Pagan Calendar May 30 – 5 June

June 6 On this date (approximately), an annual festival to honor ancestral spirits begins in Nigeria. The festival, which lasts for one week, consists of street dancing, offerings of food and gifts to the Egungun, and ecstatic trance.

In Thrace, an ancient country in the southeastern part of the Balkan Peninsula, a festival called the Bendidia was held each year on this date. It was dedicated to the lunar goddess Bendi.

June 7 The Vestalia, an annual festival in honor of the hearth goddess Vesta, began on this date in ancient Rome. During the eight-day long festival, the shrine of Vesta was opened to married women. After the festival was over, the shrine was once again forbidden to all except the goddess' attendant vestal virgins.

June 8 In many Japanese villages, an ancient rice festival is held annually on this date. Women wearing traditional kimonos recite prayers and light rice-straw fires to honor the god of the rice and to bless the crops.

In China, the Grain in Ear festival is celebrated at this time. The grain gods are honored with old rituals to ensure a harvest of plenty.

June 9 On this date in 1892, Grace Cook (a popular spiritualist medium and founder of the White Eagle Lodge) was born in London, England. Her first psychic vision of Indian Chief White Eagle and other Native American spirits occurred early in her childhood. With the aid of her spirit guide, she authored many books on healing and spiritual growth. She believed that after her death (which occurred on September 3, 1979), her spirit would be reincarnated in Egypt.

June 10 On this date in the year 1692, a woman named Bridget Bishop was hanged on Gallows Hill in Salem, Massachusetts, after being found guilty of the crime of Witchcraft. She was the first person to be publicly executed in the infamous Salem Witch Trials.

June 11 On this date in 1912, spiritualist-medium Ruth Montgomery was born in Princeton, Indiana. Her interest in the world of the occult began in 1956, when she first began attending seances. She has written numerous bestselling occult books and is famous for her gift of communicating with spirit guides through automatic writing.

June 12 Light gold-colored candles on your altar and wear oak leaves in your hair to honor the Greek god Zeus, who is traditionally honored on this day.

In Korea, rice farmers wash their hair in a stream on this day as part of an annual ritual to dispel bad luck and to ensure an abundant crop. This ritual has taken place since ancient times.

The ruler of this tree is Mercury and in magic we use the bark and the branches. Use a branch as a wand to open channels for communication with gods and spirits. It will give you the benefit of drawing energy quickly into the circle. For luck and success carry small pieces of its bark. Some say that placing powder into your shoe will lead you to your fortune.

A-Z of Divination

BELOMANCY is a form of divination using arrows.

Belomancy was anciently practised at least by Babylonians, Greeks, Arabs and Scythians.

One method involved throwing the arrows in the air, the point in which the arrows inclined pointed out the direction to be taken. The arrows were typically marked with occult symbols and had to have feathers for every method. In one method, different possible answers to a given question were written and tied to each arrow. For example, three arrows would be marked with the phrases, God orders it me, God forbids it me, and the third would be blank. The arrow that flew the furthest indicated the answer. Another method involves the same thing, but without shooting the arrows. They would simply be shuffled in the quiver, worn preferably on the back, and the first arrow to be drawn indicated the answer. If a blank arrow was drawn, they would redraw.

BIBLIOMANCY is divination using a book, sometimes a bible is used.

The book will be opened at a random page and while keeping your eyes closed you will point at a line or passage in the book.

Moslems use the Quran for this divination. In the Middle Ages the use of Virgil's Aeneid was common in Europe and known as the sortes Virgilianae. In the classical world the sortes Virgilianae and sortes Homeric (using the Iliad and Odyssey) were used.

During the Middle Ages Virgil's Aeneid was popular. Bibliomancy is a type of Stichomancy: "divination from lines". Some sources refer to bibliomancy as a specialized form of stichomancy, often falsely attributing the word root "biblio" to "the Bible", rather than books in general.

BILLET TEST During a Billet test a question is written on a piece of paper and placed in a sealed envelope.

The psychic then tells the writer what is written on the paper and answers the question.

The Billet reading is often used by stage performers.

Using slight of hand they switched Billets and read the questions in advance. Sometimes the people in the audience are part of the scam. No psychic has ever been able to pass the billet test under controlled conditions.

Chinese Herbalism

Chinese Herbalism is the subject which researched knowledge include basic theory of Chinese materia medica and include crude medicine and prepared drug in pieces and traditional Chinese patent medicines and simple preparations' source, collection and preparation, performance, efficacy, and clinical application. Chinese materia medica is also the medicine based on traditional Chinese medicine theory. it includes Chinese crude medicine, prepared drug in pieces of Chinese materia medica and traditional Chinese patent medicines and simple preparations, etc. Herbalism is the Chinese art of combining medicinal herbs. Herbalism is traditionally one of the more important modalities utilized in traditional Chinese medicine (TCM). Each herbal medicine prescription is a cocktail of many herbs tailored to the individual patient. One batch of herbs is typically decocted twice over the course of one hour. The practitioner usually designs a remedy using one or two main ingredients that target the illness. Then the practitioner adds many other ingredients to adjust the formula to the patient's yin/yang conditions. Sometimes, ingredients are needed to cancel out toxicity or side-effects of the main ingredients. Some herbs require the use of other ingredients as catalyst or else the brew is ineffective. The latter steps require great experience and knowledge, and make the difference between a good Chinese herbal doctor and an amateur. Unlike western medications, the balance and interaction of all the ingredients are considered more important than the effect of individual ingredients. A key to success in TCM is the treatment of each patient as an individual.

Chinese Herbalism often incorporates ingredients from all parts of plants, the leaf, stem, flower, root, and also ingredients from animals and minerals. The use of parts of endangered species (such as seahorses, rhinoceros horns, and tiger bones) has created controversy and resulted in a black market of poachers who hunt restricted animals. Many herbal manufacturers have discontinued the use of any parts from endangered animals.

History of Chinese Herbalism:

Chinese herbs have been used for centuries. The first herbalist in Chinese tradition is Shennong, a mythical personage, who is said to have tasted hundreds of herbs and imparted his knowledge of medicinal and poisonous plants to the agricultural people. The first Chinese manual on pharmacology, the Shennong Bencao Jing (Shennong Emperor's Classic of Materia Medica), lists some 365 medicines of which 252 of them are herbs, and dates back somewhere in the 1st century C.E. Han dynasty. Earlier literature included lists of prescriptions for specific ailments, exemplified by a manuscript "Recipes for 52 Ailments", found in the MaWangDui tomb, sealed in 168 B.C.E. Succeeding generations augmented on this work, as in the Yaoxing Lun, a 7th century Tang Dynasty Chinese treatise on herbal medicine. Arguably the most important of these was the Compendium of Materia Medica (Bencao Gangmu) compiled during the Ming dynasty by Li Shizhen, which is still used today for consultation and reference.

Spell of the Week

RELAXATION RITUAL

Lay or sit in a place where you will not be disturbed for at least five minutes.

Get comfortable. If you are sitting, your back should be straight. Sitting or lying down, your legs should be crossed.

If sitting, rest your hands, palms down, in your lap.

Close your eyes.

Visualize a golden ball of beautiful, warm light surrounding your feet.

If you cannot "see" the golden ball when you visualize it, its okay, just know it is there. The ball of golden warm light always brings peace and total relaxation. Wherever the ball goes tension departs.

Now allow this ball of light to rise up your legs and up your torso. Then allow it to go down your arms to your fingers, and finally up your neck and into your head until covered with total peace and relaxation and all tension is gone.

If you feel tension anywhere, send the ball there and the tension will vanish.

Stay in this state for a few moments. If you are having trouble sleeping, try this.

Be at one with yourself.

When you are ready to come out of this state of deep relaxation, take three deep breaths and feel fresh life and energy coming out of your body with each breath

Stargazing Information

As spring gives way to summer, the signature star patterns of the new season climb into view during the brief nights. Sagittarius, whose brightest stars outline the shape of a teapot, is low in the south by late evening, with the curving form of Scorpius in the south. They never climb far above the horizon, although their distinctive shapes make them easy to find.

This Week's Stargazing Tips

June 6, 2011 The evening sky is alive with creepy crawlers: snakes, a dragon, a lizard, and a scorpion. The most ancient is Draco, the dragon, which winds between Ursa Major and Ursa Minor. Almost 5,000 years ago its brightest star, Thuban, served as the Pole Star.

June 7, 2011 Regulus, the star that marks the "heart" of Leo, the lion, shines brightly to the upper right of the Moon this evening.

June 8, 2011 Brilliant Venus is clinging to view in the dawn sky. It climbs into view about 45 minutes to an hour before sunrise. It is so bright that, with a clear horizon, you shouldn't have much trouble spotting it.

June 9, 2011 The Moon is cruising past the planet Saturn and the star Spica. Tonight, Saturn stands to the upper left of the Moon at nightfall, with Spica farther to the Moon's left. By tomorrow night, Spica will stand closer to the Moon.

June 10, 2011 The Moon and two prominent companions form a bright triangle this evening. Spica, the brightest star of the constellation Virgo, is to the left or upper left of the Moon as night falls, with the planet Saturn farther to the upper right of the Moon.

June 11, 2011 Saturn is within about half a degree of Porrima, one of the brightest stars of Virgo. They are well up in the south at nightfall. Porrima is just to the right or upper right of much brighter Saturn.

June 12, 2011 Summer arrives on June 21, the date of the summer solstice, which is the longest day of the year. But the date of earliest sunrise is about a week before the solstice, while the latest sunset occurs about a week after the solstice

Voodoo

Voodoo has over 50 million followers worldwide. Voodoo is a word of dahometer origin meaning spirit or god. Voodoo is a system of beliefs and rights of African origin. This popular religion, which mixes pagan rites and beliefs with catholic practices, has had to say long stood in bad repute. In Brazil and Cuba, where voodoo flourishes under the names of candomble - macumba - chango - santeria or naniguismo, has millions of followers. Types of voodoo also flourish in Trinidad and Jamaica and even New Orleans, where black and white magic is still called Hoodoo.

In the practise of Voodoo, the Voodoo Doll represents the spirit of a specific person. You refer to the Voodoo Doll the same as if You are talking direct to the person the Voodoo Doll represents. You can give directions to the Voodoo Doll to change an attitude, change their ways, etc. Voodoo Dolls are mostly used for positives, but can also be used for acts of revenge. If you wish to attract the love of another, you can stick a pin the heart of the Voodoo Doll. You can also request the voodoo doll to call upon powerful forces known as Loa.

Voodoo Dancing is intimately linked with voodoo worship and indeed takes so prominent a place in it that voodoo might almost be defined as a dance religion. The drums beating out dance to some extent become the very symbols of voodoo. The drummer is the life and soul of every ceremony. Drummers play their music all through the night with a fierce passion which is occasionally frenzied. For voodoo worshipers a drum is more than a sacred instrument, it is the vessel of a deity. Drums are worshipped and marks of respect are shown upon them. The drum beats govern the steps and movements of the dancers. They also invoke numerous families of Voodoo gods since dancing is a ritualistic act. Music and dancing please the gods because the gods too are dancers. The dancers revolve around the poteau-mitan, each one making up their own steps. Songs are used as accompaniments to dancers.

Voodoo Drawings: Since spirits manifest themselves through people, no statues or pictures are needed. Use is made during ceremonies of symbolic drawings, called veve. Depending on the spirit, these designs are drawn on the ground with wheat, maize flour, crushed birch, coffee grounds or ash. The priest takes a pinch of powder from a bowl and outlines geometric figures, objects or animals.

Certain veve, composed of the symbols of gods extend the full length of the peristyle. It is on these drawings that offerings and the bodies of sacrificed animals are placed. They also possess the magic power of attracting the spirits.

Voodoo Glossary:

Aboba - Ritual acclamation which punctuates the end of rada songs.

Ago - Ritual explanation meaning attention.

Aizan - Has the power of keeping away evil.

Assein - It is kept before the alter for holding candles.

Atutu - Brings to end a period of retreat.

Bagi - Sanctuary room containing the alter to the loa.

Baki - Evil spirit.

Caprelata - Magic charm.

Caye - Creole word for house.

Creole - Native to the country.

Djevo - Initiation room.
Ganmelle - Wooden trestle to hold food for loa.
Hungan - Voodoo priest.
Loa - Supernatural being, god, etc.
Petro - Group of voodoo gods and spirits.
Roumbler - The calling of loa by beating drums.

New Orleans Voodoo arrived with the slaves from the Caribbean. Later, more slaves arrived from Africa and Haiti bringing with them more Voodoo. The first official reference to Voodoo WAS in 1782. Over time, many of these slaves were forced into the catholic church, and as such eventually started to use catholic icons in the Voodoo hierarchy. Voodoo in New Orleans became so prominent that it became a major part of the way of life. Till this day, New Orleans Voodoo is still a powerful force on the culture of New Orleans.

The classic form of sorcery with a Voodoo doll symbolizing the victim in Haiti is well known. Another form used by the sorcerer, by means of incantation, is to lure the soul of the person into a bucket of water. When he sees the image of his victim reflected into the water, he stabs it. If successful the water immediately reddens. A person may also be killed if certain rites are carried out on objects which have belonged to the victim. Whoever casts a spell on an enemy runs the risk of having his secret discovered by a hungan, who in response to demands from the victims family, will not hesitate to pay back in full to the person who cast the voodoo spell.

In Voodoo Spells the "cure-all" was very popular amongst followers of Voodoo. The "cure all" was a voodoo spell that could solve all problems. There were different recipes in Voodoo Spells for "cure all", one recipe was to mix jimson weed with sulphur and honey. Placed in a glass, rubbed against a black cat, and then slowly sipped. To keep your partner faithful in Voodoo Spells, just write the name of the partner on a slip of paper and place in the chimney of your home. Prayer upon the note. In New Orleans Voodoo, the most popular Voodoo Spell was "gris-gris". To stop a voodoo spell being placed upon you, acquire some bristles from a pig cooked at a Voodoo ritual, tie the bristles into a bundle and carry them on you at all times.

Voodoo worshipers are divided into groups centered around a temple (houmfo). This belongs to a priest (houngan) or priestess who directs the ceremonies and serves as intermediary between the believers and the supernatural powers. The priests are attended by hounsi (servants of the gods) who assist them in their offices. Hounsi are chosen from amongst the kanzo, those who have been fully initiated.

LEMURIA

The concept of Lemuria was born in the 1860s when a group of British geologists noted the striking similarity between fossils and sedimentary strata found in India and South Africa.

Geologists noted that strata of Permian age in India, South Africa, Australia, and South America (245 to 286 million years ago) were almost identical in the types of sedimentary rocks that comprised them. In addition, these strata on these continents contained identical fossils of land plants, e.g. cordaites and "Glossopteris" and land animals, e.g. Therapsids.

Because these land plants and animals could not have crossed the open sea and continents were thought to be immobile, geologists explained the presence of identical fossil plants and animals on India, Africa, South America, and Australia by postulating the existence of land bridges and even whole continents that had long since sunk beneath the oceans. In one case, they postulated the existence a large land bridge that once connected India and South Africa.

Ernest Heinrich Haeckel, a strong advocate of the evolutionary theory of Darwin used the hypothetical land bridge in his theorizing.

Haeckel used it to explain the distribution of lemurs in Africa, India, Madagascar, and Malaya Peninsula. He proposed that this hypothetical land-bridge had stayed above water long enough for it have served as the means by which lemurs spread into these areas. The English biologist, Philip L. Sclater named this land bridge "Lemuria" because of its hypothesized association with lemurs. Thus, Lemuria was neither named nor conceived of by prehistoric people, but by geologists and biologists in the 1800s.

When plate tectonics and other more prosaic theories better explained the distribution of strata, fossils, and lemurs, it became clear that Lemuria and other such continents and land bridges never really existed, e.g. Wicander and Monroe (1989).

Lemuria was reincarnated as a lost continent by Madame Blavatsky, the greatest of the modern occultists. Madame Blavatsky incorporated this concept of Lemuria in a book, Lemuria became a lost continent, although still in the Indian Ocean, populated by ape-like hermaphroditic egg-laying creatures. Later writers of occult, lost-continent tales, e.g. Annie Besant, W. Scott-Elliot added their own detail and embellishment to the story of Lemuria, including dinosaurs and 12 to 15-foot bronze humanoids. The final event in the reincarnation of Lemuria occurred when writers of occult books moved the location of Lemuria from the Indian Ocean to the Pacific Ocean. Since then, mystics and psychics have written innumerable books about Lemuria and either tuned into the spiritual essence and vibrations or channeled for the spirits of long departed Lemurians who never existed to begin with.

When the theory of continental drift was developed, people realized that it and other more prosaic theories explained the distribution of animals, fossils, and plants better than lost continents. As a result, Lemuria was allowed to fade away into obscurity, while eclipsed by more realistic theories long before there were GEOSAT and SEASAT satellite data to demonstrate the fictional nature of Lemuria.

The Troll's Nosegay by Robert Graves

A simple nosegay! Was that much to ask?
(Winter still nagg'd, with scarce a bud yet showing.)
He loved her ill, if he resigned the task.
'Somewhere,' she cried, 'there must be blossom blowing.'
It seems my lady wept and the troll swore
By Heaven he hated tears: he'd cure her spleen -
Where she had begged one flower he'd shower fourscore,
A bunch fit to amaze a China Queen.

Cold fog-drawn Lily, pale mist-magic Rose
He conjured, and in a glassy cauldron set
With elvish unsubstantial Mignonette
And such vague blooms as wandering dreams enclose.
But she?
Awed,
Charmed to tears,
Distracted,
Yet -
Even yet, perhaps, a trifle piqued - who knows?

Spanish Wiccan Blog and Podcast

Wiccan blog and podcast in Spanish, 13 lunas (13 moons), created and maintained by Rev. Clara Fuentes (aka Harwe Tuileva), a Correllian priestess from Spain.

The blog seeks to keep Pagans and Wiccans from all the Spanish-speaking countries informed by means of an easy access format, and, of course, for free. Besides, the recent creation of a radio program in the form of a podcast completes this successful project that is currently receiving more than 400 visits per day at its website. The wonderful reception granted by the Spanish-speaking community reflects the need of more information of the Pagan and Wiccan community, which was looking forward to counting on this kind of initiatives in their own language.

The blog can be found at <http://www.13-lunas.com>.

For more information please contact Rev. Harwe Tuileva: harwe1982@hotmail.com

The Order of Web Weavers Crystal Web Mapping Project

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

The Order of World Walkers

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystal High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be Krystal

Order of Peace Weavers

The Order of Peace Weavers was created to provide members of the Correllian Tradition with the means of gathering together to collectively promote the weaving of peace into the fabric of society through meditation, prayer, Reiki, visualization, spell working, ritual, creative writing, intentional art and music, and other positive energy work and light work, with harm to none, and for the highest good of all concerned.

The motto of the Order of Peace Weavers is: "Be Peace, Live Peace, Send Love, Weave Peace." We hold a monthly 15 minute group peace meditation on the first Wednesday of every month and would love to have more join us to promote peace.

The Order of Peace Weavers is a chartered order of the Correllian Tradition. Membership is by invitation or application and is open to Inner and Outer Court members.

For more information, please find us at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/orderofpeaceweavers/> or contact moonraven3x3@yahoo.com.
