Multi-faith Calendar

Coming up:

18th December – Al-Hijra (Muslim)

Al-Hijra, the Islamic New Year, is the first day of the month of Muharram. It marks the Hijra (or Hegira) in 622 CE when the Prophet Muhammad moved from Mecca to Medina, and set up the first Islamic state.

The Muslim calendar counts dates from the Hijra, which is why Muslim dates have the suffix A.H. (After Hijra).

It's a low-key event in the Muslim world, celebrated less than the two major festivals of Eid-ul-Fitr and Eid-ul-Adha.

New Year rituals

There is no specific religious ritual required on this day, but Muslims will think about the general meaning of Hijra, and regard this as a good time for 'New Year Resolutions'.

The start of Islam as a community

The date marks the beginning of Islam as a community in which spiritual and earthly life were completely integrated. It was a community inspired by God, and totally obedient to God; a group of people bound together by faith

By breaking the link with his own tribe the Prophet demonstrated that tribal and family loyalties were insignificant compared to the bonds of Islam.

This Muslim community grew steadily over time, unifying the many tribes that had made up the Arab world beforehand.

Earthly and heavenly power

Islam now developed as a combined spiritual and earthly community, with political and military power working hand in hand with spiritual power and guidance.

At the same time the community developed the religious and ethical codes of behaviour that still provide the foundation of Muslim life.

The Popol Vuh

The Sacred Book of the Ancient Mayas-Quiche

Erin Britton

Written by a nameless author in the mid 16th century in the Quiche language with Latin characters, the Popol Vuh is a valuable record of pre-Hispanic Maya thought.

The Popol Vuh is one of the most important works of Mesoamerican literature and is an essential source for the study and understanding of the ancient Maya culture of Guatemala since it contains descriptions of the Mayan understanding of the creation of the world and human beings, as well as detailing their history, customs, legends and myths.

Origin of the Popol Vuh

In common with other tribes from the Mesoamerican region, the Quiche tribe of Guatemala recorded their history, beliefs, lore and important dates in hieroglyphic form in books (now known as codices) made from tree bark. Although the hieroglyphics could only be read by the priests and other leading citizens, the general population knew of the information contained in the codices through public readings and teachings. By this method important historical information was handed down from generation to generation.

Shortly after the fall of Tenochtitlan in 1521, Hernan Cortes sent troops further into Guatemala to subdue the various Indian tribes and to seize their lands and wealth.

Among the defeated tribes, notable for their numbers and advanced civilisation, were the Quiche.

Most of the Quiche codices were destroyed during the conquest and the great fire that destroyed the city of Utatlan but some survived and were hidden from the Spanish forces.

After the military conquest, missionaries from Spain arrived to convert the native Indian inhabitants to Christianity. These missionaries taught the Indians to read and write in Spanish and soon they were able to write about their history and traditions in their own language but using the Latin alphabet. Although his exact identity is unknown, it was one of these Quiche Indians who had been taught by the missionaries who composed the Popol Vuh.

At the beginning of the 18th century, Father Francisco Ximenez was the head of the Dominican Order in the Guatemalan town of Santo Tomas Chichicastenango. Ximenez had spent several years as a priest in various Indian villages which had given him the opportunity to study the local languages and learn to speak them fluently. Either through talking to local Quiche Indians or through stumbling across it accidentally in the Convent of Chichicastenango, Ximenez discovered the existence of the Quiche manuscript which was to become known as the Popol Vuh and translated it into Spanish.

Yule Crafts

Miniature Yule Logs

These are super easy to make, and in addition to being cute ornaments for your holiday tree, they also make great favors to give to guests at a Yule celebration. You'll need the following:

- A stick about an inch thick
- Red yarn
- Small feathers (you can find these in the craft store)
- Small pieces of evergreen plants - pine, fir, spruce, etc.
- Seed beads in your choice of colors
- A hot glue gun

Cut the stick into 2 - 3" lengths. Decorate each small log with the feathers, evergreens and seed beads as you would a full-sized Yule log. Tie a piece of red yarn around the center and knot in a bow, like a ribbon. To hang as a tree ornament, use a bent paperclip or wire hanger. To give as a party favor, you may want to attach your miniature log to a piece of cardstock, on which you can write a note to friends, such as "Wishing you the blessings of Yule."

Yule Potpourri

You can bring the scents of the Yule season into your home by blending up your own batch of potpourri. Keep it in a Mason jar so it will stay fresh. To use, simply scoop ½ of mix into a small pot, and cover with a few inches of water. Allow to simmer on low heat on your stovetop, adding water as the potpourri reduces down. You can also use a small potpourri-sized crock pot. If you're feeling really crafty, make a big batch, divide into several jars, and then tie with a decorative ribbon or piece of raffia. Add a note card, and give as gifts for your friends at Yule!

Blend together:

- 3 Cups dried orange peel
- 1 Cup dried lemon zest
- 4 Cinnamon sticks, snapped into thirds
- 1/4 Cup whole cloves
- 1/4 Cup pine needles
- A pinch of allspice
- 10 juniper berries

Mix in a bowl and then keep in a Mason jar until you're ready to use.

Yule Recipes

Cashew Nut Roast with Sage and onion stuffing

A sixth of a cup/30g/1oz of vegan margarine
2 sticks of celery, finely chopped
1 medium leek, finely chopped
1 and a half cups of hot water
1 teaspoon of yeast extract (marmite, vegemite etc.)
3 cups/550g/16oz of ground cashew nuts (or other nuts of your choice - almonds work well too)
2 Tablespoons of soya flour
2 teaspoons of fresh herbs - winter savoury is great (if using dried 1 teaspoon)
3 cups/160g/6oz of white bread crumbs seasalt and pepper to taste
sage and onion stuffing

Melt the margarine (in a large pan for mixing) and cook the celery and leek in it for a few minutes. Mix the yeast extract into the hot water (alternatively you could use any stock you like) and add this to the leek and celery. Stir in the soya flour, nuts, herbs, breadcrumbs and salt and pepper and mix well. Allow to cool slightly while you grease a loaf tin. Place half the nut roast mixture in the tin and press down well - then add the sage and onion stuffing (pressing down well again) and place the rest of the nut roast mixture on top. Bake in the oven for about 40 minutes at 180/360 then turn out of the tin and slice. Nice served with all the traditional trimmings.

Variations:- you can substitute wine (red or white) or soya milk for the water and yeast extract. The sage and onion stuffing is optional - it works just as well without it and might actually slice up easier! A layer of sliced mushrooms and garlic is an alternative to the stuffing.

Hot Spiced Wassail (non-alcoholic)

4 cups cranberry juice
6 cinnamon sticks
5 cups apple cider
1 orange, studded with whole cloves
1 cup water
1 apple, cored and sliced
1/2 cup brown sugar

Mix juice, cider, and water in large saucepan or crock pot. Add cinnamon sticks, clove studded orange, and apple slices. Simmer mixture for 4 hours. Serve hot. Makes 12 servings.

Solstice Surprise Salad

1 large unpeeled cucumber
1 15 1/2 ounce can whole chestnuts
4 ounces cheddar cheese
3 tablespoons French dressing
Wash and dry cucumber. Cut into quarters, lengthwise, then thinly slice into a non-metal bowl. Grate cheddar cheese and add to cucumber. Break up the chestnuts into fairly large pieces and add. Toss well to mix, adding the French dressing. Chill for one hour before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Celtic Myths and Legends Timeline and Literature (3)

The Irish myths can be set at certain period that coincided with legendary and historical time-line. The arrival of the Partholarians was said to coincide with that of Noah and the Biblical Flood. Nemed was descendant of Noah's grandson, Magog, son of Japheth. The Firbolgs and the Tuatha Dé Danann were in turn, descendants of Nemed. The Firbolgs were enslaved race in Thrace and Greece, before they arrived in Ireland. While the Tuatha Dé Danann learned all sort of magic, druidism, science and arts from the nother. Japheth's other son, the fictional Fenius Farsaid was said to be the ancestor of the Mil and the Milesians. The Milesians were said to have arrived in Ireland in the 3rd century BC. While the tale of Cu Chulainn in the Ulaid Cycle took place in the 1st century BC, though the death of Conchobar, king of Ulster, coincided with the day Jesus Christ was crucified (c. AD 30). While the reign of Cormac Mac Airt in the Fenian Cycle was said to have set during in the 3rd century AD. Though in the "Colloquy of the Ancients", the heroes Caolite and Oisín survived, during the time of the missionary of St Patrick, in the 5th century AD.

It should be noted that the ancient Gallic and British people left no literature on their myth of their gods and religion, during the Roman Empire. These ancient gods survived on from mainly archaeological evidences, such as inscriptions and their art works (eg. statuettes), and from classical Greek and Roman historians. I have given brief description on some of the Gallic and British deities. According to a 1st century BC Greek poet, Parthenius, the Celts were descendants of Heracles. As Heracles travelled back to Greece with the cattle of Geryon, Celtine, daughter of Brettannus, saw and fell in love with the hero. One day, she hid the cattle, and would not tell Heracles their whereabouts until he made love to her. Heracles slept with her, and Celtine became the mother of Celtus, ancestors of the Celts.

According to another legend about Heracles, written by Diodorus Siculus, the hero met and seduced a nymph named Galata. She was the mother of the Galatians.

No literature survived from Cornwall and Brittany. Breton literature on myth and legend survived only through the writings of French writers.

The majority of the literature Celtic myths, come from Irish and Welsh, and to a lesser extent from the Scots.

Celtic myths, particularly those concerning the Irish cycles (myths) was preserved through oral tradition, probably between the period of Viking settlements in Ireland, from the eighth to the eleventh century AD. They were composed by bards, who would recited the stories, entirely in verses. The Irish sagas weren't written down until the twelfth century AD by monastical scholars.

These tales were recorded in two main manuscripts: the Book of Leinster and the Book of the Dun Cow. These were collection of hundreds of stories about the Ulaid Cycle and Fenian Cycle. Another manuscript also deserved mentioning, is the Yellow Book of Lecan written in the 14th century, containing a large number of stories. The Colloquy of the Ancients can be found in Scottish manuscript called the Book of the Dean of Lismore, in the 16th century.

More authors added more stories to the Celtic myths, in the 16th and 17th century. The most interesting work was that of James Macpherson (1736-1796), a Scottish poet. He caused controversy, when he claimed the work to be that of Oisín, a warrior-poet of the 3rd century AD. It was discovered that much of the works were really his own invention.

Another author was the Irish writer was William Butler Yeats (1865-1939). Yeats and Macpherson were responsible for renewing people's interests in Celtic myths. They also influenced the Romantic movements in art as well as literature.

The main source for the Welsh myths were the Mabinogion. The Mabinogion contains eleven tales. Some of these tales are related or belong to series or cycle.

Dating the individual tales in the Mabinogion, is difficult, because they were probably composed by different writer and at a different time. Culwch and Olwen was one of earliest, continuous tales of King Arthur. The last three Welsh romances paralleled with the works for of the French writer, Chrétien de Troyes who used these materials for his Arthurian romances. (Note that the three Welsh romances does not appear in the Celtic myths, because I preferred the French version in the Arthurian Legends.)

There are even earlier tales of Welsh legends, such as those composed by Taliesin and Aneirin from the 6th century.

Taliesin's poetry were preserved in the Book of Taliesin from 13th century. It was more a collection of ecologies, one of them were on King Urien of Rhegedn, mourning for his son's death (Owain). Aneirin was said to have composed a poem called Y Gododdin, but was preserved in a manuscript known as the Book of Aneirin, that dated around 1250. The Y Gododdin may contained the earliest reference to Arthur.

What I found disappointing about the Irish myths, were the influences of Christianity to the Irish literature. The pagan Celts regarded their gods as their "gods"; whereas the Christian writers had degenerate the deities into little more than fairy people. Also was the introduction of the legends of Saint Patrick to the Fenian cycle. There are many stories or biographies of other saints mixed with Celtic legends. The lives of these saints were purely propaganda showing that the Church was stronger than other gods. The legends of these saints were mostly to stamped out pagan tales of gods and heroes.

Please note, that a number of tales found in Celtic myths, also contain stories about King Arthur and some of his companions. Except for the "Culhwch and Olwen" and the "Dream of Rhonabwy", all other Welsh tales of Arthur or his companions from the Round Table will be found in the Arthurian branch. The except for those two tales I have mentioned, which don't belonged to the mainstream Arthurian cycle.

Thought of the day:

Align your habits

You are making decisions all the time and those decisions directly affect the way your life unfolds. Your level of success and fulfillment depends on how often and how well those decisions line up with your dreams.

Certainly when you're contemplating the big, noticeable decisions, you make sure they align with your values and purposes. But what about all the little momentary decisions you're constantly making?

Those seemingly small decisions have great power because there are so many more of them. And they're decisions you can often make without even thinking about them.

Those unthinking decisions are known as habits. A habit is a decision you make once that is carried out again and again.

Though each action done by habit may be small, the cumulative effect on your life can be enormous. The way to move your life in the direction you choose, is to make sure that all your many habits are working with you rather than against you.

Take the time and make the effort to align your habits with your goals and dreams. Improving those little habits can truly be the biggest decision you make.

Animal Spirits

INTRODUCTION

A long time ago, humans were created to be caretakers of the garden -- Mother Earth. They held all things of creation sacred. The people respected Nature and understood they were only a small part of the whole circle of life. Humans knew each part of creation played a significant role in the contentment and survival of the other. They accepted the divine idea that all things were equal and no animal, including man, held dominion over other parts of creation.

Humankind knew if they attempted to conquer Mother Earth, they would bring great suffering upon themselves. Man knew that Nature was not 'wild' and hostile but was a benevolent friend. Then, by a twist of organized religious dogma, many began to think humans are the greatest and most important part of creation and they saw Nature as 'fallen' and sinful. Man has attempted to divorce ourselves from Nature to the detriment of all creation.

American Indians, also known as the People of the Land, traditionally and historically hold a special knowledge of the land and its inhabitants. Intimate knowledge of the world surrounding the American Indian was possible because of a belief system that considered all things of creation equal and necessary, worthy of respect and honor.

The results of our belief system is tremendously beneficial to the world. We gave the world knowledge of a form of government now enjoyed by people of the United States – democracy. American Indians first domesticated over half of today's world food resources. A vast majority of the world's pharmacopoeia (healing medicine) came from American Indian tremendous knowledge of the plant kingdom. Our knowledge of plant medicine, healing stones, healing clay, and animal wisdom is unmatched in among any people in history.

Although there are over five hundred American Indian tribes, speaking more than one-hundred and fifty languages, there exists universal beliefs that transcend ethnic, cultural and geographic boundaries.

Common among those traditional teachings are the basic beliefs that we should:

Never take more than we need;

Thank Creator for what we have or what we will receive;

Use all of what we have;

Give away what we do not need.

American Indians know to respect Nature and kill only what we eat and use every part of the animal. We do not waste life nor disrespect their spirits but honor and thank them for providing us with life and comfort. We ask our spirit guides to lead us to the spirit of the animal we killed for food so that we may pray in thanksgiving to its spirit. We honor their cousins by leaving a gift where the animal fell.

Today, as in the old days, American Indians give special recognition to the power of the animal spirits. We wear their skins and feathers in ceremony and dance. We paint them on our bodies and carry parts of them in our medicine bags. We paint the animals on our homes and wear animal fetishes.

These practices allow us to remain connected to the animal guides so they may teach us their powers and give us lessons of life. These acts remind us that all things in creation are our brothers, sisters, cousins, and more importantly, our teachers and friends. As humans, we too are animal spirits.

American Indians view all things in creation as having spiritual energy. All things are connected and worthy of our respect and reverence. Our way is to seek balance and harmony within the complex tapestry of life called the Great Circle of Life. As we move within the circle, we emphasize these truths:

Everything on earth is alive;
Everything on earth has purpose;
Everything on earth is connected;
Everything on earth is to be embraced.

A principal tenant of our belief is that all things are connected and we are related to all things in the circle.

All things on Earth Mother and all things in the Universe are capable of being Spirit Guides. Why? Because the Spirit of the Creator is in all things.

Each thing on Earth Mother and each thing in the Universe has its own particular appearance, traits and other distinguishing qualities. In a general way, we can draw certain lessons from these traits and qualities for each object or thing in the universe. We do not and should not attach a particular "meaning" to these things as to do so would be like creating spiritual dogma or doctrine -- and this is something that is a big no, no.

(Organized religions are quite comfortable and totally dependent on man's written dogma or doctrine for their survival and faith. We call this regimentation "Spiritual Thought Boxes" because there is little or no room for individual divine revelation found within the confines of a controlling dogma. Nearly the opposite is found within American Indian beliefs that allow for infinite meanings and interpretations that we call "Spiritual Freedom." In the same way every thing of creation is different from all other things, so it is with our spiritual beliefs - founded within the uninhibited nature of all Creation.)

Therefore, we caution you: Statements made below about the traits, habits and particular distinguishing qualities of various animals, are in no way intended to give a human definition or meaning to other spiritual entities, objects or things. Messages of this nature can only come to the individual through the Creator.

Some say knowledge of the natural power of animal guides has been lost. This is not so. Many people think animals are not spiritual – having no spirit or soul. Most think animals are less intelligent than humans, savage and without society or conscience. This is not so.

It is said that man once spoke with the animals; however, man lost this ability and other powers when he placed himself above the animals as master of the earth having dominion over all things.

Truly, the intellect of animal is different from that of man. Animals are taught differently and speak in different ways. When intelligence is measured in human terms, the animal does not fair well, but if the test were reversed, humans would fail to measure up to animal standards.

Animals know the time and place to migrate, but man cannot find his way without a compass or the stars. Animals live well without the need of tools or weapons. Man cannot. Animals are happy and contented in their environment. Man is not. Animals live among their families all their lives. Man does not. Animals have found the right way to live with their limitations and skills without rancor or strife. Man has not.

Poets Retreat

The curse of being a thinker

Going in circles, they keep on running
Some good, some bad
While others are loving and make me smile,
And some that make me scowl.

But I tire of it,
As they're always there,
Both day and night.
Running and running
Each vying for attention,
But never stopping.

These are my thoughts,
Always just there,
Competing for the forefront
Never a break,
No respite,
Doomed to my thoughts
All by myself.
I sit and think
And think some more,
Knowing I would never
Allow anyone into my head.

What will it take,
To give me a break,
But how can I have
A break from myself?
More wondering,
As I wander through my mind,
By myself,
Once again,
And knowing, it will always be this way.

THE ORDER OF WEB WEAVERS CRYSTAL WEB MAPPING PROJECT

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: www@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be
Krystel
