to highlight the religious diversity of the community and to help foster tolerance.

April 9. Feast of A-Ma. Once a year on this day, the ancient goddess A-Ma is honored with a religious festival in the Portuguese territory of Macao. A-Ma is the patroness of fisherman and all those who sail the sea.

This day is sacred to all Amazon goddesses.

In England, the Hocktide Festival takes place on this date each year to celebrate the triumph of the Saxon she-warriors who battled against Danish invaders in the year A.D. 1002.

April 10. According to Celtic folklore, the Sun dances each year on this day. In many parts of Ireland, people arise at the first light of dawn to watch the Sun "dance" in a shimmering bowl of water.

Bau, the Goddess Mother of Ea, was honored each year on this day in ancient Babylonia with a sacred religious festival called the Day of Bau.

The folklore and magic of mirrors

<http://occultview.com/category/folklore/>

The humble mirror has considerable mystical significance. We all know that breaking a mirror is supposed to be bad luck. Why is that? What is the folklore behind the mirror and the power of our reflection?

In the distant past, still pools or bowls filled with water were used for divination. This was called catoptromancy. Remember the scene from the Lord of the Rings movie, where Galadriel showed Frodo possible futures in a bowl of sacred water. That scene was inspired by the actual use of reflective surfaces for scrying by ancient Greek and Roman oracles. If for some reason this bowl of water fell and broke during the scrying, it was considered an act of fate and an omen of doom. From this came the common superstition that a broken mirror is bad luck. The use of a scrying mirror or crystal ball is still a common means of divination today. Using a scrying mirror for inducing a trance to contact higher dimensions remains a very powerful tool for the modern occultist.

Also contributing to the idea of a broken mirror being bad luck is the belief that our reflections contain part of our soul. This idea is also very old. Breaking our reflection would be like breaking our spirit. There are tribes that refused to let their picture be taken, since they thought the picture will steal part of their spirit, or that the image could be used against them with black magic.

In the past in parts of Europe, when someone in the household died, the mirrors of the home were covered or turned around facing the wall. It was felt that when the body was to be taken away, they did not want the dead to see their reflection and decide to stay to haunt the household. Even bowls of open water would be emptied or covered for the same reason...the power of the reflection. The eyes of the dead were considered dangerous and those eyes had to be closed or the head covered. Our eyes are our mirrors to the soul, and see one's own reflection in the eyes of the dead was thought to be bad mojo.

Interestingly, the idea that our reflection could be potentially harmful has gone away with the arrival of photography. The best example of this was the emergence of the post-mortem mourning and memorial image. This sad, macabre practice of photographing the dead had its day in the Victorian era when photography arrived. The dead were often dressed and posed to look like they were sleeping. No more turning mirrors around, now we took pictures and displayed them! It shows how belief systems can really change. The first type of camera was the daguerreotype. With the daguerreotype an image was embedded into a mirror-polished metal surface coated with chemicals. It is ironic that now the mirror was used to literally capture the reflection of the dead.

Yet beliefs have not really changed entirely. With the beginning of photography emerged spiritualist photography. Capturing images of spirits became a fad. Most of these photos were fake or double exposures. Yet people still believe that a "mirror" could really capture the spirits of the dead. Even today, the idea of the mirror, the reflection, could capture a spirit still remains. It is called ghost hunting

Mirrors have been used for stage illusions. As the saying goes, "smoke and mirrors." There is the magic mirror of fairy tales, "Mirror mirror on the wall, who is the greatest of them all." The magical mirror is also an important tool for real magick. In a future post I will go into detail about some of the methods for using the scrying mirror and crystal ball for clairvoyance.

Sealed Codices Discovered: Revelation's Seals of the Apocalypse?

<http://occultview.com/>

There has been an intriguing discovery. Ancient codices inscribed on lead plates and bound together may describe events from the earliest point in Christianity. I'm sceptical. If these were discovered by archaeologists, I'd be happier. Instead, there is a story of these being found by a Bedouin in Jordan who then passed it on across into Israel. Sounds suspicious, and there have been forgeries of religious artifacts in the past.

However, assuming this is the real thing, we can speculate that these small codices may be the books mentioned in the Bible's Book of Revelation.

Could this be the biggest find since the Dead Sea Scrolls? Seventy metal books found in cave in Jordan could change our view of Biblical history

"Adding to the intrigue, many of the books are sealed, prompting academics to speculate they are actually the lost collection of codices mentioned in the Bible's Book of Revelation."
Could this artefact actually be the book described in Revelation 5:1-4?

"And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon. And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon."

Since these are made of lead, I assume we'd have to break the seals to open and read them. We can't use an X-ray. The problem is in Revelation, breaking the seven seals will lead to the apocalypse as expressed by the metaphor of the Horsemen of the Apocalypse. As described in Revelation 6, break the first seal and the White Horse appears, break the second seal, the Red Horse arrives, the third seal, the Black Horse, and so on.

Is this discovery a Christian Pandora's Box? In Greek myth Pandora's Box contained the world's evils, all its devils, and when Pandora opened the box this evil was unleashed on the world. If one of these sealed codices is actually the book mentioned in Revelation, could breaking the seals usher in the end of the world?

One of the sealed books pictured has seven rings sealing it, along with rings acting as a hinge on one side. Let's hope they are forgeries! If not, then the appearance of these codices may not be a literal Pandora's Box, but instead may be a sign, a portent, and an omen of doom. To break the seals may be a fulfilment of prophecy! If so, I suggest we don't break the seals, and let the books remain sealed, mysterious artifacts.

DUTY--AND KARMA

SUCH words as Karma and Dharma are not understood. Dharma means Law, and is generally turned into duty, or said to refer merely to some rule depending upon human convention, whereas it means an inherent property of the faculties or of the whole man, or even of anything in the cosmos. Thus it is said that it is the duty, or Dharma, of fire to burn. It always will burn and thus do its whole duty, having no consciousness, while man alone has the power to retard his "journey to the heart of the Sun," by refusing to perform his properly appointed and plainly evident Dharma.

If you will read the Bhagavat-Gita, especially chapters II and III, I think you will find much to help you. There it says: ... "perform thy duty ... and laying aside all desire for any benefit to thyself from action, make the event equal to thee, whether it be success or failure." There is great encouragement in Krishna's words to Arjuna in the second chapter: "In this system there is no destruction of or detriment to one's efforts; even a very small portion of this duty delivereth a man from great fear." Krishna then insists on the scrupulous performance of natural duty. "And considering thine own duty as a Kshatriya, thou art not right to waver. For there is nothing better for a Kshatriya than lawful war."

In order to see more clearly the occasion for his insistence upon performance of duty, we must remember that at the opening of the battle Arjuna "threw down his bow and arrows." This, in India, meant that he then resolved to desert the circumstances in which Karma had placed him and to become an ascetic, or, as has been frequently proposed by Western students, he wished to get away from a state of Society which offered apparent obstruction to spiritual culture. But Krishna refers him to his birth in the Kshatriya -- or Warrior -- caste, and to the natural duty of a Kshatriya, which is war.

The natural caste of Arjuna might have been represented as that of Merchant, but wisely it was not, for this is the book of action, and only a warrior fitly typifies action; so his natural duty will stand for whatever be that of any man. We are not to shirk our Karma; by abhorring it we only make new Karma. Krishna then proceeds to exhort Arjuna again to perform the duties appointed to him, and urges him to do it on the ground that he being a great man should set a good example that the lower orders would follow, saying, "He who understands the whole universe should not cause these people, slow and ignorant of the universe, to relapse from their duty."

The forsaking of worldly action -- called sannyas -- is the same as what is known in Europe as the monastic life, especially in some very ascetic orders. Adopted selfishly under a mistaken notion of duty it cannot be true devotion. It is merely an attempt to save oneself. The course adopted by some Theosophical students very much resembles this erroneous method, although it is practised in the freedom of the world and not behind monastery walls. To-day, just as then, there are those who think true renunciation consists in doing nothing except for themselves, in retiring from active duties, and in devoting their attention to what they are pleased to call self-development. Truly they sought for equal-mindedness, but failed to see that it can only be acquired through right performance of duty, and not by selecting the duties and environments that please us. We have a duty to see that we do all we can in our own place as we see best, undisturbed and undismayed by aught.

The true path to divine wisdom is in performing our duty unselfishly in the station in which we are placed, for thereby we convert lower nature into higher, following Dharma -- our whole duty.

For nearly twenty centuries the Western nations have been building up the notion of a separate I -- of meum and tuum -- and it is hard for them to accept any system which goes against those notions. As they progress in what is called material civilization with all its dazzling allurements and aids to luxury, their delusion is further increased because they appraise the value of their doctrine by the results which seem to flow from it, until at last they push so far what they call the reign of law, that it becomes a reign of terror. All duty to their fellows is excluded from it in practice, although the beautiful doctrines of Jesus are preached to the people daily by preachers who are paid to preach but not to enforce, and who cannot insist upon the practice which should logically follow the theory because the consequences would be a loss of position and livelihood.

The only way to prepare the way for the advent of a favorable Yuga, and for the increase of the number and greatness of Mahatmas, is to establish gradually the conditions for the leading of a true household life. I should unhesitatingly state, that that is the duty of earnest Theosophists and real philanthropists. Let it not be understood at all, that I mean by "family duties" and "national duties," false attachments to the family or to the nation. If family duties are taken care of, our duties to the nation and to humanity would, to a greater extent, take care of themselves unimpeded.

What then is the panacea finally, the royal talisman? It is Duty, Selflessness. Duty persistently followed is the highest yoga, and is better than mantrams or any posture, or any other thing. If you can do no more than duty it will bring you to the goal.

Spell of the Week

<http://www.magicspells.in/>

SPELL TO BLESS AND CONSECRATE WEDDING RINGS

To consecrate, bless and dedicate Wedding Rings to the Lord and Lady, first find the place where you wish to set up the altar. This place must not be disturbed, for it will take on sacred and holy energies, and you will not want anything to happen to this area.

Write two blessings to read to each other if you desire to and use some beautiful music if there is some available. Have a Chalice of wine on the altar to drink from after the blessing. Remember, the more energy and work that you put into your blessing ceremony, the more magical energy it will take on. You may even use an energy bell or Tibetan bell to signify that you are beginning to call those spiritual guides to assist you with your blessing of the rings. Once you have found that place, take a smudge wand of Sage, light it and begin to clear the air around the altar. Constantly, keep Love and Light in your consciousness. Now, move to the four elements and ask for their guiding presence and for their blessing for your rings.

Use a compass if needed to find the proper directions on the Earth. North = Earth South = Fire East = Air West = Water Around = Spirit. Ask for their blessings and honor their assistance. Next, begin to set up the altar, placing each of the two rings you wish to bless on the altar gently and reverence. You may wish to use two 7 day candles (buy cheaply) to represent the eternal presence of the God and Goddess in your life. Black for God, White for Goddess. Red Candle for fire, incense for Air, small bowl of water for west, and salt for the Earth and North.

Once your altar is set up the way you want it, spend a few moments in quiet meditation thinking about what this Ring Blessing Ceremony means to you. Now, allow the altar to fill you with its magic and energy. Feel the magic around you. breathe in the Love and Light from the Lord and Lady. Visual yourself and your love for each other revitalized because of it's presence. See yourself becoming more healthy, whole, and wise. Now, say aloud the Blessings you have written for each other.

Sprinkle the rings with Salt for North; (Earth) Pass rings over or through the red candle flame; South (Fire) Sprinkle rings with water, West (Water) Pass rings through Incense smoke, East; (Air) Say something like:

"We pledge these rings consecrated to the Lord and Lady to each other as an outward symbol of our love for each other ."

Drink some wine from the Chalice holding it each to the others lips. Replace Chalice. When you are ready to end your Ring Blessing Ritual; sound the bell once again, thanking all elements for their presence and assistance. Send them back to their humble abode harming none on their way.

Now, thank the Lord and Lady for their presence in your life. Take a deep breath of the fresh magic around you and repeat: So mote it be!

Stargazing Information

<http://stardate.org/nightsky>

With the constellations of winter on their way out, the stars of spring dominate the sky for most of the night. Leo, the season's signature constellation, stands high in the south by the time the last glow of twilight fades away. Look for the backward question mark that outlines his head and mane, and the small triangle to its left that marks his tail. Virgo follows Leo across the sky. And Boötes, the herdsman, rises in the northeast, marked by yellow-orange Arcturus, one of the brightest stars in the night sky.

This Week's Stargazing Tips

April 4, 2011

The giant planet Saturn marches across the southern sky this week, shining like a golden beacon all night long. It is low in the east at nightfall and arcs across the south during the night.

April 5, 2011

The Big Dipper stands high tonight. It is in the northeast in early evening, due north around midnight, and in the northwest in the wee hours of the morning. Its brightest star is Alpha Ursae Majoris, which forms the top outer point of the bowl.

April 6, 2011

The Pleiades star cluster is in the west at nightfall this evening, above the crescent Moon. The brightest members of the cluster form a tiny dipper. Although those stars are known as the Seven Sisters, only six are easily visible to the unaided eye.

April 7, 2011

Aldebaran, the bright orange "eye" of Taurus, the bull, is close to the left of the Moon this evening. Aldebaran is well into the "giant" phase of its life, so it has puffed up like a big balloon.

April 8, 2011

The Crab Nebula -- the remnants of an exploded star -- stands to the upper left of the Moon this evening, along one of the "horns" of Taurus, the bull. You need a telescope to see it, though, as a hazy, jagged patch of light.

April 9, 2011

Crater, the cup, is well up in the southeast as darkness falls and rolls across the southern sky as the night progresses. It represents a cup filled with wine or water that nearby Corvus, the crow, brought to the god Apollo.

April 10, 2011

Alkes, one of the brightest stars of the constellation Crater, the cup, which is in the southeast at nightfall, is 175 light-years away, so the light we see from the star tonight actually began its journey toward Earth 175 years ago.

The Swastica, an Ancient World Symbol

<http://www.blavatsky.net/magazine/theosophy/ww/additional/ListOfCollatedArticles/Symbol.html>

THE SWASTICA is an ancient world-symbol that is filled with occult meaning. It is an alchemical, cosmological, anthropological, and magical sign, and contains seven keys to its inner meaning. Its symbolism explains great mysteries of the Kosmos. It is the sign of the universal creative force, evolving from pure spirit into gross matter, and contracting back into spirit in an endless cyclic process.

Early in The Secret Doctrine, H.P.B. discusses the meaning of a progressive series of symbols. First an empty circle appears, then a diameter bisects it, followed by a cross within a circle and, finally, a swastica within a circle. The circle with a diameter represents divine nature within absolute infinitude.

The cross within the circle represents the beginning of human life. The swastica has the same, as well as other, meanings. It is called the male and female sign, and appears in an ancient Indian Catechism, on the hermaphrodite goddess Ardha-Nari, in place of the navel, symbolizing the pre-sexual state of the Third Race.

In the Macrocosm, the central point of the swastica represents Deity. The lines of the cross represent spirit and matter, and the four arms bent at right angles represent the perpetual motion (cycles) of the forces of visible and invisible Kosmos.

Applied to the Microcosm, the symbol represents man as the link between heaven and earth. He stands with right hand pointing to heaven and left hand pointing to Earth. The lines of the cross represent the male and female principles in nature, or the positive and negative.

The decussated cross, "X," was used by the Hindus, Brahmins and Buddhists, thousands of years before it appeared in Europe. They bent the ends and made of it the swastica, or Wan of the Buddhist Mongolian. It implies that the central point, the Deific principle, is not limited. The four arms point toward the four cardinal directions and end in infinity. Thus Deity is in all in nature, and all in nature is in Deity.

The swastica is symbolized by the figure 6. Like that figure it points to the zenith and nadir, as well as the four cardinal directions. It is the symbol of Fohat, of the continual revolution of cycles, and of the four sacred Elements in their mystical and cosmical meanings.

One who understands the meaning of the swastica, according to the Commentaries quoted in The Secret Doctrine, understands the relationship of the visible to the invisible, and can trace both the evolution of the Kosmos and the appearance of man and all of the creatures.

H.P.B. also relates the swastica to the worship of Agni (fire), and the sun: Whenever the ancient Hindu devotee desired to worship Agni ... he arranged two pieces of wood in the form of a cross, and, by a peculiar whirling and friction obtained fire for his sacrifice. As a symbol, it is called Swastica, and, as an instrument manufactured out of a sacred tree and in possession of every Brahmin, it is known as Arani.

In a footnote elsewhere in The Secret Doctrine H.P.B. explains that the arani and pramanta were the stick and perforated vessel for kindling fire among the ancient Brahmins.

The name, Prometheus, came from pramantha. Prometheus stole the sacred and celestial fire which then became the terrestrial fire, that of procreation and therefore phallic. He kindles the spark of life in man and teaches him the mysteries of creation, which from Kriyasakti, falls into the selfish act of procreation.

The Scandinavians had the same sign and called it Thor's Hammer. Thor, the god of thunder, held this symbol as a sign of power over men and the elements. In Masonry it appears as the grand master's mallet, and in modern times, it is the gavel of the judge, a sign of power and strength.

H.P.B. calls the swastica a most mystic and ancient diagram, saying also that it is as sacred to occultists as the Pythagorean Tetraktys, "of which it is indeed the double symbol." The swastica is also known as the Jaina Cross and has the same meaning as the ansated Egyptian cross, or tau, and the Christian cross.

Poetry Place

THE OAK OF GUERNICA

OAK of Guernica! Tree of holier power
Than that which in Dodona did enshrine
(So faith too fondly deemed) a voice divine
Heard from the depths of its aerial bower--
How canst thou flourish at this blighting hour?
What hope, what joy can sunshine bring to thee,
Or the soft breezes from the Atlantic sea,
The dews of morn, or April's tender shower?
Stroke merciful and welcome would that be
Which should extend thy branches on the ground,
If never more within their shady round
Those lofty-minded Lawgivers shall meet,
Peasant and lord, in their appointed seat,
Guardians of Biscay's ancient liberty.

Spanish Wiccan Blog and Podcast

Wiccan blog and podcast in Spanish, 13 lunas (13 moons), created and maintained by Rev. Clara Fuentes (aka Harwe Tuileva), a Correllian priestess from Spain.

The blog seeks to keep Pagans and Wiccans from all the Spanish-speaking countries informed by means of an easy access format, and, of course, for free. Besides, the recent creation of a radio program in the form of a podcast completes this successful project that is currently receiving more than 400 visits per day at its website. The wonderful reception granted by the Spanish-speaking community reflects the need of more information of the Pagan and Wiccan community, which was looking forward to counting on this kind of initiatives in their own language.

The blog can be found at <http://www.13-lunas.com>.

The Order Of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

The Order Of World Walkers

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be Krystel

Order of Peace Weavers

The Order of Peace Weavers was created to provide members of the Correllian Tradition with the means of gathering together to collectively promote the weaving of peace into the fabric of society through meditation, prayer, Reiki, visualization, spell working, ritual, creative writing, intentional art and music, and other positive energy work and light work, with harm to none, and for the highest good of all concerned.

The motto of the Order of Peace Weavers is: "Be Peace, Live Peace, Send Love, Weave Peace." We hold a monthly 15 minute group peace meditation on the first Wednesday of every month and would love to have more join us to promote peace.

The Order of Peace Weavers is a chartered order of the Correllian Tradition. Membership is by invitation or application and is open to Inner and Outer Court members.

For more information, please find us at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/orderofpeaceweavers/> or contact moonraven3x3@yahoo.com.
