Announcement

Witchschool Not-for-Profit

Witch School International has been a closely-held private company since May, 2007. On September 22nd, 2010 the Board of Directors voted to have Witch School International reformed into a Not-for-Profit, and to create a Religious Education Institution. This now moves to the shareholders to ratify this at a Shareholder meeting on November 14th, 2010. If passed, then Witch School will become a NFP Religious Education Organization. This will allow us to do more for the community as a whole.

For members of Witch School, it will not be a big transition. The site will remain the same, and over time continue its massive improvements. By being a NFP we will be able to work with Temples, Shrines and other organizations much more smoothly, and with less artificial barriers. We are very excited by the possibilities.

In other organizations, older member's benefits may diminish over time, but this is not the case with Witch School. Under the NFP Bylaws, all Lifetime members (which we call Charter Members), will continue to hold that status, and can become a part of the school as voting members. When the new rules go into effect, there will be an annual meeting where many of the next year's goals will be discussed and voted upon. The Charter (Lifetime) Members will have a say in this, including voting for some members of the Board, as well as what the focus of Witch School NFP will be. More on this as it develops.

To that end, Witch School will stop selling Lifetime (Charter) Memberships as of October 31st, 2010 in order to allow a smooth transition. After that time, it will be up to the new Executive Board of Witch School NFP to decide what forms of memberships will be created. It will be stated in the Bylaws that Lifetime members will always remain Lifetime members and can never lose that status. It is very unlikely after the Witch School NFP is formed that they will continue to have this type of membership unless it is voted in by its members. We are very enthusiastic about the progress of the school, and we will continue to uphold the belief and trust you have placed in us.

To find out more about Lifetime Members:

Thank you for your continued support as Witch School prepares for another decade of service. Blessings and may you walk in light.

Blessings

CEO, Witch School

Pagan Calendar October 4 – 10

October 4. On this date in ancient Rome, a day of feasting known as the Jejunium Cereris was observed in honor of Ceres (Mother Earth), the corn-goddess and protectress of agriculture and all fruits of the Earth.

October 5. The Festival of the Old Woman (Nubaigai) is celebrated annually on this date by farm workers in Lithuania. The last sheaf of grain is dressed up as a woman and a festival of feasting, merriment, and games is held to honor the goddess of the corn. In the country of Rumania, the Dionysiad wine festival was held annually on this date in honor of Dionysus, Ariadne, and the Maenads.

October 6. On this date, an annual nine-day religious festival begins in Nepal to honor the great Hindu god Vishnu and to celebrate his awakening on a bed of serpents. As part of an ancient tradition, secret offerings are made to the god and placed in unripe pumpkins.

October 7. In the fifteenth century, peasants in Germany celebrated a week-long festival called the Kermesse. A Pagan icon (or some other sacred object) would be unearthed from its yearlong burial spot and then paraded through the village on top of gaily decorated pole. After a week of feasting, dancing, and games, the villagers would dress up in their mourning attire and rebury the icon in its grave, where it would remain until the next year's Kermesse. On this date in the year 1909, famous author and Gardnerian Witch Arnold Crowther was born in Kent, England. He was initiated into the Craft in 1960 by Patricia Dawson, whom he later married. He passed away on Beltane-sabbath in the year 1974.

October 8. On this day, an annual good luck festival called Chung Yeung Day (the Festival of High Places) is celebrated in China. Traditionally good omen kites are flown to carry away evil spirits. The festival also commemorates an ancient Chinese scholar named Huan Ching who, upon heeding the warning of a soothsayer, escaped with his family and friends high into the hills and thereby avoided a mysterious plague of death which swept through the village below, killing every living thing in sight.

October 9. Day of Felicitas. A festival celebrating the ancient Roman goddess of luck and good fortune was held annually on this date in many parts of Italy. For many Wiccans and modern Witches, it is a time for casting spells and making amulets to attract good luck or to end a streak of bad luck.

October 10. Throughout the country of Brazil, the annual Festival of Light begins on this date. The centuries-old festival, which is celebrated for two consecutive weeks, includes a parade of penance and the lighting of candles, torches, and hearth-fires to symbolically drive away the spirits of darkness who bring evil and misfortune.

The Death of Metaphysics

by Owen Waters

Can something as profound as metaphysics reach a point where it will cease to exist?

To answer that, you have to understand the definition of the word metaphysics. It means 'beyond physics,' i.e. 'beyond the study of the phenomena of nature.'

Saying that metaphysics is beyond the study of nature suggests something supernatural. However, as nothing can exist outside of the Creation, then nothing is beyond being natural. Supernatural, therefore, is a word that contradicts itself.

'Supernatural' is an oxymoron, just like 'an exact estimate,' 'clean dirt,' 'fresh frozen,' and 'a definite maybe.' How can anything in Creation be beyond the natural? More likely, it is something beyond the understanding of physicists because it is too subtle to be included in today's physics.

Let's drop the use of the word supernatural. 'Supernatural' implies that some things are permanently beyond our understanding and, in the New Reality, that attitude just doesn't make it any more. If something exists, it can be understood. The first step is to admit that it does exist.

For example, there is overwhelming evidence to support the idea that the human aura exists. The human aura is an envelope of etheric energy surrounding the physical body. While only clairvoyants can currently see the human aura, what will happen when a device is invented which allows the etheric energy of the aura to be directly displayed on a physical monitor screen? One thing that will happen, is a boost in our ability to diagnose health conditions before they can physically manifest and cause real damage.

We do have aura cameras today that interpret electrical signals in the hands and make an estimate of what the aura should look like, but these do not read the etheric energy of the aura directly. Also, we have Kirlian cameras, but they display an electrical reaction to etheric energy, not the etheric energy itself. What we need is technology that can see etheric energy directly and display that on video. Another application of such technology will be clear contact with the spirits of departed loved ones.

The study of etheric energy is in its infancy today. Etheric energy is life energy, an energy more subtle than electromagnetic energy. While electromagnetic energy deals directly with the physical world, etheric energy is pre-physical. Clairvoyants can see it, and people in the spirit world can see it, as etheric light. Most physical humans do not see it at the present time, although we do have the potential ability to do so by developing our in-built, subtle senses and, as we progress through The Shift, people will find this ability unfolding naturally.

Research into etheric energy today is in its infancy. Remember that electrical energy, in the early 1800s, was still a mere curiosity of scientific pioneers. Electricity, it was said, could be felt from an electric eel, it could be seen in the sky as lightning, and observed in biology as the force which moves muscles.

When the Leyden jar, a device for storing a small charge of static electricity, was invented, the door was opened to more research into electricity. Then, with Volta's invention of the chemical battery and its ability to produce a controlled current, laboratory experiments became much easier to perform.

It wasn't long before there were instruments to measure voltage, current and resistance. Then, Faraday's inventions of the electric motor and the electric generator opened the way for electricity becoming the new motive power in the Industrial Revolution, largely replacing steam as a working fluid.

Today's challenges to physics, and metaphysics, are etheric energy and consciousness. Etheric energy research will yield machines which diagnose and heal automatically. It will also produce, among countless other benefits, the means to affect and control the weather. Rain dances are not superstition, by the way, they are conscious attempts to alter the balance of etheric energy in the vicinity, which automatically affects the weather conditions. Etheric energy devices can also achieve that same effect.

Rain-making, etheric energy devices have already succeeded in some basic experiments by Trevor Constable. When he served on merchant marine ships, he would secure his experimental, etheric energy projector tubes to the deck of the ship. The passage of the ship through water continuously recharged the ship with etheric energy. His projector tubes directed some of that energy towards the sky ahead of the ship. Within 15 minutes rain would appear - on a fine day, around the ship, and nowhere else!

The study of consciousness will also expand physics, which is just beginning to recognize the role of consciousness in subatomic behavior. Subatomic particles are displaying signs of consciousness, and this is happening under controlled laboratory conditions. This is leading to the realization that the universe, and everything in it, must be conscious. In other words, the universe must be one big, fully aware, inter-connected, Infinite Being.

The boundaries between physics and metaphysics will blur as the study of consciousness becomes their common ground. Physics will find that it has to expand and become something more all-encompassing than it has been to date. The big turning point will occur when physics grows to include a philosophy of Creational consciousness. When it adopts the habit of asking the question, "How did the Creator's consciousness achieve that?" then it will be on the fast track to its greatest discoveries ever.

Physics, the study of nature, will grow to include everything in nature. When that day comes, there will be no metaphysics because metaphysics will have become a part of the new, expanded physics.

The unknown will have become the known, and our appreciation of the works of the Creator will have grown along with this expanded knowledge.

Can Science Uphold Reincarnation?

By : Abhishek Lodha

The mystery of rebirth or reincarnation, whatever we call it, have been chasing human beings and especially the scientist, since decades. Though, man has been trying to find a solution to this mystery, but conclusive evidences have constantly eluded him. Now, comes the question - Is rebirth possible?

Are there any scientific bases to believe in the concept of rebirth? The idea of reincarnation is thus one of the most fascinating mysteries of existence - whether it is real or not!

A real life incident

The following incident took place in Jhansi a couple of months ago. A six-year-old boy, Taranjit Singh of Ludhiana, suddenly claimed that gradually he is remembering his past life. He was born in a family, where his parents were not economically strong.

Since two years of age the boy made several attempts to run away from his house. As per the small boy's version, in his past life he was born a village named Chakkchela situated in the Jalandar district as the son of Mr. Jeet Singh and his name was Satnam Singh. Taranjit continued to narrate his previous life.

He said that when he was a student of the ninth standard, he was returning from his school on a two wheeler with his friend when they both met with an accident with a different scooter coming from the opposite direction. As a result of that accident, he got several bruises all over his body and because of serious injuries in his head, he died the day after. He also narrated that the books he had in his bag were soaked with blood and he had Rs.30 in his purse.

Taranjit's present parents were shocked on hearing the incident. Things went absolutely beyond their imagination!

As the boy became more and more insistent about his past life, his present father Ranjit Singh, took him to Chakkchela village which is in the Sangrur District and found no existence of the people or the family their son had mentioned. Then someone told the couple about the village with the same name in the Jalandar District.

Ranjit Singh and his family decided to go there as well. Over there they went to the government school, where Taranjit used to study in his previous life and came to know that it was true that a boy named Satnam had died out of an accident some years ago.

After a few days, Taranjit's brother, sister, parents and the relatives of his previous life came for a visit to the place where he lives with his present parents i.e. Ranjit Singh and his wife. Lakhbir Kaur, his previous sister, showed him the album of her marriage and asked him to recognize himself in his previous birth. To everybody's surprise he did it instantly.

After that incident, today Tarnjit is living with the parents of his present birth, as they refuse to hand him over to his former parents, even though they are poorer than them. Understanding the emotions and feelings of the counterparts, Taranjit's previous parents also did not press their claim.

Vikram Chauhan, a scientist initially refused to believe the incident and also the fact that reincarnation exists. But after a series of forensic, handwriting and psychological tests he said:

"I have some scientific basis to claim rebirth is possible". Moreover, Chauhan made this statement because, in his present birth Taranjit has never gone to school as he belongs to a poor family.

Still then, in order to take a handwriting test when the scientist himself insisted Taranjit to write a few alphabets in both English and in Punjabi as well, he did it very easily and wrote them correctly.

Thus things like reincarnation and rebirth have remained a mystery to the layman till date.

Samhain

Samhain is the winter season of the ancient Celts. The Celts divided the year into four quarters: Samhain (winter), Imbolc (spring), Beltane (summer), and Lughnasadh (autumn). The Celtic year began in November, with Samhain. The Celts were influenced principally by the lunar and stellar cycles which governed the agricultural year - beginning and ending in autumn when the crops have been harvested and the soil is prepared for the winter. Pronunciation differs radically between different groups of Celtic language speakers. The word Samhain is probably derived from the Irish Gaelic word "samhraidhreadh", or "summer's end". Samhain is also known as Calan Gaeaf to the Welsh. Bealtaine, Lúnasa and Samhain are still today the names of the months of May, August and November in the Irish language.

Samhain Eve, in Irish, Oidhche Shamhna, is one of the principal festivals of the Celtic calendar, and is thought to fall on or around the 31st of October. It represents the final harvest. In modern Ireland, the name by which Halloween is known in the Irish language is still "Oíche Shamhna".

Bonfires played a large part in the festivities. Villagers cast the bones of the slaughtered cattle upon the flames. (the word bonfire is thought to derive from these "bone fires.") With the bonfire ablaze, the villagers extinguished all other fires. Each family then solemnly lit their hearth from the common flame, thus bonding the families of the village together.

Like most Celtic festivals, it was celebrated on a number of levels. Materially speaking it was the time of gathering food for the long winter months ahead, bringing people and their livestock in to their winter quarters. To be alone and missing at this dangerous time was to expose yourself and your spirit to the perils of imminent winter. In present times the importance of this part of the festival has diminished for most people. From the point of view of a tribal people for whom a bad season meant facing a long winter of famine in which many would not survive to the spring, it was paramount.

Samhain was also a time for contemplation. Death was never very far away, yet to die was not the tragedy it is in modern times. Of signal importance to the Celts people was to die with honour and to live in the memory of the tribe and be honoured at the great feast (in Ireland this would have been the Fleadh nan Mairbh (Feast of the Dead)) which took place on Samhain Eve.

This was the most magical time of the year; Samhain was the day which did not exist. During the night the great shield of Skathach was lowered, allowing the barriers between the worlds to fade and the forces of chaos to invade the realms of order, the material world conjoining with the world of the dead. At this time the spirits of the dead and those yet to be born walked amongst the living. The dead could return to the places where they had lived and food and entertainment were provided in their honour. In this way the tribes were at one with its past, present and future. This aspect of the festival was never totally subdued by Christianity.

On the level of cosmic event, the rising of Pleiades, the winter stars, heralds the supremacy of night over day, the dark half ruled by the realms of the moon. In the three days preceding the Samhain month the Sun God, Lugh, maimed at Lughnassadh, dies by the hand of his Tanist (his other self), the Lord of Misrule. Lugh traverses the boundaries of the worlds on the first day of Samhain. His Tanist is a miser and though he shines brightly in the winter skies he gives no warmth. and does not temper the breath of the Crone, Cailleach Bheare, the north wind. In this may be discerned the ageless battle between the light and dark and the cyclic nature of life and the seasons.

In parts of western Brittany Samhain is still heralded by the baking of kornigou. Kornigou are cakes baked in the shape of antlers to commemorate the god of winter shedding his "cuckold" horns as he returns to his kingdom in the Otherworld.

When the Romans made contact with the Celts, they added their feast of the dead to Samhain. The Christians subverted the recognition of Samhain to honor the saints, as All Saint's Day on November 1st and named October 31 as All Hallow's Eve. This latter became a secular holiday by the name of Hallowe'en. Although using different nomenclatures, all of these festivals and feasts are celebrating the accessibility, veneration, awe, and respect of the dead.

Samhain Candle Superstitions

A burning candle placed inside a hollowed out pumpkin or jack-o-lantern on Samhain works to keep evil spirits and demons at bay.

For good luck, burn black and orange candles on Samhain. Black and Orange are the traditional colors of Samhain and Halloween. On this day their magickal vibrations are at their peak.

If a candle should suddenly go out by itself on Samhain, as though being blown out by wind or by breath, this is said to be a sign that a ghost has come to call.

Always burn new candles at Samhain to ensure the best of luck. Likewise, it is not a good idea to burn Samhain candles at any other time of the year. To do so may cause you to experience bad luck and/or strange happenings over which you will have no control.

Gazing into the flame of a candle on Samhain will enable you to peer into the future. Many witches traditionally scry candle flames on Samhain to receive clairvoyant visions.

It is believed that if a person lights a new orange-colored candle at midnight on Samhain and lets it burn until the sun rises, he or she will be the recipient of good luck. However, according to an old legend from Europe, any person who bakes bread or journeys after sunset on Samhain (Halloween) runs the risk of conjuring forth bad luck in great abundance.

Practical Aromatherapy: The Art Of Storing Your Oils

By Erica Allen

There's a lot of varying information about how essential oils should be stored, and what their shelf lives might be. Should you store them in a dark cool place? Refrigerate them? Make sure they all get used in a few months, or don't worry about it because "pure essential oils" last forever? The truth is, the answer to these questions depends completely on the oil itself. Here's a quick look at how to care for all your oils, to ensure you receive the maximum therapeutic benefits.

There really is a range of lifespans of therapeutic grade essential oils, the reason being is that some oils are highly susceptible to degradation by environmental factors, while others actually benefit from these factors -- with a whole range in between. These factors are simply air, light and heat. So you can see that leaving a bottle open in the sunlight can be the fastest way to age it. Seal this bottle up with very little air in the top, put it in cool storage, and you'll be aging that same oil very slowly. This "anti-aging" method will work for all oils, but is really only necessary for a very few.

One term that's often used, whose meaning is difficult to pin down is "shelf life". This term is used by manufacturers to help guide consumers as to how long the oil will be "good" for if kept in the most common conditions: in a closed bottle on an open shelf somewhere in your house. For the advanced practitioner, this term has little meaning however, because with the right storage conditions, even very delicate oils can last a very long time.

It's also important to consider that it's not the end of the world if an essential oil's aroma gets a little flat. It will still retain much of its therapeutic benefit -- if you still like the aroma, wonderful! Inhale it! At the same time, some oils actually cause skin irritation to some people if they've gotten old. This has been proven for lavender and tea tree essential oils. Again, they many still impart their therapeutic benefits, but for some people (about 18% of the population) get skin reaction to these oils if they've aged too long. The bottom line here is that it's still safe to enjoy the aroma of older oils that have theoretically short shelf lives, but it's probably better to avoid using them in other ways unless they've been stored in a very protective manner.

The fastest aromatics to degrade are those cold-pressed from the peels of citrus fruit. You can imagine that while other essential oils have been steam distilled, solvent extracted, or some even distilled with high pressure liquid carbon dioxide, the citrus oils in a way are still in the natural state the fruit had been when they were picked. These oils are very prone to oxidation, a process where oxygen atoms rob other molecules of electrons. The not-so-technical meaning is that the oils go flat, and lose their "zing".

For reasons simply due to the natural chemical makeup of the oil, it is grapefruit essential oil that ages most quickly -- often having a shelf life of around six months. This can be extended many, many times by storing the oil in a dark bottle, sealed, with very little air at the top, in the refrigerator. You can see this puts a stop to the potential actions of air, light and heat. The best practice of all is, if you will be using the oil frequently, leave some out in a bottle you will work from, bringing the bottle you've got in "cold storage" out as infrequently as possible. This creates a condition where the oil is disturbed the very least over its lifespan.

The next group of oils to consider are the florals. Interestingly, the essential oil steam distilled from the flower of a citrus tree, neroli, is the most sensitive to degradation as well. Neroli has been noted to simply go flat, and some say its important to not only keep it in a dark, cool place, but not even shake the bottle! Other florals certainly have longer shelf lives, on the order of one to two years. It may be the sweeter floral aromas that oxidize most rapidly: lavender and ylang ylang are examples. Rose otto, on the other hand, can still be wonderful after five years.

Most other oils will be at least as forgiving in terms of storage as the florals, some much more so. These include, from most delicate to most durable: the spice oils, the herbs, and the oils from evergreen tree needles. Care should be taken with the oils distilled from spices, as they have that special ethereal top note to them -- they may be best in cold storage unless used fairly quickly.

As for the other end of the spectrum, there are many oils that get better with age, or at least have a shelf life so long as to not be of concern. The "resin" oils are like this: frankincense and myrrh seem to age nicely. Patchouli and sandalwood are two oils that actually command a premium price after they've been put away for storage for several years. Other oils in this category are spikenard, vetiver, and galbanum. So when storing these oils at home, there's really no need to give them special attention at all.

Here you can see the very wide range of correct answers as to how you should properly store your essential oils. The first consideration is whether you'll be using your oils within the first few months after purchase -- if this is the case, there's no need to concern yourself with storage. If you'll be keeping them longer than that, decide how long you'll want to be storing them, and which of those oils falls into the "very delicate" category, the "moderately delicate" category, and the "gets better with age" category. With this knowledge, you can then decide whether to put some of your oils away in cold storage, to maintain their utmost freshness. Through these guidelines, you'll be able to always use oils with the greatest health benefits.

Mabon is here again
Last of the Sabbats, lesser Sabbat
Before Samhain, Witches New Year
Second of the harvests
Giving thanks plentiful
Harvest

Time of balance
Day and night equal, equinox
Again, for once
Night gaining dark
Day losing light
Darkening days

Cold is coming again
The Gods creatures
Slowing down, keeping warm
Turning brown, falling leaves
Preparing, for the sleep
Sweet sleep

The God of Light losing
His radiance, his warmth
His strength, fading
Giving his life willingly
Saving his children from hunger
Dwindling

Gone for a while darkening time
Short while, coming back
Solstitium day, Yule day
Days gaining light
Nights losing dark

You are encourage to consider enrolling your Temple or group as well, as a means of generating potential passive income.

The program works like this: members receive their own button which they can put on their website, in their email signature, etc... offering Witch School memberships. If anyone purchases a membership through your button, you will receive (approximately) 25% of the payment –that is $4 of a $19.99 yearly membership, or $25 of a $99.99 Lifetime Membership.

Each button has its own unique code which tracks payments made through it. If someone buys a membership through your button, then you get the abovementioned 25%.

If you are interested in finding out more about this program, or in signing up for it, go to www.witchschool.biz.

Witch School are offering a discount on supplies to Correllian Temples and groups in good standing: for example the Witch School books at 40% off cover price, and other discounts on the various items the school produces. If you would like to learn more about this, contact Lady Virginia at Virginia@witchschool.com and she will be happy to explain further.

These offers are being extended to all of our Correllian Temples, Proto-Temples, Witan Shrines, Formal Shrines, Personal Shrines, Orders, and Study Groups who might wish to sign up.

THE ORDER OF WEB WEAVERS CRYSTAL WEB MAPPING PROJECT

The Order of the Web Weavers has been working diligently on mapping the Crystal Web. If any of you have a crystal that you have added or removed from the Crystal Web contact us to ensure are records up to date and accurate.

The information we need in order to best catalogue your crystal/s is the following. Your Craft Name and E-mail Address along with your City, State, Country, Latitude, and Longitude. Sent to the following e-mail address: wvcw@correllianorders.info

Please include the above information, if you have removed your crystal from the Crystal Web along with 'Remove' in the subject line. If you have added several crystals then we would need a separate entry for each crystal, unless they are located together. If they are located together then please include how many crystals are at that location.

We are excited about this project and hope that you will be too. Once the crystals have been properly catalogued we can then begin placing them on the map program. This will give us a good visualization on the Crystal Web. Thank you in advance for your participation in this wonderful project.

Bright Blessings,
The Order of Web Weavers

THE ORDER OF WORLD WALKERS

This Correllian order is headed by the Rev. Krystel High Correll and she is offering training for those who wish to join the order. The training consists of twelve lessons, one a month, for a year, offered through e-mail.

The purpose of this order is to fulfill the deeper purposes of the Correllian Tradition--advanced psychic and spiritual work, primarily conducted on multi-dimensional levels. This work includes:

Learning to connect and work with your spirit guides. Conscious dying and conscious incarnation. Advanced dream work. Exploring the known boundaries of the multi-dimensional universe, then conducting independent work to go beyond those boundaries. The study of time and advanced work within it. Soul rescue (helping those who are not aware they have died, or are not willing to cross over). Mediumship (being a voice for the so-called dead, visiting the land of the dead and communicating with them, and building a pathway between the living and the dead). Healing, both personal and of our Earth.

These purposes are divided among five houses that consist of the members who are dedicated to the work of the House.

The Order of World Walkers is a working order. The training is only the beginning. Each of the houses offer work that can be done for the rest of your life, if you choose to do it.

I believe that everyone who chooses to become a member of the order chose this before coming into this life time to continue work begun in other lives.

For more in-depth information, including the cost of the lessons, contact me at krystelneuman@yahoo.com

May You Blessed Be Krystel

Order of Peace Weavers

The Order of Peace Weavers was created to provide members of the Correllian Tradition with the means of gathering together to collectively promote the weaving of peace into the fabric of society through meditation, prayer, Reiki, visualization, spellworking, ritual, creative writing, intentional art and music, and other positive energy work and lightwork, with harm to none, and for the highest good of all concerned.

The motto of the Order of Peace Weavers is: "Be Peace, Live Peace, Send Love, Weave Peace." We hold a monthly 15 minute group peace meditation on the first Wednesday of every month and would love to have more join us to promote peace.

The Order of Peace Weavers is a chartered order of the Correllian Tradition. Membership is by invitation or application and is open to Inner and Outer Court members.

For more information, please find us at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/orderofpeaceweavers/> or contact moonraven3x3@yahoo.com.
