Midsummer Traditions

A Shrine to the Sun

Make a shrine to the Sun, preferably on a circular surface, either painted a s Sun or covered with a cloth painted with a Sun. Make an appliqué Sun cloth for a lasting treasure which can be brought out and used whenever the Sun's energy needs to be invoked. Alternatively, use gold, orange and red scarves and any sparkly gold materials.. Place the Sun shrine where it will get the most sunlight. There are many different things you cn charge with sunlight. Bring Fire to Water by placing a glass of spring water in the Sun and after a few hours, drink the solar-charged water. You can add specific herbs and gemstones of your choice to the water to bring their unique properties to the solar-charged elixir. Wash all your crystals and eave them to dry and charge in the Midsummer Sun

Midsummer Tradition

A Midsummer tradition to grow flowers and herbs in pots and to put cloth, paste or grass dolls in the pot representing the Corn Mother. This was later forbidden by the Church. Windowsills were draped with rich coloured cloths and decorated with crimson and blue ribbons. Here the pots were placed. They were also given as tokens of love and friendship

Mistletoe

Mistletoe was traditionally gathered on Midsummer's eve or Midsummer's day. To the druids it was particularly potent when it grew on the Oak. It must have appeared to be a very magical plant. It didn't have it's roots in the Earth, but appeared high in the tree and therefore had a life-force of its own, perhaps sent as a gift from the Gods. Wands of Mistletoe wood were gathered at Midsummer when the Mistletoe, like the Sun, was at the height of it's power. These wands were placed under the pillow to induce dreams and omens.

Solar Goddess

Celebrate the solar Goddess Rhiannon (Albion), Epona (Gaul), Macha (Erin). She was known as Mother Time and is found on many Pictish stones riding a horse and carrying the orb of the Sun. She was associated with the dark half of the year which begins here at Summer Solstice.

Spell of the Week

A Spell to Protect the Home from Thieves and Intruders

The following spell was offered by a psychic who has had great success with it as have those people she has passed it onto. It class upon the powerful feminine protective energy or Arachne the ancient Greek spider Goddess.

To begin you will need a small amount of spider web. Before taking the web politely ask the spider whose work it iw. The web is to be placed in a saucepan of water with a whole ginger root finely grated and a handful of salt. Allow the mixture to come to the boil and then cool.

Decant the cooled mixture into a bottle, retaining a little for use right away. This you must pour into a small cup or dish.

Walk around the entire home both inside and out sprinkling the mixture as you go. While walking, visualize a massive web of protection being woven around the home by an immense spider. See the web as glistening spun steel, growing ever stronger as it is woven and lashed together time and time again.

When you are ready, sit quietly with the home with closed eyes. Again visualize the web. This time as an impenetrable barrier. Atop the web visualize Arachne as a giant spider ready to pounce on thieves and intruders intent on entering your home. Arachne will also catch and eat negative energies directed towards the home.

Each time you leave the home, briefly visualize the spider and her web. Tell her you will be away from the home for a while and you need her to be especially vigilant.

A spider in your home should be considered a blessing. To kill a spider creates a terrible run of bad luck and this should be avoided at all costs. Obviously a toxic spider should not be allowed to roam about the home and it is acceptable to take measures against such a threat.

A –Z of Dreams

Abandonment

Someone who dreams of being abandoned by close family may be experiencing greater personal and sexual freedom than he or she has had before. Dreams of being abandoned may also reflect feelings of being unwanted or unloved, feelings of emotional isolation.

Abduction

If the dream is the abductor, the dream indicates a desire for power. Individuals who dream of being abducted are probably going through troublesome times, and may have a feeling of being carried away by events.

Angel

An angel appearing in a dream is possibly a symbol for the mother of the dreamer, or at least those aspects of the dreamer's mother which exercised a benevolent or benign influence over his or her life. A symbol of protection, divine grace, etc. to the dreamer it prophesies peace and unspeakable happiness.

Arrow

This is an ominous dream if the arrow is directed towards the dreamer, or penetrates his body. It indicates that you feel that someone may be plotting against you. An interpretation obviously derived from the significance of the arrow in warfare. Freudians regard this as a sex dream, probably tracing the symbolism to the arrows of Eros or Cupid.

Aura

To dream of discussing any subject relating to aura, denotes that you will reach states of mental unrest, and work to discover the power which influences you from within.

Awake

To dream that you are awake denotes that you will experience strange happenings which will throw you into gloom.

To pass through green, growing fields, and look upon landscape, in your dreams, and feel that it is an awaking experience, signifies that there is some good and brightness in store for you, but there will be disappointments intermingled between the present and that time.

Axe

To see an axe in a dream denotes death. Freud designates this as an erotic dream, although the interpretation is rather hazy. Amongst primitive races the axe was the symbol for God or the Divine Being. Later it became a symbol of solar power, with modern times, however, its symbolism altered and it became a crudely murderous weapon.

Goddess Hatmehyt

(Hat-Mehit) Hatmehyt was the principal Goddess of the city of Djedet, a city in the Delta known to the Greeks as Mendes, and lends her name also to the nome, or district, in which it was located (the sixteenth nome of Lower Egypt). Her name means 'Foremost among fish', and she is depicted as a woman with a fish emblem over her head or sometimes as a fish.

The specific fish with which Hatmehyt is identified may be the Nile carp, the tilapia, or even the dolphin (argued particularly by Meeks 1973), and perhaps there is no need for these identifications to be exclusive. The significance of the dolphin, which was known to venture occasionally some distance up the Nile, would lie in its position as the premier hunter of fish.

Hence the Greeks referred to the dolphin as "king of the fish and ruler of the sea" (Meeks 215 and n. 10). An Egyptian calendar refers to the 28th day of the fourth month of the season of Akhet as a day on which "not to eat the eaters-of-fish in Mendes." Pliny the Elder speaks of dolphins in the Nile as killing crocodiles with their sharp dorsal fins (Natural History 8, 91), and Seneca (Quaest. Nat. 4, 2, 13) speaks of dolphins and crocodiles fighting in the Canopic mouth of the Nile. Such reports may reflect Egyptian ideas about the dolphin. Hatmehyt is sometimes depicted in the solar boat, where her role may have been to dominate the 'fish' dwelling in the celestial 'sea'. A wide-ranging symbolic value is attached to fish and fishermen in Egyptian thought, as can be seen by symbolic images of fishing in tombs and references in the afterlife literature to fishermen and fish-nets which threaten the deceased, implying an identification between fish and mortal souls as such and a concern that one be fisher rather than fish.

In this regard it is worth noting that the word mehyt, 'fish', can also mean 'drowned', and is a term used of Osiris when he is cast into the Nile. The Nile carp, for its part, is otherwise important in Egyptian religion as the fish who consumed the detached phallus of Osiris, requiring Isis to craft a magical substitute phallus for the reconstituted Osiris in order to conceive Horus. There may be a reference to this myth in the Lamentations of Isis and Nephthys, where Nephthys addresses Osiris, asking him to "come to Djedet, O lusty bull ... O lover of women, come to Hatmehyt," (Lichtheim vol. 3, 119). Hatmehyt here is the district, not the Goddess, but the sexual terms in which the appeal is posed allude to the myth, in which Hatmehyt's role seems to be to receive the phallus of Osiris on a 'physical' plane while Isis receives it on a 'metaphysical' one. Hatmehyt's consort is Banebdjedet.

The Touch of a Goddess

by Owen Waters

Human evolution is a 12-stage process all the way from caveman to cosmic consciousness. The achievement of the 12th stage - the ultimate, long sought-after state of cosmic consciousness - is the true pinnacle of human potential.

However, even a fully-enlightened master of yoga can only visit stage 12 temporarily. George King (1919-1997) was a master who entered cosmic consciousness hundreds of times and he reported that it is not possible for a human to remain continually in the realm of cosmic consciousness. This is because, while stage 12 is accessible as the peak of human experience, it is primarily the first stage of the consciousness of a planetary being.

Prior to 1961, it was generally believed that cosmic consciousness was the final goal in spiritual development. Then, George King delivered and published a set of messages giving spiritual seekers a glimpse into the realms of cosmic freedom beyond Earth (The Nine Freedoms, Aetherius Press, www.aetherius.org). This treatise revealed that the path to God involves, not just glimpses of cosmic consciousness, but the full development of the higher faculties of human consciousness followed by cosmic experience.

The term cosmic consciousness, as it turns out, literally means consciousness on a cosmic scale. The One Creator is larger than the entire universe, so it should come as no surprise that your field of consciousness will eventually expand sufficiently to become part of the consciousness of a planet and, later, part of the consciousness of a sun. Even the galaxy is a great and conscious being, and one which is closer still to the heart and soul of the One Creator.

The Earth is an advanced being who, while based in a higher, seventh-density layer of consciousness, maintains third and fourth-density physical bodies in order to provide a home for humanity while we evolve through experience.

In light of her advanced nature, we can see that ancient cultures were quite right in their intuitive knowing that caused them to view the Earth as a sacred goddess. Their natural response, in those cultures at the time, was to worship her as an advanced being.

Today, as we move into the spiritual tier of consciousness with its inherent sense of self-empowerment, worship is no longer an automatic response. Instead, when faced with such awe-inspiring realizations, we may find that love, respect, and gratitude are more appropriate responses.

We can send our love and gratitude to the consciousness of the Mother Earth for providing our home in space. We can send our love and gratitude to the consciousness of the Sun, which converts the cascade of universal energy from the One Creator into forms that give us life.

The Earth is the most spiritually evolved being within our reach and the Sun is the most spiritually evolved being within our sight.

Every day that we live upon Earth, we have the ability to be in touch with this great goddess of light and compassion. We have the opportunity to give our thanks and our love to the consciousness of this great being.

The act of tuning into the Earth and the Sun, then sending them your love and appreciation brings a deeply uplifting response. Try it and see!

100 members of British armed forces are pagans

Monday, 07 June 2010 | <http://www.nerve.in/news:253500316289> | channel: Europe

"A spokesperson of the British Druid Network, Phil Ryder, says there could be more pagans than the figures suggested. 'Druids and followers of wicca tend not to publicise their beliefs for fear of discrimination. In some areas it's seen as odd,' he told the Daily Mail. "

London, June 7 - Around 100 members of the British armed forces are pagans, while another 30 are witches, says a media report.

The strange details about the beliefs of soldiers, sailors and airmen were obtained from the ministry of defence using the Freedom of Information Act, the Daily Mail reported.

Paganism, which focuses on the worship of nature and its 'vitality and spirituality', finds its roots in the traditional religions of ancient Britain. Stonehenge, the ancient British site of stone obelisks, is their favourite place of pilgrimage.

Their rituals and festivals take place in woods or caves, on hilltops or seashores, where members meditate, chant, play music and dance, and recite poetry. Pagans believe that casting spells can help people in their daily lives.

The vast majority of the servicemen recorded themselves as being Christian or of no religion.

Nearly 60 of the servicemen are spiritualists, a faith which believes that the spirits of the dead can be contacted by mediums. Thirty servicemen and women follow wicca, which involves religious witchcraft, or druidism. Both are offshoots of paganism.

Fifty are Rastafarians, a way of life which involves the worship of Haile Selassie, former King of Ethiopia. The Rastafarians are better known for their links with the reggae music of Bob Marley.

A spokesperson of the British Druid Network, Phil Ryder, says there could be more pagans than the figures suggested. 'Druids and followers of wicca tend not to publicise their beliefs for fear of discrimination. In some areas it's seen as odd,' he told the Daily Mail.

However, under the Equality Act, 2006 the armed forces cannot discriminate on the grounds of personal beliefs.

Poets Retreat

When Kindred Meet

Circles glowing; turning, ever stone, and ever burning
The moon on harvest night.
How fade the spheres of wrong and right
When kindred meet

The earth in oneness, spirits flashing across the land
Leave no room to lay or stand
No tracks upon the drifting sand
When kindred meet

The Awin glows in streams of emerald green
Lights upon all who breathe are seen
It's then the living becomes the dream
When kindred meet

THE ORDER OF WEB WEAVERS CRYSTAL WEB MAPPING PROJECT

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wwcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be
Krystel
